SALEM LEGISLATURE.

The Bill to Fix Interest on Loans From School Fund Recommended—The State Fair Appropriation.

In the Oregon senate Wednesday the vote was reconsidered by which the bill to reduce interest on loans from the state school fund was passed Tuesday in order that the rate might be fixed absolutely at 6 per cent, the bill as passed authorizing 8 per cent if it could be obtained. It was deemed an objection to leave the matter open to possible brokerage arrangements. The bill was recommitted for amendment.

Dufur's bill to extend the privileges of the Soldiers' Home to the wives and widows of old soldiers was lost, receiving only six votes.

The following bills were passed: To reduce the salary of the Wasco county judge to $800 and that of the treasurer to $600; to do away with the necessity of personal service or posting notice in case of attachment of real property; to create the office of recorder of conveyances for Polk county at a salary of $1,000 per year; to provide the manner of releasing sureties who may become dissatisfied with their risk; to provide that surety companies may sign bonds; to cure defects in certain deeds and judicial sales; to amend the law so as to restrict credits to the sheriff on the tax list charged against him.

State Fair Appropriation Knocked Out. The Wednesday forenoon session of the house was devoted largely to reports of committees and first reading of bills. Twenty-seven committees made reports and 58 bills were reported on.

The principal business to occupy the time of the house in the afternoon was the consideration of the general appropriation bill. The house went into committee of the whole and the various items were taken up one at a time. The most important item knocked out was the state fair appropriation, by a vote of 29 to 30.

Other bills passed were: To prohibit the manufacture and sale of adulterated commercial fertilizers; to authorize county courts to levy a special tax of 10 mills and a road poll tax of $2 for the road fund; to prohibit the sale of deer and deer hides from August 1 to December 1; to give laborers in mines and supply agents furnishing supplies a lien on mining property for claims; to change the time of court terms in the second district; to fix salaries of county judges and to place the clerk of the supreme court upon a salary of $8,000 and give him two deputies at $75 and $50 per month respectively.

In the Oregon senate Thursday, Harmon's registration bill was passed by unanimous vote. The merits of the bill were discussed at length on Mitchell's motion to recommit which finally received only his own vote. In debate the expressions were generally unfavorable to the Hill bill, which passed the house a few days ago by a decisive vote.

The pure food bill passed the senate by a unanimous vote. There was no objection to the main feature of the bill, but a slight amendment was made so as to exempt from making annual reports persons selling less than 25 pounds of butter weekly; specifying the number and the pay of employees of the legislature, including committee clerks, was passed without discussion, only six voting against it.

Other bills passed were to incorporate Eugene, Carlton, Burns, Prineville and Canby, the two last named being house bills.

Two important measures came before the Oregon senate Friday, and neither reached a vote. Amendments to the Daily school law were discussed for half an hour, and the matter being difficult to understand, in its present form, the entire bill was ordered printed again with amendments.

The bill to encourage the use of wide-tire wagons on public roads was passed. The bill to repeal the section appropriating $5,000 for the state fair was discussed half an hour and then made a special order for Wednesday morning. The pure linseed-oil bill was lost, 13 to 11; the bill providing for the Torrens system of registering land titles passed with only three negative votes; the bill for an irreducible school fund in Douglas county passed without question; the bill to reduce the salaries of the county clerk, clerk of the circuit court and recorder in Multnomah county from $3,500 to $2,500 each was passed.

New bills were introduced as follows: To authorize the state school land board to contract loans now out at 6 per cent interest for the future; to provide for the appointment of three supreme court commissioners.

The vote by which Stanley's bill to regulate the practice of dentistry in Oregon was defeated Thursday, was reconsidered in the house Friday, and the bill passed by a vote of 34.

Two other important bills were passed. One is an amendment to the mining laws to facilitate the building of ditches and canals, of special interest to mining sections, and the other is a bill to withdraw certain school lands from public sale and reduce the interest on loans of school funds in conformity with recommendations of the governor in a recent message to both houses of the legislature.

In the house Thursday the following bills were passed: Senate bill providing for a separate board of county commissioners for Clackamas county; to authorize county courts and school districts to display flags on courthouses and schoolhouses; to amend the code relative to the loan of school funds by reducing the interest rate to 6 per cent, and providing for foreclosure proceedings whenever interest becomes in arrears six months; to regulate the hiring of sheep from one county to another and directing inspection;

THE DALY TEXT-BOOK BILL.

