DAYTON.

Mr. Hall has sold his share in the dryer to Messrs. Scott and Wambgan.

Work on the flour mill has commenced and the ground is ready for the bricklayers.

Mr. Manning of Carlton was a welcome visitor in Dayton Tuesday. He was aiding the soldiers to decorate the graves of departed comrades.

Memorial sermon was preached by Rev. Crandall, who did excellently. He was fine in some parts and grand and eloquent in others. Taken as a memorial sermon it would rank as a gem in any place, or before any congregation. The music was appropriate. The old melodies still stir the veterans.

Mr. Mellinger, who has been organizing and working for the A. O. U. W. in eastern Oregon, has returned home, after a three-months' absence. He does not speak very highly of the upper country, but says that he saw more poverty among wealth than he ever saw in the east, and that a great number of people would be better off in prison than living the way they do.

Dayton was turned over to the old soldiers Tuesday, and the settlers say it was the finest and best decoration service ever held here. The program was for all the people to meet at the park. The school children under Prof. Duncan came marching behind the band and formed in front of the platform occupied by old soldiers and teacher. Prof. Duncan spoke some very patriotic sentiments, Mayor Harris gave a patriotic address of welcome; "America" was sung by the school children. An address by Mr. Sigler was well received and very appropriate. After music by the band the school children saluted the flag and then marched to the cemetery. The closing exercises at the cemetery were by Rev. Bowersox, the orator of the day. Mr. Flower then made some fitting remarks. The old soldiers and the school children and people of Dayton decorated the graves while the band played a dirge. A cenotaph to the unknown dead was erected.

Last fall I sprained my left hip while handling some heavy boxes. The doctor I called on said at first it was a slight strain and would soon be well, but it grew worse and the doctor then said I had rheumatism. It continued to grow worse and I could hardly get around to work. I went to a drug store and the druggist recommended me to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I tried it and one-half of a 50-cent bottle cured me entirely. I now recommend it to all my friends.—F. A. Babcock, Erie, Pa. It is for sale by Howorth & Co., Druggists.

Sympathetic Words.

Chaplain W. S. Gilbert has written the following letter of sympathy to Mrs. M. J. Clark, on the death of her son:

It was a hard fight and the soldiers all had many a test upon their bravery and endurance. None were braver than Bert. The entire regiment was made un-speakably sad when it was learned that Bert Clark had been killed. The joy of our splendid victory was all taken away when we found that seven of our boys had been slain. We knew that some would fall for we were sent against the foe's strongest and chosen troops. I know Bert was all the world to you, and when you gave him to our country's service you gave all the love of your heart. To give a son to the cause of humanity is indeed a great sacrifice, but it is also the noblest sacrifice that can be made. We all loved Bert. He made friends of everybody. It is a great loss to his regiment that he has fallen, and to everyone of his comrades his death is a great sorrow. It is a comfort to us to know that our departed ones have died in a great cause—for a great good. Bert counted the cost and was willing to pay the price. He was a good soldier and a thoroughly good boy. He died doing his duty. The cause for which he gave his life will live and bless the world for all time. Bert was laid away with care. He was clothed in a new uniform and placed in a good and beautiful casket and laid by his comrades in the cemetery of Artillery Knoll. His body will be brought home soon. There is an officer here now to oversee the removal of the bodies. Cap. Heath will send you his effects. Our kindest sympathy is extended to you, to whom this sad bereavement comes heaviest.

A Card of Thanks.

I wish to say that I feel under lasting obligations for what Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has done for our family. We have used it in so many cases of coughs, lung troubles and whooping cough, and it has always given the most perfect satisfaction. We feel greatly indebted to the manufacturers of this remedy and wish them to please accept our hearty thanks.—Respectfully, Mrs. S. Doty, Des Moines, Iowa. For sale by Howorth & Co. druggists.

A GOOD ADDRESS.

Decoration Day Fittingly Observed.

