The Odd Fellows celebrated their anniversary Wednesday evening by giving a supper and entertainment.

Mr. Scott brought suit for a deed to property which he had bargained for. He offered balance money due and then claimed the deed. Referred to court.

Two traveling artists were working up their line of business which is painting signs on windows. They put their handiwork on J. W. Exon's, Bradley's, and Hall's, which looks very neat and business like.

Mr. Berry is putting one of his gas light machines in Mr. Wambgan's butcher shop. He will have three lights. Mr. Berry has just finished putting six lights in Mr. Jones' store. They are very brilliant and give good light.

April 19th a telephone message was received from McMinnville to look out for two horses. Your humble servant gathered a few boys and rounded up a span of horses that came into town, and after two hours hard work, captured them. Then came a message that the horse wanted was at Amit. The horses were then placed in the stable to await orders. After a week the owner, Dodge Hayden of Amity, came to pay expenses and secure his horses.

District No. 8.

Arthur Shelton has purchased about 20 acres of Uncle Wm. Caldwell's land. Floyd Colwell and Miss Cora Carey were married last Thursday, Arthur McPhillips tying the knot. The neighbor boys gave them an old-fashioned charivari.

There was hardly standing room for the crowd at Miss Edmiston's entertainment, Saturday evening. Everyone seemed happy and showed that they appreciated the exercises by their frequent cheers. Miss Edmiston presented diplomas to three of her pupils, who had completed the eighth grade. They are Charles Henderson, Cleveland and Thurman Wisecarver.

The news that Pratt Sitton's barn was on fire when the Saturday evening program was about half done, caused considerable excitement, as it contained all the stock, feed, etc., for carrying on Uncle Doc's portion of the farm, which Pratt is farming. Upon investigation it proved to be the old, original barn that Uncle Doc built, and belonging to Eb. Sitton, containing his feed and some farming implements, but no stock. All the family and near neighbors were at the school house. Mr. Lamb saw the fire and reported it, but the building was in ashes before help arrived. The fire is a mystery, but supposed to be the work of tramps.

WHITSON.

Sunshine and showers has been the program for the week.

Bicycling is all the rage. A number of new wheels are in town.

Bob Fox returned home Tuesday, after an extended stay in Washington.

Some of our young folks are exercising their muscle training hops for Uncle Dick Phillips.

A representative of the Portrait company of Portland is around delivering ordered pictures. The work gives entire satisfaction.

Miss Hannah Robbins and Edward Minor were elected as delegates to represent the Y. P. S. C. E. at the convention at Newberg Saturday.

The entertainment given at the church Saturday evening was well attended and proved a success. The little folks do their parts well and should be encouraged by the presence of the older people.

For frost bites, burns, indolent sores, eczema, skin disease, and especially piles, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve stands first and best. Kicked by a Horse.

Fred Klyver, who three weeks ago left McMinnville to reside on a farm in Polk county, near Salem, died at 9 o'clock Friday evening at the Salem hospital, from the effects of a kick received from a horse at 7 o'clock the previous morning. He went to the barn in the morning with his 14-year-old son for the purpose of harnessing the team preparatory to beginning the day's work. One of the horses being sick, he sent the boy to the house for some medicine. His mother accompanied him on the return, when they were horrified to find the apparently lifeless form of Mr. Klyver lying on the stable floor to the rear of the horses. A messenger was hurriedly sent to Salem for medical assistance. Dr. Smith responded, and though despairing of the man's recovery, had him removed to the Salem hospital, where he might have the best of treatment. The Salem Statesman says that at the hospital it appeared, from an examination of the frightful wound, that the force of the blow had been received on the frontal skull bone almost directly between the two eyes, both orbital plates being splintered and the fracture extending to either side of the head to the base of the skull. The broken bones were removed, the fracture treated and the man placed in as comfortable a position as possible, but he died as above stated without having regained consciousness.

Mr. Sears, the owner of the farm, gives this theory of the accident: "On Thursday afternoon Mr. Klyver came to Salem for groceries. Before starting he turned the large team out in the pasture, on which account I think one horse was sick with colic. After harnessing the well horse, Mr. Klyver had turned toward the sick horse, which had laid down in the stall. He had laid a single-tree down behind the horses that he intended taking with him to the field. He had evidently stooped toward the horse to take the single-tree, when the horse attempted to roll and, as he turned, threw his hind feet out with fearful force, hitting Mr. Klyver with the inner side of the hoof just above the eyebrows, crushing in the bones clear across the head, the wound taking the circular form of the hoof. The horse is very tractable, docile and trusty, and not in the least vicious. The position of the horses, the character of the wound and position in which Mr. Klyver was found by his wife, make it clear that this explanation is the true solution, though the accident was seen by no one."

Mr. Klyver was a member of Protection lodge No. 2, A. O. U. W. of Salem for eight years. He was an industrious man, and for some time a faithful employe of Mr. Wing, liveryman of this city, and of Wilson & Henderson previous to their change in business.

Frederick H. Klyver was born in Denmark, Aug. 11th, 1858. He came to this country when nine years of age, residing in Wisconsin until 1878, when he came to Oregon and was married to Miss Mary E. Kuns Oct. 17th, 1883, at McMinnville, Oregon. Deceased leaves a wife and two children, Carl and Alta, aged respectively, 14 and 8 years. His father, mother, two brothers and one sister, reside in the east.