It Was Temporarily Defeated in the House.

In the Oregon house Monday the Daly bill for a text-book commission failed by three votes to pass, but a motion for reconsideration was carried by a decisive majority.

The greater part of the day was taken up in discussion of the bill.

The anti-crimping bill, which was referred to the Multnomah delegation, last week, was reported back to the house and referred to the committee on commerce.

The afternoon session was given up to the consideration of charter bills, the following being passed: Mitchell, Dallas City and Moro; Kelly, Brownsville and Lebanon; Smith, Burns; Howe, Carlton; Proebstel, Weston; Dufur, Dufur; Fordney, Enterprise.

Gray secured the passage of a resolution authorizing the secretary of state to give each member and officer of the house a copy of the session laws of 1893, and a history of the early Indian wars.

The following bills were passed: To protect salmon in Alsea bay and its tributaries; to create the office of clerk of the justice court in cities of 50,000 population or over; to authorize Multnomah county to lease the upper deck of the Oregon Railroad & Navigation Company's bridge; to provide for the sale of tidelands; revision of the laws relating to negotiable instruments; to protect salmon in Rogue river; to reorganize the state board of horticulture; to protect salmon in Curry county; to provide for the creation of park commissions in cities of 3,000 population or over; to require county clerks to administer oaths without charge in pension matters.

Kuykendall's bills to provide for county elections and upon the running at large of stock, and Cameron's bill to prohibit the running at large of certain animals, were defeated.

The house concurred in the senate amendments to the Curtis fish hatchery bill, reducing the amount of the appropriation from $25,000 to $15,000.

In the Senate. In the Oregon senate Monday the bill to provide for the reclamation of arid lands under the Carey act of congress was passed by a vote of 21 to 8, after being amended so as to prohibit any one party from taking more than 150,000 acres.

The senate committee reported a substitute for Hawson's house bill for artesian wells, the substitute appropriating $2,000 for an experiment in the county which will offer the greatest money inducement, instead of $42,000, as provided in the original bill.

Stillman's bill to withdraw school lands from sale and place interest on school-fund loans at 6 per cent, passed with only two opposing votes.

The sugar-beet bounty bill was re-committed to the judiciary committee for amendments, and the bill to regulate building and loan associations was indefinitely postponed, because another bill covered the same ground.

The bill to appropriate $25,000 for salmon hatcheries passed by a vote of 17 to 11.

THE CAPITAL BILL DOOMED. Not Enough Votes to Pass It Over the Governor's Veto.

In the Washington legislature Monday it developed that it would be impossible to muster enough votes to pass the capitol building bill over the governor's veto.

The senate was in session but 15 minutes in the morning and adjourned. A resolution was adopted, expressing sympathy for the parents of Sergeant Miles E. Kyger and Daniel T. Kyger, jr., of Walla Walla, members of company I, Washington volunteers, who died recently at Manila.

Bills introduced were: Creating a state board of tax commissioners, consisting of the auditor, secretary of state and land commissioner, to assess railroad property for taxation; providing that $3 worth of poison be furnished by the county to each farmer to kill ground squirrels.

In the House. The Washington house held sessions both morning and afternoon. At the morning session bills introduced were: Releasing personal property from custody, pending appeal; prohibiting the taxing of attorney fees as costs; providing for the county licensing of peddlers; providing for the appointment of a hop inspector; relating to state school taxes; exempting from taxation property of religious, charitable and educational institutions; prescribing the powers and duties of wreckmasters; relating to the disqualification of judges; providing for the foreclosure of chattel mortgages without suit; providing for the appointment of an ex-officio surveyor-general and deputies; relating to assessments for local improvements.

The bill empowering colleges to issue normal diplomas was indefinitely postponed after a long debate.

At the afternoon session nine laid over, nine read a second time, and four sent back to committees.

Bills introduced were: Regulating fishing industry; making state fish commissioner ex-officio game warden.

Bills passed were: Giving cities power to define and punish vagrancy; relating to the method of decreasing the capital stock of corporations; compelling railroads to fence rights of way, and to pay for stock killed; designating the last Friday in October as the date for holding supervisors' elections; regulating the sale of butter and cheese; providing for the organization of diking and ditching districts; giving electric railways the right of eminent domain; granting rebates on road taxes to farmers using wide-tired vehicles.

A light earthquake was felt at Chillicothe, O., and in East Tennessee Monday.

