

YOU CAN PROLONG YOUR LIFE

by keeping your DENTAL ORGANS in perfect condition, thus promoting good digestion, which is the prime factor of perfect health.

Physicians and Surgeons. (Office over Braly's Bank.)

Physicians and Surgeons. Rooms in Jacobson Block.

Real Estate and Insurance. Office in McMinnville National Bank Building, C Street.

CITY STABLES. Third St., between E and F. E. L. WING, Proprietor.

MEAT MARKETS. D STREET MEAT MARKET. Reynolds & Bond, Prop's.

CITY MARKET. Choice, Fresh Meats, All Kinds. South side Third St. between B and C.

PRODUCE MARKET. D STREET PRODUCE MARKET. C. F. Daniels, Prop.

BARBERS. W. H. LOGAN, BARBER. I am located opposite Burns & Daniels and aim to give all customers good treatment for little money.

HARNESS. ELSA WRIGHT, Manufactures and Deals in HARNESS, SADDLES, BRIDLES, SPURS.

WOOD WORKER. ED HOFF, WOOD WORKER. will repair your Buggies and Wagons, manufacture Office Furniture, Book cases, Wardrobes, etc.

DRAYMEN. W. J. STOW, McMINNVILLE Truck and Dray Co.

BANKING. THE McMINNVILLE National Bank. Paid up Capital, $50,000. Surplus $10,000.

LEE LAUGHLIN, President. J. L. ROGERS, Vice-President. E. C. APPERSON, Cashier. W. S. LINK, Assistant Cashier.

LOCAL NEWS.

G. S. Wright, dentist. Fay Swick—Friday, 24th. A 15-16ths Jersey-heifer calf for sale.

Special cut in men's and boy's clothing at the Racket store. Newest and latest designs in wall paper at Hodson's.

Ed Baker and Sam Gaunt came up from Portland Wednesday evening. Bettman & Warren will receive a new stock of crockery in a few days.

Mrs. Ada Shultz, nee Ada Allen, of Dallas, is visiting Mrs. Harvey Neal. Friday, 24th, Linn, the soprano, Fay Swick, elocutionist, college Glee club.

Come to The Reporter office for type-writer papers. Legal and letter sizes. Mrs. Anna Turner and daughters are home again, after a sojourn of several months in California.

Butterick patterns for sale at Grange & Farmers' store. Subscriptions taken for the Delineator.

D. W. Ralston of Sheridan will ship two cars of dried prunes to the east in charge of L. D. Mulkey of Amity. We now have a few thousand dollars to loan on farm property, at good terms.

Mrs. Ella Durham is caring for her mother, Mrs. G. W. Olds, who is sick at the farm near Bellevue. And why not save postage and C. Grissen before ordering your papers and magazines?

Wm. Waltz of Portland has entered the employ of Elsia Wright as harness maker. Money to loan on good real estate security. Inquire of Winfred Hopkins, this city.

McMinnville certainly has patriotic instruction in her schools. Little tots of five and six years can sing "America" clear through with their eyes shut. The U. S. Army captured Santiago and Hodson captured U. S. A. axe, the best and cheapest warranted axe in the market.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Root of Chehalis valley on Valentine's day. Mrs. Root was formerly Miss Ada Jewell of this city. I am able to furnish loans on first-class farm security, from $2,000 upward, at 7 per cent interest; loans to run from 3 to 5 years. Parties wishing to borrow money, call and see me. R. L. CONNER.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Nelson left on Monday for Baker City, where Ira and Fred have some mining property that the former expects to look after. Family washing, 30c per dozen; family washing, unironed, 20c per dozen; shirt, collar and cuffs, 15c per set; blankets and quilts, 20c each; rag carpet, 4c per yard. McMINNVILLE STEAM LAUNDRY.

The endeavorers of the Cumb. Presbyterian church have begun preparation for an evening of entertainment at the opera house, which will probably be given March 31st. Have you noticed anything peculiar about the ladies' hats this winter? The bird wings now shoot forth from rosettes of ribbon. This looks like a decided step in favor of the anti-vivisection branch of the W. C. T. U.

The annual county Sunday school convention is to be held in this city March 23d and 24th. There will be representatives from all portions of the county. Committees from the different churches to arrange for music, etc.

