Nelson A Miles in the democratic presidential race may be one of the possibilities of 1900. Tammany ary last were about $5,000,000. leaders are anxious to eliminate Bryan, and would rather favor the Miles idea in order to escape Bryan. Miles, it is said, as the champion of ors called it "beef treated with prethe soldiers, zealous for their welfare servative." By whatever name it is and safety, can be made a hero who called, the fact is plain that the unhas been ignored by the administration and punished for his protest on the war department and the boys against the treatment of the enlisted men who fought under every disadvantage in the tropics. The newspapers which have been making such an outcry against Alger and embalmed beef, will, it is argued, join readily in putting Miles' name at the head of their columns. Indeed, it is asserted that the beef controversy has had no other object than to make Miles a central figure, who can command the votes, not only of soldiers and their friends, but of farmers and laboring men naturally prejudiced against the big western beef combinations. Attention is called to the fact that Miles, while in command of the department of the Missouri, at Chicago, opposed the use of the federal troops to put down the Debs strike, and did not carry out President Cleveland's orders. Miles has the reputation in the south of being a republican, and it is feared he would not be sound on constitutional questions, according to southern construction. The southerners remember, also, that it was Gen. Miles who clapped irons on Jefferson Davis while a prisoner in his charge at Fortress Monroe, an indignity for which he was rebuked by Secretary Stanton. Therefore, southern democrats would be apt to regard the Miles boom with suspicion.

So many people die from Cancer simply be-cause they do not know just what the disease is; they naturally turn themselves over to the doctors,

Mr. Wm. Walpole, of Walshtown, S. D., says: "A little blotch about the size of a pea came under my left eye, gradually growing larger, from which shooting pains at intervals ran in all directions. I became greatly alarmed and consulted a good doctor, who pronounced it Cancer, and advised that it be cut out, but this I could not con

Cancer becoming at first irritated, and then discharging very freely. This gradually grew less and then discharging very freely. This gradually grew less and then discontinued altogether, leaving a small scab which soon dropped off, and now only a healthy little scar remains where what threatened to destroy my life once held full sway."