BANQUET STOPS BUSINESS.

The Olympia Salons Adjourn to Dine With Senator-Elect Foster.

Both houses of the Washington legislature adjourned from Tuesday evening until 2 P. M. Wednesday, in order to give ample time to legislators and members of the press to participate in an informal banquet tendered at Tacoma by Senator-elect Foster.

In the senate Tuesday resolutions commending the bravery of Washington troops at Manila were adopted. The Gray-Mantz election case was taken out of the hands of the committee which had been appointed to submit the matter to the supreme court, and the matter will now be practically settled by the senate as a whole.

The permanent school fund investment bill was amended to permit investment in government and state bonds at par, 3 per cent interest, or in county, city and school district bonds at 4 per cent. The bill was then ordered engrossed.

Bills introduced were: Allowing O. M. Hidden $103.50 for drawing plans for the waterworks for the Vancouver school for defective youth; compelling the serving of notice of action within 90 days after the filing of complaints. At present a complaint may be filed and while not being served, any accounts involved do not outlaw; appropriating $10,000 for the completion of the state road established in 1887 from Wenatchee via the Methow river to the mouth of the Twisp river; allowing cities to advance from one class to another at a special election called for that purpose.

House Routine. At the opening of the morning session of the Washington house Tuesday the speaker presented another remonstrance from the citizens of Stevens county against the creation of the county of Ferry.

Bills introduced were: To prohibit the removal of improvements from mortgaged property, without the consent of the mortgagee; prohibiting the sale of personal property, title to which has passed by a conditional sale; prescribing rates to be charged on sleeping cars; for the protection of farmers et al., in the purchase of fertilizers; to provide for the extension of tax rolls by county auditors; (two bills) to amend the law relating to the organization and incorporation of municipal corporations; appropriating $715.63 for the relief of Captain Harry St. George; prescribing the manner of using the label of the typographical union; appropriating $400 for a fish-weigh on the Skykomish river; to enforce the payment of delinquent taxes on timber lands before the removal of the timber; relating to placing poison for the destruction of wild animals; relating to the bonds of prosecuting attorneys.

The house went into committee of the whole on house bill 157, submitting a constitutional amendment, permitting alien ownership of lands, with Judge Mount in the chair.

When the committee arose it recommended that the bill be referred to the judiciary committee.

The committee on public buildings recommended the indefinite postponement of the senate capitol bill and the passage of a substitute bill that does not recognize the award of a contract made by the old commission to F. H. Goss. The house indefinitely postponed the senate bill, and ordered that the substitute bill be printed.

REAPPORTIONMENT BILL. It Is Now a Law Without the Signature of Oregon's Governor.

Governor Geer Tuesday filed the reapportionment bill with the secretary of state, letting it become law without his signature.

Proebstel's bill to suppress nickel-in-the-slot machines passed the senate Tuesday, after a short debate. There was some objection to the bill on the ground that it would not be enforced, but even these objectors admitted it would have the effect of discrediting the machines and driving them into seclusion.

Other bills passed were the following: To make the per diem of county commissioners $3, except in Douglas, Lake, Klamath, Jackson, Yamhill, Gilliam and Union, which should be $4, Umattilla and Harney $5, Marion $2.50, and Multnomah $100 per month; to protect salmon fisheries of the Lower Rogue river; to amend the charter of Brownsville; to codify the laws relating to practice in the justice courts; to require the payment to the sheriff of fees in civil cases and $12 per day for the services of the jury; to constitute the governor, secretary of state and treasurer a state board of equalization; to authorize boards of park commissioners in cities of 3,000 or more population; to make state road tax a lien against specific property and collectable as other taxes.

The memorial to congress favoring the passage of the pure-food bill was favorably reported, and adopted.

Joseph's bill to tax bicycles was re-committed.

Mortgage Bill Passed. The debate upon the mortgage tax bill of Whitney, passed in the Oregon house Tuesday, was at times eloquent as well as stormy, and although the bill passed by a decisive majority, the vote of some of the members was a surprise. The vote was 39 to 16, absent 5.

Other bills passed were: To make violation of the peddlers' law a misdemeanor instead of cause for civil action, as at present; to amend the law relative to the sale of property for delinquent taxes, so as to save labor and expense of posting notices; to establish a fiscal agency for Oregon in the state of New York; to regulate the business of local insurance companies, by requiring a certain capital and a certain number of policies before engaging in business; to appropriate $2,000 for the relief of J. W. Magnes.