Private Edwin W. Hampton of Portland, who enlisted in Co. H, Second Oregon, was shot at Manila on the morning of the 22d, during a reconnaissance. He is the first Oregon boy killed by the enemy in the Philippine war. George Hutchcroft of North Yamhill, who had a foot amputated by Drs. Cook & Cable on the 4th of last January in this city, was sufficiently recovered last Friday to return to his home. He is able to go about on crutches, and his recovery is somewhat remarkable, in view of his advanced age and the fact that he was a sufferer from diabetes at the time of the operation.

J. C. Cooper is preparing to publish a souvenir of the Grand Army encampment which is to meet here next summer. It will contain a military history of the county. Several of the great heroes of the civil war served in this county, Generals Sheridan, Smith, Hooker, Wheeler and Russell; Commodore Wilkes visited it, companies were raised for the different Indian wars. The rosters of these companies, also Co. B of the 1st Oregon volunteers, in 1864, and part of Co. A, 1st Oregon cavalry, are at hand for the work. Co. A, 2d Oregon, now at Manila, and all other military organizations will be in the work. The local G. A. R. and W. R. C. organizations, a roster of the department and program for the encampment, county and city resources and commercial advantages will be put forward in good shape. Illustrations of interest will be used. It will contain about 100 pages printed on fine book paper. A valuable addition to our county literature.

Private Edwin W. Hampton of Portland, who enlisted in Co. H, Second Oregon, was shot at Manila on the morning of the 22d, during a reconnaissance. He is the first Oregon boy killed by the enemy in the Philippine war.

George Hutchcroft of North Yamhill, who had a foot amputated by Drs. Cook & Cable on the 4th of last January in this city, was sufficiently recovered last Friday to return to his home. He is able to go about on crutches, and his recovery is somewhat remarkable, in view of his advanced age and the fact that he was a sufferer from diabetes at the time of the operation.

J. C. Cooper is preparing to publish a souvenir of the Grand Army encampment which is to meet here next summer. It will contain a military history of the county. Several of the great heroes of the civil war served in this county, Generals Sheridan, Smith, Hooker, Wheeler and Russell; Commodore Wilkes visited it, companies were raised for the different Indian wars. The rosters of these companies, also Co. B of the 1st Oregon volunteers, in 1864, and part of Co. A, 1st Oregon cavalry, are at hand for the work. Co. A, 2d Oregon, now at Manila, and all other military organizations will be in the work. The local G. A. R. and W. R. C. organizations, a roster of the department and program for the encampment, county and city resources and commercial advantages will be put forward in good shape. Illustrations of interest will be used. It will contain about 100 pages printed on fine book paper. A valuable addition to our county literature.

THE McMINNVILLE National Bank. Paid up Capital, $50,000. Surplus $10,000.

LEE LAUGHLIN, President. J. L. ROGERS, Vice-President. E. C. APPERSON, Cashier. W. S. LINK, Assistant Cashier.

Jesse Edwards has sold his stock in the Newberg bank and retired from the position of president. N. E. Britt, the vice president, will act as president for the time being.

CASTORIA. Bears the signature of CHAS. H. FLETCHER. In use for more than thirty years, and The Kind You Have Always Bought.

G. S. Wright, dentist. The Reporter and Weekly Oregonian one year for $2, strictly in advance. Did you notice the fine assortment of fancy crockery at Bettman & Warren's?

D. M. Hayden of Seattle is here on his annual business visit. A good gentle work horse for sale cheap. Inquire at the residence of A. D. Simpson. Rambler bicycles at Hodson's at $40. Best bicycle on earth. G. & J. clincher tires can't be beat.

Rev. J. W. Beck, financial agent of Mineral Springs college, Soda valley, was in the city Tuesday, and remained until Thursday. Chas. McPhillips returned from mining in southern Oregon Tuesday evening. He believes he and Carl Miller have a prospect of making a stake later on.

Saturday evening Chas. Chaney sold three horses for the neat sum of four hundred and thirty dollars. He thinks it pays to raise good horses.—Amity Times. The Grange & Farmers' Co. have just received nearly 100 cases of shoes, including the celebrated Mastiff line, and now have the largest assortment ever shown in the city.

A. LeRoy, acting grand master of the I. O. O. F., will be in McMinnville next Friday on business connected with Odd Fellowship. A public address by Mr. LeRoy is contemplated. Hear Linn, the soprano, Feb. 24th, who has just returned from filling important engagements in Milwaukee, Chicago and other prominent eastern cities.