The funeral was in charge of Charity lodge No. 7 of this city, and was very largely attended on Sunday afternoon, many visitors from neighboring towns being present. The service was held at the residence of C. F. Daniels, a brother-in-law of deceased. Heartly sympathy is universally extended to the bereft family.

Card of Thanks.

I desire to thank our many friends for the sympathy, love and esteem shown to myself and family during our sudden and terrible bereavement, and to assure them that such kindnesses can never be forgotten.

Respectfully,
MARY E. KLYVER.

As the season of the year when pneumonia, la grippe, soar throat, coughs, colds, catarrh, bronchitis, and lung troubles are to be guarded against, nothing "is a fine substitute," or is "just as good" as One Minute Cough Cure. That is the one infallible remedy for all lung, throat or bronchial troubles. Insist vigorously upon having it if "something else" is offered you. Rogers Bros.

Famous Old Yamhill.

The fame of the "Garden spot of Oregon" does not diminish, but "expansion" appears to be its destiny. Having read in last week's Reporter an account of the honor bestowed upon a former Yamhill county boy the editor of the Oregonian thus comments: "Professor Wortman, just appointed to one of the major professorships of Yale, was born, not at Oregon City, as has been stated, but across the river from Champoeg, in Yamhill county. The fact is worth remembrance if only for the sake of tradition. Old Yamhill fails not, now as in the past, to uphold her end against the world."

I wish to thank my neighbors and friends sincerely for their kind offices during the illness and burial of Mrs. Walk-er. Respectfully,

A meeting of bicyclists was held in the city hall Tuesday evening, to discuss the building of paths. W. L. Hembree was chairman and Prof. Northup secretary. A committee was chosen to draft a constitution and by-laws, consisting of the president and secretary, Prof. Converse, G. S. Wright and Edw. Fuller. A meeting of bicyclists from all parts of the county was called for Saturday, April 29th, at one p. m., to talk plans for building the new paths. The various towns have been notified of the meeting by telephone. Another meeting of local bicyclists was called for tonight. The idea of constructing several paths centering at McMinnville is generally favored, rather than building with the object of reaching some other path leading into Portland.

Some McMinnville citizens are showing remarkable traits this spring. They are going fishing and telling the exact truth about it after their return.

Treble Clef Club Concert.

Probably the most successful of the many concerts given under direction of Mrs. Evenden in this city was that of last Friday night, April 21st. It was an aggregation of artists. Besides the Treble Clef club of 15 ladies in their gorgeous costumes, there was Mrs. Walter Reed, the superb contralto, of Portland, the well-known and appreciated contraltos of McMinnville, Misses Glen and Spencer, the accomplished young pianist of Portland, Miss Pearl Smith, and the skillful accompanists, Mrs. Evenden and Miss Josie Gortner. The club opened with "Down in the Dewy Dell" in fine harmony and time. Rhapsodie Hongroise No. 2, by Liszt, was the first piano selection, played by Mrs. Evenden and Miss Smith. The piece was slow and stately at first, but as the players advanced they warmed to the work and the attention was rapt. Before the close the audience realized that the composition came from a master mind and was performed by masterful hands. An effort was made to bring the ladies back, but only a bow could be secured. Miss Spencer sang Faure's "Stella," which is a good voice tester, and the listener needed to watch sharply to enjoy both the beauty of the song and the excellent accompaniment. Mrs. Reed first appeared in "To Love, To Suffer" by Tirindelli, and Gounod's "Serenade." Every word could be distinctly heard, and Mrs. Reed possesses in good degree the happy faculty of fitting facial expression to the subject matter of the song. The gentler tones were rendered with bird-like melody, while there was no deficiency of power where power was needed. The merited encore which followed was responded to by "Sweetest Love is Newest." Weber's minuet and rondo, opus 24, was rendered by Miss Pearl Smith. This piece is known to musicians as one requiring great skill of finger movement and wrist action, and Miss Smith certainly had it down to fine points. It was wonderfully well given. The club gave the Foster-Smith arrangement of "Old Uncle Ned," which was liked so well that they were prevailed on to come back, and sang "Dickery, dickery dock." Mrs. Reed sang "The Knight of the Beautiful Star," in French, which was doubtless just as good as English to those who understood it. Miss Smith next rendered "Pavilion" and "Au Printemps" by Greig. Miss Glen sang Pavesuti's "Raft," a song well fitted to her voice, and in which she threw a wealth of power and feeling. The admiration of her friends is always insatiable until a second appearance, and Miss Glen responded with a pleasing ditty. Mrs. Reed's last selections were "The Danza," by Chadwick, and "I'm Wearin' Awa,' Jean," by Arthur Foote. The latter piece was especially pleasing, and there were some Scotchmen present. The club further appeared in "Peggy" and "Old Kentucky Home." The latter was their best selection on the program, and was charmingly rendered. The second sopranos had a chance on this piece—an unusual thing—which may account for some of its excellence. The harmony was so captivating that some of the young men in the audience were heard to join in.

Summer Term of Normal School.

If sweet plantation melodies are frequently heard on the evening air now, do not take it for some unheralded professional troupe. It is our home boys, practicing for that minstrel entertainment they purpose giving on the evening of May 19th for the benefit of the volunteer monument fund.

Rev. Geo. W. Grannis will conclude the "History of Man" series of sermons at the Methodist church, Sunday next. Subject at 11 a. m. "Glorification." The evening service will be devoted to a love feast and the Lord's supper. All are invited.
