

Healthy Happy Girls

often, from no apparent cause, become languid and despondent in the early days of their womanhood. They drag along always tired, never hungry, breathless and with a palpitating heart after slight exercise so that merely to walk up stairs is exhausting. Sometimes a short dry cough leads to the fear that they are going into consumption. They are anemic, doctors tell them, which means that they have too little blood. Are you like that? Have you too little blood?

More anemic people have been made strong, hungry, energetic men and women by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People than by any other means. They are the best tonic in the world.

Miss Lula Stevens, of Gasport, Niagara Co., N. Y., had been a very healthy girl until about a year ago, when she grew weak and pale. She lost her appetite, was as tired in the morning as on retiring, and lost flesh until she became so emaciated that her friends hardly knew her. The doctors declared the disease anemic, and gave her up to die. A physician who was visiting in Gasport prevailed upon her to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. She did so, and was benefited at once. She is now well and strong—the very picture of health.—Buffalo (N. Y.) Courier.

The genuine are sold only in packages, the wrapper always bearing the full name. For sale by all druggists or sent, postpaid, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., on receipt of price, fifty cents per box. Book of cures free on request.

The opportunity came at last on the 5th inst for the Oregon boys to participate in a fight—something they have been aching for and wouldn't have been satisfied without. The dispatches bear the good news that none was killed, however, so that they have had the zest of a fight without the attendant horrors. The boys are living about ten years in one. They are having the experience of their lives, and probably no event of the future, should they live to extreme old age, will ever approach in importance the position the present will hold in their memories—not even getting married.

Manning entertained the school with a military drill, and also with brief sketches of a soldier's life.

Yesterday, Feb. 9th, was the beginning of the Chinese new year. On the evening preceding the first day of the year, the Chinese begin to hale each other with "Kong Hay Fat Toy." This is their way of wishing each other a happy new year. Just yet, the first month of the year, began February 9th, and 11 others of equally as euphonious names, will follow. It is said by travelers that the last two months in the year, the Chinese in their native land, become sad and do not go about their business with their usual air of cheerfulness or energy. The dying of the old year brings sad reflections to their minds, and they look upon it as a duty to wear a solemn countenance as the old year passes away. When the new year arrives all this is changed, and the Chinaman who has restrained himself and worn a mournful countenance for weeks, puts in two or three weeks making up for the good times he has lost. In Portland the new year festivities usually last from a week to ten days, and many kinds of enjoyment which no Chinese will explain, and which no American could understand, are indulged in while the merry new year season lasts.

Foul-Smelling Catarrh.

Catarrh is one of the most obstinate diseases, and hence the most difficult to get rid of.

There is but one way to cure it. The disease is in the blood, and all the sprays, washes and inhalant mixtures in the world can have no permanent effect whatever upon it. Swift's Specific cures Catarrh permanently, for it is the only remedy which can reach the disease and force it from the blood.

Mr. B. P. McAllister, of Harrodsburg, Ky., had Catarrh for years. He writes: "I could see no improvement whatever, though I was constantly treated with sprays and washes, and different inhalant remedies—in fact, I could feel that each winter I was worse than the year previous."

"Finally I was brought to my notice that Catarrh was a blood disease, and after thinking over the matter, I saw it was unreasonable to expect to be cured by remedies which only reached the surface. I then tried S. S. S., and after a few bottles were used, I noticed a perceptible improvement. Continuing the remedy, the disease was forced out of my system, and a complete cure was the result. I advise all who have this dreadful disease to abandon their local treatment, which has never done them any good, and take S. S. S., a remedy that can reach the disease and cure it."

To continue the wrong treatment for Catarrh is to continue to suffer. Swift's Specific is a real blood remedy, and cures obstinate, deep-seated diseases, which other remedies have no effect whatever upon. It promptly reaches Catarrh, and never fails to cure even the most aggravated cases.