C. P. Nelson, manager of the Grange & Farmers' Co., is still making improvements in the store, this time utilizing overhead space by shelving to the ceiling and using a sliding ladder. M. O. Lonsdale of Lafayette recently shipped two carloads of green apples to Texas, for which he received $1.25 per box on board the cars. He is said to have several carloads yet on hand.

Regular services at the Cumb. Presbyterian church next Sunday with the subjects: "Expansion Ideas," 11 a. m., and "Heavenly Music on Earth," 7:30 p. m. Good music by the choir. Come. Mrs. Sarah Miller of Pea Vine ridge died on the 20th inst., at the advanced age of 81 years, and was buried the following day in Happy valley cemetery. She was the mother of Lewis Miller.

Suggested as a motto for the students of McMinnville college at the intercollegiate contest to be held in this city March 10th: "Blood will tell." And if Blood shouldn't win, the motto can be "Blue Blood." W. J. Stater, road supervisor of the Newberg district, is a hustler for good roads. He has made a call for a good roads meeting to be held in his district to discuss the best methods of road improvement.

The school directors of this district have let the following contracts for wood: George Hibbs, 30 cords of old fir at $2.25; J. A. Forbes, 10 cords of old fir at $2.25, and T. D. Henderson 40 cords of oak at $2.25 per cord. Wheat 52c, oats 55c, baled hay, oats and cheat $7, poultry $2 to $3.00 per doz, pork, dressed 5c, live 3 1/2c, bran 5c per 100 lbs, flour 80c a sack, potatoes 65c a sack, prunes 5c, beef $2.25 to $3.25 per 100; butter 40c, eggs 15c.

An early Easter this season calls for early spring millinery. Miss EVA MARTIN is right up to date with a full line of the latest novelties in sailors, cycle and walking hats, also new spring ribbons, including the drawstring ones so popular. The net gain in membership of the A. O. U. W. in Oregon over all deaths, suspensions and losses of every kind for 1893 was 669, making a membership in good standing of over 7000. By a large increase in young members the average age was reduced two years in 1893. Seven new lodges have been organized since last grand lodge.

The season is fast approaching when the city council should give its attention to framing a new bicycle ordinance. The one now on the books prohibits riding on any sidewalk within the limits of the city. This is not a fair law. It might be regarded a fair law in cities that have paved streets. It is well known that in midsummer in this city and cities of like size in Oregon, many of the side streets are thickly coated with dust, and it is a most difficult matter for a bicyclist to make his way through them. No one will deny that the bicycle has come to stay, and that it is a most useful means of travel in seasonable weather. These truths conceded, the ordinances regulating it should be as fair as those governing other matters within the city. The present law is neither fair to dealers nor riders. The former ordinance, which prohibited riding on Third street and required the ringing of the bicycle bell on approaching pedestrians or crossings, was a reasonable one, and would have given satisfaction if the penalty it provided had been enforced against all violators. The city council can feel sure that if this ordinance or a similar one is enacted, they will have the hearty cooperation of all utilitarian riders and dealers in its strict enforcement. The present ordinance was violated often enough last summer to constitute it a dead letter. Let us have fair regulation of bicyclists and stick to it.

W. R. Bishop, employed by the Salem Woolen Mills Co. at Portland, and who is known to many people here, was held up in Portland one night last week and robbed of $5.10. He was returning home from prayer meeting, and had nearly reached his home on east Eleventh street when he passed two men. Just as he got by one of them said: "Say mister." He turned around, to find himself facing a revolver. The highwayman said: "Do you see this gun?" Mr. Bishop replied that he did, when the robber told him to throw up his hands. After he had done so the other robber walked around behind him and went through his pockets. He took the money and also removed a fine gold watch from Mr. Bishop's pocket, but returned it, asking Mr. Bishop if his mother had not given it to him. As he prizes the watch highly, Mr. Bishop was glad to get it back. Then the first robber told Mr. Bishop to move on and not turn back, and he followed instructions. Mr. Bishop has a sinking fund, as he calls it, in which he places a nickel when he walks instead of taking a car, and 15 cents when he shaves himself, and various other small sums which he saves. He had this in a purse, but the robbers did not find it. All things considered, he thinks he got off luckily.