Despite bad weather a good many people visited Masonic cemetery Tuesday morning to decorate graves. In the afternoon the Christian church was filled to witness the program prepared. The room was handsomely decorated for the occasion with bunting, flags and flowers, with a picture of Geo. Washington as a center piece. The Treble Clef club sang beautifully in two selections, and Miss Jennie Snyder sang unusually well in a solo. Marie Irvine spoke a patriotic selection exceedingly well, and was much appreciated. Comrade Wm. Weiss presided in the absence of the commander. Comrade Maloney told of the death of Comrade S. C. Pearson during the year, and told of his military record, his muster out and some of the trophies of war he obtained.

Comrade G. L. Burbank of Sheridan gave the memorial address, taking for his subject "Heroic Consecration." He thought that the interest in memorial services was not abating, and that in the light of recent events it would be a long time before it would die out. It was not a day for picnics. The sacredness of these ties could only be comprehended by those who tented together or drank from the same canteen. The men who enlisted were not anxious to die, but were willing to take the risk. Heroic consecration settles the permanence of American institutions, and giving up all for love of country is no trivial matter. It is also the inspiration to true manhood. Many a man is made better in serving his country. The speaker enlisted April 19th, 1861, and asked for hands of those present who enlisted earlier. There were none. The consecration of the war was not all on one side. Mothers, wives, sisters and maidens shared it, and he told of notable examples in the present warfare. White heads are now the rule in the ranks of veterans and they are dying off from four to ten thousand each year. He believed that when the last soldier was laid to rest there would be someone to strew flowers over his grave. Posterity will never question the soldiers' claim to honor or tender memories. He urged the people to spread the sentiment of holding the day sacred. He would as soon dance at the funeral of his father as on memorial day. He was in favor of adding the names of the 6,000 or more who lost their lives in the last twelve months to the lists of the consecrated heroes, and admit the survivors to the ranks of the G. A. R. He denounced as cowards those who call the pensioned soldier a "government pauper," and he would proudly wear his button to his dying day, and then wished to be buried with it, and with the grand old flag of liberty draping his casket. The address was well received and though long, seemed to tire no one.

Music was furnished by the band on the march from hall to church.

The annual reunion of the Yamhill County Pioneer Association is to be held in Carlton next Wednesday, June 7th. Extensive preparation is being made by the Carlton people for a good time, and everybody knows Carlton to be a good place for a good time. Since the last reunion we note that the following members have been called to their reward: Henry Hewitt, 1843; Willis Star, 1849; Mrs. D. O. Durham, 1852; Cyrus Smith, 1852.

Happy is the man or woman who can eat a good hearty meal without suffering afterward. If you can not do it, take Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It digests what you eat, and cures all forms of dyspepsia and indigestion. Rogers Bros.

A convention of Workmen lodges was held Saturday in this city to make arrangements for the annual picnic. Dayton was the only lodge willing to assume the undertaking on a self-sustaining basis, and it went to her. There is some probability that she will combine it with a Fourth of July celebration.

In a letter to a friend, W. F. Crampton says in the fight at Malabon, Corporal Mellinger was slightly wounded in the arm, and he himself received a slight scalp wound. Neither one was sent to the hospital, but Frank says it was as close a call as he cares for. Both boys were among the recruits for Co. A, who left last June.

The funeral of Thos. W. Huston occurred at Lafayette Tuesday at one p. m., conducted by Prof. D. M. Metzger and the order of Oddfellows. Mr. Huston came to Oregon in 1865, and settled in Lafayette. He was married in 1862 to Miss Elizabeth McCullough, who, with six children, survives him. He was over 63 years of age, and died of "winter fever."

B. F. Kauffman died on May 29th, at his home east of town, of heart failure. He expired suddenly while talking with his daughter. Mr. Kauffman came to Oregon from Pennsylvania in 1885. He was 71 years and 11 months old. Interment was made in Masonic cemetery on Wednesday. As the procession passed through the city, the band played a funeral dirge. Two of Mr. Kauffman's sons are members of the band.

The entertainment at the college Friday evening was an enjoyable one. The exercises were of a highly creditable order to the participants, and the farce on "Realistic Reading" was particularly beneficial as a relaxation to those who witnessed it. The prize of $5 for best elocution was given to Fred Thompson, who spoke "The Unknown Rider," and second prize of $2.50 to Miss Ambia Daniels, who spoke "Asleep at the Switch." There was some good exhibition of musical talent by Miss Glen and some of her pupils, the piano duet by that lady and Miss Setters being especially good.