MILLER CAPTURES ILO ILO

The American Forces Struck the Blow Saturday.

NOT AN AMERICAN WAS LOST

The Petrel and the Baltimore BombarDED the Town, Which Caused the Insurgents to Evacuate.

Manila, Feb. 15.—The United States gunboat Petrel arrived late last evening with dispatches from Brigadier-General M. P. Miller to Major-General Otis, announcing that Ilo Ilo had been taken by the combined military and naval forces Saturday morning.

General Miller, on receipt of his instructions from Manila, sent native commissioners ashore from the United States transport St. Paul, with a communication for the rebel governor of Ilo Ilo, calling upon him to surrender within a time stated, and warned him not to make a demonstration in the interval.

The rebels immediately moved their guns and prepared to defend their position. Thereupon the Petrel fired two warning guns, and the rebels immediately opened fire upon her.

The Petrel and the Baltimore then bombarded the town, which the rebels, having set on fire, immediately evacuated. The American troops were promptly landed and extinguished the fires in all cases of foreign property, but not before considerable damage was done.

It is believed the enemy's loss during the bombardment was heavy, but no American casualties are reported.

The Official Report. Washington, Feb. 15.—Shortly before midnight, Adjutant-General Corbin made public the following dispatch from Major-General Otis, reporting the capture of the town of Ilo Ilo by the American forces under General Miller, on the 11th inst.

"Manila, Feb. 15.—General Miller reports from Ilo Ilo that the town was taken on the 11th inst. and held by troops. Insurgents were given until the evening of the 13th to surrender, but their hostile actions brought on the engagement during the morning. Insurgents fired the native portion of the town. But little losses to the property of the foreign inhabitants. No casualties among the troops."

A dispatch also came from Admiral Dewey telling of the capture of the city. It was a brief recital of the facts of the case, but it is said contained substantially the same information as that sent by General Otis. It was sent to the navy department, and is expected to be made public in the morning.

GREAT STORM IN THE EAST. It Extends From the Atlantic to Western Texas.

New York, Feb. 15.—The fearful storm which prevailed all day yesterday and last night has increased in violence, and, together with the snow, which has drifted in many places, has almost paralyzed traffic. Trains on all the steam railroads have been delayed for five hours by the storm. Nine Atlantic liners due at this port Saturday have not put in an appearance.

Freight steamers, the voyages of which are growing uncomfortably long, are the Eastern Prince, 24 days out from Shields; Deike Reikmers, 25 days out from Havre; Salerno, 26 days out from Newcastle, England, and the Catania, 18 days out from St. Michaels. The Almida, 55 days out from Shields, has been about given up as lost with all on board.

There is no doubt that a large fleet of steamers has arrived in the vicinity of Sandy Hook, and is waiting outside for the blizzard to pass.

Four Lives Lost. Marlboro, Mass., Feb. 15.—A policeman who went to a small house in the rear of a shoe factory tonight to investigate a fire found the house full of smoke, and in a room off the kitchen four persons lying on a mattress, which had been placed on the floor, all dead, and in the kitchen three other persons in a state of insensibility.

In the South. Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 15.—The South is today enveloped in a storm of unusual severity. From the Gulf northward, and from the Atlantic coast to the western boundary of Texas, a cold wave has settled heavily on the country, and produced the lowest temperature ever known.

Fifty Below in Manitoba. Washington, Feb. 15.—The weather bureau today issued a special bulletin. It shows that 50 degrees below zero was recorded at Minnedosa, Manitoba. The outlook is there will be a marked though gradual rise in the temperature east of the Rocky mountains after today.

Discredit the Andree Story. London, Feb. 15.—According to a dispatch to the Standard from Stockholm, Nansen and Nordenskjold, the explorers, refuse to credit the story from Krasnovarsk of the finding, in the province of Yeniseisk, of the bodies of three men, supposed to be of Andree and his companions.

Rome, Feb. 15.—Prince Napoleoa Charles Gregoire Jacques Philippe Bonaparte, third son of Prince Lucien Bonaparte, prince of Canino and chief of the elder branch of the Bonaparte family, is dead. He was born in Rome in 1855.

A report comes from Washington that the subcommittee of the American members of the joint high commission will concede a portion on Lynn canal, Alaska, to Canada in return for fishing concessions on the Eastern coast.