W. R. Bishop, employed by the Salem Woolen Mills Co. at Portland, and who is known to many people here, was held up in Portland one night last week and robbed of $5.10. He was returning home from prayer meeting, and had nearly reached his home on east Eleventh street when he passed two men. Just as he got by one of them said: "Say mister." He turned around, to find himself facing a revolver. The highwayman said: "Do you see this gun?" Mr. Bishop replied that he did, when the robber told him to throw up his hands. After he had done so the other robber walked around behind him and went through his pockets. He took the money and also removed a fine gold watch from Mr. Bishop's pocket, but returned it, asking Mr. Bishop if his mother had not given it to him. As he prizes the watch highly, Mr. Bishop was glad to get it back. Then the first robber told Mr. Bishop to move on and not turn back, and he followed instructions. Mr. Bishop has a sinking fund, as he calls it, in which he places a nickel when he walks instead of taking a car, and 15 cents when he shaves himself, and various other small sums which he saves. He had this in a purse, but the robbers did not find it. All things considered, he thinks he got off luckily.

W. R. Bishop, employed by the Salem Woolen Mills Co. at Portland, and who is known to many people here, was held up in Portland one night last week and robbed of $5.10. He was returning home from prayer meeting, and had nearly reached his home on east Eleventh street when he passed two men. Just as he got by one of them said: "Say mister." He turned around, to find himself facing a revolver. The highwayman said: "Do you see this gun?" Mr. Bishop replied that he did, when the robber told him to throw up his hands. After he had done so the other robber walked around behind him and went through his pockets. He took the money and also removed a fine gold watch from Mr. Bishop's pocket, but returned it, asking Mr. Bishop if his mother had not given it to him. As he prizes the watch highly, Mr. Bishop was glad to get it back. Then the first robber told Mr. Bishop to move on and not turn back, and he followed instructions. Mr. Bishop has a sinking fund, as he calls it, in which he places a nickel when he walks instead of taking a car, and 15 cents when he shaves himself, and various other small sums which he saves. He had this in a purse, but the robbers did not find it. All things considered, he thinks he got off luckily.

W. R. Bishop, employed by the Salem Woolen Mills Co. at Portland, and who is known to many people here, was held up in Portland one night last week and robbed of $5.10. He was returning home from prayer meeting, and had nearly reached his home on east Eleventh street when he passed two men. Just as he got by one of them said: "Say mister." He turned around, to find himself facing a revolver. The highwayman said: "Do you see this gun?" Mr. Bishop replied that he did, when the robber told him to throw up his hands. After he had done so the other robber walked around behind him and went through his pockets. He took the money and also removed a fine gold watch from Mr. Bishop's pocket, but returned it, asking Mr. Bishop if his mother had not given it to him. As he prizes the watch highly, Mr. Bishop was glad to get it back. Then the first robber told Mr. Bishop to move on and not turn back, and he followed instructions. Mr. Bishop has a sinking fund, as he calls it, in which he places a nickel when he walks instead of taking a car, and 15 cents when he shaves himself, and various other small sums which he saves. He had this in a purse, but the robbers did not find it. All things considered, he thinks he got off luckily.

W. R. Bishop, employed by the Salem Woolen Mills Co. at Portland, and who is known to many people here, was held up in Portland one night last week and robbed of $5.10. He was returning home from prayer meeting, and had nearly reached his home on east Eleventh street when he passed two men. Just as he got by one of them said: "Say mister." He turned around, to find himself facing a revolver. The highwayman said: "Do you see this gun?" Mr. Bishop replied that he did, when the robber told him to throw up his hands. After he had done so the other robber walked around behind him and went through his pockets. He took the money and also removed a fine gold watch from Mr. Bishop's pocket, but returned it, asking Mr. Bishop if his mother had not given it to him. As he prizes the watch highly, Mr. Bishop was glad to get it back. Then the first robber told Mr. Bishop to move on and not turn back, and he followed instructions. Mr. Bishop has a sinking fund, as he calls it, in which he places a nickel when he walks instead of taking a car, and 15 cents when he shaves himself, and various other small sums which he saves. He had this in a purse, but the robbers did not find it. All things considered, he thinks he got off luckily.

