Carby Heston, who was in town last Tuesday said that the indignation of the better element of society about Dundee was very much aroused on account of preparations that are being made to put in a saloon at that village. John Parrot is out with a remonstrance, which has been very numerous signed, but it seems that a majority of the village council favor the grog shop. Several attempts have been made in the past to make saloons go at Dundee, but they have never been profitable to the saloon-atic nor creditable to the place, and they have always been short lived. There are just about enough people around Dundee to give support to a decent business without throwing any money away on any other kind.—Newberg Graphic.
