CHICAGO STORE.

The Busiest Place in Town.

The Store that Advertises

Is the Store that is known, and the Store that is known is the Store that trade goes to, and the Store that trade goes to is the Store that does the business, and the Store that does the business is the Store that can't afford to cheat.

Hence, when we tell you that we never misrepresent our groceries, it is not alone because we do not believe in lying, but we can't afford to. We are told, and are thus given a right to reiterate it, that the customer who steadily buys his groceries of us, comes out ahead of the fellow who buys of our competitors.

This is Our Supreme Aim:

A legitimate profit to us, a satisfied customer when he leaves our store. Suppose you try W. & W.'s store long enough in 1899 that we may make you a customer far into the 20th century.

Respectfully,

Wallace & Walker.

THE SHIP THAT FOUND THE BOTTOM.

LEGEND.

'Twas before the white man came
With his shrieking, bellying gun,
That a big "ca-nim" was sighted
Against the setting sun.
'Her sails were of snowy whiteness,
Her hull was black and grim,
And my people greatly jabbered.'
Said old Nehalem Jim.

'Now as my people watching stood,
Far up on the mountain side,
Old Memalook, the keen-eyed,
Another sail descried.
'O, ho!' he said to Imlock,
'Of the mighty tribe of Muck;
'There's trouble surely brewin'
Out on the skookum-chuck.'

'My brother's words may of wisdom be,
And again they may be lies;
Yet the ca-nims, I am a thinking,
Are but spirits of the skies,
My father long lived before me,
Likewise Coochoonick,
So we'll bide a little while
And smoke of ken-ikinick.'

'Now as Imlock a-smoking sat,
A tree against his back,
The stranger saw the enemy
And quickly changed her tack.
This soon brought the ships together
And a battle then did follow,
The thunder of the guns
Filling cranny, nook and hollow.

'Round and round, sailed the ships,
Poo! poo! pealed the guns;
And my people talked about it
For many, many suns.
By and by the ca-nims closed together—
Closed with a mighty grip,
And the one that found the bottom
Was the beeswax-laden ship.'