W. R. Bishop, employed by the Salem Woolen Mills Co. at Portland, and who is known to many people here, was held up in Portland one night last week and robbed of $5.10. He was returning home from prayer meeting, and had nearly reached his home on east Eleventh street when he passed two men. Just as he got by one of them said: "Say mister." He turned around, to find himself facing a revolver. The highwayman said: "Do you see this gun?" Mr. Bishop replied that he did, when the robber told him to throw up his hands. After he had done so the other robber walked around behind him and went through his pockets. He took the money and also removed a fine gold watch from Mr. Bishop's pocket, but returned it, asking Mr. Bishop if his mother had not given it to him. As he prizes the watch highly, Mr. Bishop was glad to get it back. Then the first robber told Mr. Bishop to move on and not turn back, and he followed instructions. Mr. Bishop has a sinking fund, as he calls it, in which he places a nickel when he walks instead of taking a car, and 15 cents when he shaves himself, and various other small sums which he saves. He had this in a purse, but the robbers did not find it. All things considered, he thinks he got off luckily.

W. R. Bishop, employed by the Salem Woolen Mills Co. at Portland, and who is known to many people here, was held up in Portland one night last week and robbed of $5.10. He was returning home from prayer meeting, and had nearly reached his home on east Eleventh street when he passed two men. Just as he got by one of them said: "Say mister." He turned around, to find himself facing a revolver. The highwayman said: "Do you see this gun?" Mr. Bishop replied that he did, when the robber told him to throw up his hands. After he had done so the other robber walked around behind him and went through his pockets. He took the money and also removed a fine gold watch from Mr. Bishop's pocket, but returned it, asking Mr. Bishop if his mother had not given it to him. As he prizes the watch highly, Mr. Bishop was glad to get it back. Then the first robber told Mr. Bishop to move on and not turn back, and he followed instructions. Mr. Bishop has a sinking fund, as he calls it, in which he places a nickel when he walks instead of taking a car, and 15 cents when he shaves himself, and various other small sums which he saves. He had this in a purse, but the robbers did not find it. All things considered, he thinks he got off luckily.

W. R. Bishop, employed by the Salem Woolen Mills Co. at Portland, and who is known to many people here, was held up in Portland one night last week and robbed of $5.10. He was returning home from prayer meeting, and had nearly reached his home on east Eleventh street when he passed two men. Just as he got by one of them said: "Say mister." He turned around, to find himself facing a revolver. The highwayman said: "Do you see this gun?" Mr. Bishop replied that he did, when the robber told him to throw up his hands. After he had done so the other robber walked around behind him and went through his pockets. He took the money and also removed a fine gold watch from Mr. Bishop's pocket, but returned it, asking Mr. Bishop if his mother had not given it to him. As he prizes the watch highly, Mr. Bishop was glad to get it back. Then the first robber told Mr. Bishop to move on and not turn back, and he followed instructions. Mr. Bishop has a sinking fund, as he calls it, in which he places a nickel when he walks instead of taking a car, and 15 cents when he shaves himself, and various other small sums which he saves. He had this in a purse, but the robbers did not find it. All things considered, he thinks he got off luckily.

W. R. Bishop, employed by the Salem Woolen Mills Co. at Portland, and who is known to many people here, was held up in Portland one night last week and robbed of $5.10. He was returning home from prayer meeting, and had nearly reached his home on east Eleventh street when he passed two men. Just as he got by one of them said: "Say mister." He turned around, to find himself facing a revolver. The highwayman said: "Do you see this gun?" Mr. Bishop replied that he did, when the robber told him to throw up his hands. After he had done so the other robber walked around behind him and went through his pockets. He took the money and also removed a fine gold watch from Mr. Bishop's pocket, but returned it, asking Mr. Bishop if his mother had not given it to him. As he prizes the watch highly, Mr. Bishop was glad to get it back. Then the first robber told Mr. Bishop to move on and not turn back, and he followed instructions. Mr. Bishop has a sinking fund, as he calls it, in which he places a nickel when he walks instead of taking a car, and 15 cents when he shaves himself, and various other small sums which he saves. He had this in a purse, but the robbers did not find it. All things considered, he thinks he got off luckily.

W. R. Bishop, employed by the Salem Woolen Mills Co. at Portland, and who is known to many people here, was held up in Portland one night last week and robbed of $5.10. He was returning home from prayer meeting, and had nearly reached his home on east Eleventh street when he passed two men. Just as he got by one of them said: "Say mister." He turned around, to find himself facing a revolver. The highwayman said: "Do you see this gun?" Mr. Bishop replied that he did, when the robber told him to throw up his hands. After he had done so the other robber walked around behind him and went through his pockets. He took the money and also removed a fine gold watch from Mr. Bishop's pocket, but returned it, asking Mr. Bishop if his mother had not given it to him. As he prizes the watch highly, Mr. Bishop was glad to get it back. Then the first robber told Mr. Bishop to move on and not turn back, and he followed instructions. Mr. Bishop has a sinking fund, as he calls it, in which he places a nickel when he walks instead of taking a car, and 15 cents when he shaves himself, and various other small sums which he saves. He had this in a purse, but the robbers did not find it. All things considered, he thinks he got off luckily.

W. R. Bishop, employed by the Salem Woolen Mills Co. at Portland, and who is known to many people here, was held up in Portland one night last week and robbed of $5.10. He was returning home from prayer meeting, and had nearly reached his home on east Eleventh street when he passed two men. Just as he got by one of them said: "Say mister." He turned around, to find himself facing a revolver. The highwayman said: "Do you see this gun?" Mr. Bishop replied that he did, when the robber told him to throw up his hands. After he had done so the other robber walked around behind him and went through his pockets. He took the money and also removed a fine gold watch from Mr. Bishop's pocket, but returned it, asking Mr. Bishop if his mother had not given it to him. As he prizes the watch highly, Mr. Bishop was glad to get it back. Then the first robber told Mr. Bishop to move on and not turn back, and he followed instructions. Mr. Bishop has a sinking fund, as he calls it, in which he places a nickel when he walks instead of taking a car, and 15 cents when he shaves himself, and various other small sums which he saves. He had this in a purse, but the robbers did not find it. All things considered, he thinks he got off luckily.

CONCERT.

Opera House Friday, Feb. 24th.

LOUISA SAWYERS LINN, Soprano. FAY SWICK, Elocutionist.

Admission 25c. Reserved Seats 35c.

C. F. Daniels is doubling the capacity of his home stable.

Mrs. Wm. F. Dielschneider entertained at whist Tuesday evening.

Miss Josie Holmes of Holmes' Gap, is the guest of Miss Clara Irvine.

Mrs. F. C. Ferguson, one of three expert stenographers in the late legislature, returned home on Monday.

The juniors of the Christian church are making preparations for a church fair to be held some time next month.

Miss Ina Cooper left for The Dalles on Wednesday, and expects soon to go to Pullman to live with her sister, Mrs. Nora Doane.

Butchers are complaining of scarcity of beef cattle. The cause is said to be killing off too many calves and shipping the feeders.

Ephraim Ford, son of Mrs. Susie Ford, has been ill of rheumatism, which paralyzes somewhat of the nature of the ailment of his father, lately deceased.

D. M. Nayberger left yesterday for Portland to be absent on business a couple of weeks, during which time he may extend his travels as far as San Francisco.

For the benefit of my many customers who are already anxious to inspect my line of spring millinery, I will state that my opening will occur on or about March 18th.

Mrs. E. S. WARREN.

The beautiful weather of Sunday and Wednesday enabled Dr. S. A. Young to make use of his invalid chair outside his residence, where he greatly enjoyed the sunshine and the change.

N. E. Kegg will soon open a grocery in the St. Charles building now owned by him, and will also occupy the upper story as a residence. His present residence will be occupied by Dr. Leroy Lewis. Kegg is a rustler, and may put in a stock of general merchandise later on.

Prof. Wm. Caldwell, a graduate in music at Willamette university, was in the city last week endeavoring to secure pupils in instrumental music. He will teach in Carlton and perhaps other towns in the county. The young man is a nephew of ex-Treasurer Caldwell.

"Sojourning train robbers, if any happened to have been in that section," this morning remarked a gentleman, "missed an opportunity of a lifetime in not holding up the special train that came down from Salem Saturday night with returning lawmakers and committee clerks. Every member of the legislature and every committee clerk on the train had his pockets lined with gold. Saturday was payday in Salem, and there must have been from $25,000 to $30,000 on the train." It was observed that not a few of those who had had an opportunity to get their hands into the state treasury felt a little uneasy with so much money in their possession. Several lady committee clerks took the precaution to cache their money away in the more undiscoverable recesses of their wardrobes, while one who happened to get her money in greenbacks, confided to a friend that she had her wealth stowed away in her hair.—Telegram, 21st.

W. R. Bishop, employed by the Salem Woolen Mills Co. at Portland, and who is known to many people here, was held up in Portland one night last week and robbed of $5.10. He was returning home from prayer meeting, and had nearly reached his home on east Eleventh street when he passed two men. Just as he got by one of them said: "Say mister." He turned around, to find himself facing a revolver. The highwayman said: "Do you see this gun?" Mr. Bishop replied that he did, when the robber told him to throw up his hands. After he had done so the other robber walked around behind him and went through his pockets. He took the money and also removed a fine gold watch from Mr. Bishop's pocket, but returned it, asking Mr. Bishop if his mother had not given it to him. As he prizes the watch highly, Mr. Bishop was glad to get it back. Then the first robber told Mr. Bishop to move on and not turn back, and he followed instructions. Mr. Bishop has a sinking fund, as he calls it, in which he places a nickel when he walks instead of taking a car, and 15 cents when he shaves himself, and various other small sums which he saves. He had this in a purse, but the robbers did not find it. All things considered, he thinks he got off luckily.

W. R. Bishop, employed by the Salem Woolen Mills Co. at Portland, and who is known to many people here, was held up in Portland one night last week and robbed of $5.10. He was returning home from prayer meeting, and had nearly reached his home on east Eleventh street when he passed two men. Just as he got by one of them said: "Say mister." He turned around, to find himself facing a revolver. The highwayman said: "Do you see this gun?" Mr. Bishop replied that he did, when the robber told him to throw up his hands. After he had done so the other robber walked around behind him and went through his pockets. He took the money and also removed a fine gold watch from Mr. Bishop's pocket, but returned it, asking Mr. Bishop if his mother had not given it to him. As he prizes the watch highly, Mr. Bishop was glad to get it back. Then the first robber told Mr. Bishop to move on and not turn back, and he followed instructions. Mr. Bishop has a sinking fund, as he calls it, in which he places a nickel when he walks instead of taking a car, and 15 cents when he shaves himself, and various other small sums which he saves. He had this in a purse, but the robbers did not find it. All things considered, he thinks he got off luckily.

W. R. Bishop, employed by the Salem Woolen Mills Co. at Portland, and who is known to many people here, was held up in Portland one night last week and robbed of $5.10. He was returning home from prayer meeting, and had nearly reached his home on east Eleventh street when he passed two men. Just as he got by one of them said: "Say mister." He turned around, to find himself facing a revolver. The highwayman said: "Do you see this gun?" Mr. Bishop replied that he did, when the robber told him to throw up his hands. After he had done so the other robber walked around behind him and went through his pockets. He took the money and also removed a fine gold watch from Mr. Bishop's pocket, but returned it, asking Mr. Bishop if his mother had not given it to him. As he prizes the watch highly, Mr. Bishop was glad to get it back. Then the first robber told Mr. Bishop to move on and not turn back, and he followed instructions. Mr. Bishop has a sinking fund, as he calls it, in which he places a nickel when he walks instead of taking a car, and 15 cents when he shaves himself, and various other small sums which he saves. He had this in a purse, but the robbers did not find it. All things considered, he thinks he got off luckily.

W. R. Bishop, employed by the Salem Woolen Mills Co. at Portland, and who is known to many people here, was held up in Portland one night last week and robbed of $5.10. He was returning home from prayer meeting, and had nearly reached his home on east Eleventh street when he passed two men. Just as he got by one of them said: "Say mister." He turned around, to find himself facing a revolver. The highwayman said: "Do you see this gun?" Mr. Bishop replied that he did, when the robber told him to throw up his hands. After he had done so the other robber walked around behind him and went through his pockets. He took the money and also removed a fine gold watch from Mr. Bishop's pocket, but returned it, asking Mr. Bishop if his mother had not given it to him. As he prizes the watch highly, Mr. Bishop was glad to get it back. Then the first robber told Mr. Bishop to move on and not turn back, and he followed instructions. Mr. Bishop has a sinking fund, as he calls it, in which he places a nickel when he walks instead of taking a car, and 15 cents when he shaves himself, and various other small sums which he saves. He had this in a purse, but the robbers did not find it. All things considered, he thinks he got off luckily.

W. R. Bishop, employed by the Salem Woolen Mills Co. at Portland, and who is known to many people here, was held up in Portland one night last week and robbed of $5.10. He was returning home from prayer meeting, and had nearly reached his home on east Eleventh street when he passed two men. Just as he got by one of them said: "Say mister." He turned around, to find himself facing a revolver. The highwayman said: "Do you see this gun?" Mr. Bishop replied that he did, when the robber told him to throw up his hands. After he had done so the other robber walked around behind him and went through his pockets. He took the money and also removed a fine gold watch from Mr. Bishop's pocket, but returned it, asking Mr. Bishop if his mother had not given it to him. As he prizes the watch highly, Mr. Bishop was glad to get it back. Then the first robber told Mr. Bishop to move on and not turn back, and he followed instructions. Mr. Bishop has a sinking fund, as he calls it, in which he places a nickel when he walks instead of taking a car, and 15 cents when he shaves himself, and various other small sums which he saves. He had this in a purse, but the robbers did not find it. All things considered, he thinks he got off luckily.

W. R. Bishop, employed by the Salem Woolen Mills Co. at Portland, and who is known to many people here, was held up in Portland one night last week and robbed of $5.10. He was returning home from prayer meeting, and had nearly reached his home on east Eleventh street when he passed two men. Just as he got by one of them said: "Say mister." He turned around, to find himself facing a revolver. The highwayman said: "Do you see this gun?" Mr. Bishop replied that he did, when the robber told him to throw up his hands. After he had done so the other robber walked around behind him and went through his pockets. He took the money and also removed a fine gold watch from Mr. Bishop's pocket, but returned it, asking Mr. Bishop if his mother had not given it to him. As he prizes the watch highly, Mr. Bishop was glad to get it back. Then the first robber told Mr. Bishop to move on and not turn back, and he followed instructions. Mr. Bishop has a sinking fund, as he calls it, in which he places a nickel when he walks instead of taking a car, and 15 cents when he shaves himself, and various other small sums which he saves. He had this in a purse, but the robbers did not find it. All things considered, he thinks he got off luckily.

W. R. Bishop, employed by the Salem Woolen Mills Co. at Portland, and who is known to many people here, was held up in Portland one night last week and robbed of $5.10. He was returning home from prayer meeting, and had nearly reached his home on east Eleventh street when he passed two men. Just as he got by one of them said: "Say mister." He turned around, to find himself facing a revolver. The highwayman said: "Do you see this gun?" Mr. Bishop replied that he did, when the robber told him to throw up his hands. After he had done so the other robber walked around behind him and went through his pockets. He took the money and also removed a fine gold watch from Mr. Bishop's pocket, but returned it, asking Mr. Bishop if his mother had not given it to him. As he prizes the watch highly, Mr. Bishop was glad to get it back. Then the first robber told Mr. Bishop to move on and not turn back, and he followed instructions. Mr. Bishop has a sinking fund, as he calls it, in which he places a nickel when he walks instead of taking a car, and 15 cents when he shaves himself, and various other small sums which he saves. He had this in a purse, but the robbers did not find it. All things considered, he thinks he got off luckily.

W. R. Bishop, employed by the Salem Woolen Mills Co. at Portland, and who is known to many people here, was held up in Portland one night last week and robbed of $5.10. He was returning home from prayer meeting, and had nearly reached his home on east Eleventh street when he passed two men. Just as he got by one of them said: "Say mister." He turned around, to find himself facing a revolver. The highwayman said: "Do you see this gun?" Mr. Bishop replied that he did, when the robber told him to throw up his hands. After he had done so the other robber walked around behind him and went through his pockets. He took the money and also removed a fine gold watch from Mr. Bishop's pocket, but returned it, asking Mr. Bishop if his mother had not given it to him. As he prizes the watch highly, Mr. Bishop was glad to get it back. Then the first robber told Mr. Bishop to move on and not turn back, and he followed instructions. Mr. Bishop has a sinking fund, as he calls it, in which he places a nickel when he walks instead of taking a car, and 15 cents when he shaves himself, and various other small sums which he saves. He had this in a purse, but the robbers did not find it. All things considered, he thinks he got off luckily.

W. R. Bishop, employed by the Salem Woolen Mills Co. at Portland, and who is known to many people here, was held up in Portland one night last week and robbed of $5.10. He was returning home from prayer meeting, and had nearly reached his home on east Eleventh street when he passed two men. Just as he