What Further Treatment Did for Rev.

The reverend gentleman wishes published a second card regarding his cure of deafness by Dr. Darrin, at 265 Morrison street. This is only one of many similar cases brought to our notice:

University Park, Or., May 19, 1899. Editor Oregonian: Some two weeks ago or more I said something of regaining my hearing under the treatment of Dr. Darrin, of which I had suffered for several years. On the first application the deafness of one ear (the left) was remedied. The difficulty ear (the left) was remedied. The difficulty of the other was more serious, and the doctor remarked that, unless I could endure the pain, so that he could get at and examine it, he feared he should not be able to cure it. I took medicine home and applied it that evening. The next day I lay upon the left side two hours, with the right ear full or medical ear oil. After noon I went to the doctor again, who seemed to be pleased with evident signs of improvement. I applied the medicine again faithfully two evenings at home, and the next day went to the doctor, who sucthe next day went to the doctor, who suc ceeded in entirely restoring the lost sense of hearing, so that when I went out upon Third street—Portland—it seemed to be the noisiest city I was ever in. My hear-ing still remains distinct, in both ears equally good. NEHEMIAH DOANE.

Supreme Court Sustains the Foot-Ease Trade Mark.

Justice Laughlin, in supreme court, Buffalo, has ordered a permanent injunction, with costs, and a full accounting of sales, to issue against Paul B. Hudson, the manufacturer of the foot powder called "Dr. Clark's Foot Powder," and also against a retail dealer of Brooklyn, restraining them from making or selling the Dr. Clark's Foot Powder, which is declared, in the decision of the court, an imitation and infringement of "Foot-Ease," the powder for tired, aching feet to shake into your shoes, now so largely advertised and sold all over the country. Allen S. Olmsted, of Le Roy, New York, is the owner of the trade mark "Foot-Ease," and he is the first individual who ever advertised a foot powder extensively over the country. He will send a sample Free to anyone who writes him for it. The decision in this case upholds his trade mark and renders all parties liable who fraudulently attempt to profit by the extensive "Foot-Ease" advertising, in placing upon the market a spurious and and common law rights.

Ditch Scraper.

This scraper, to clean out a large open ditch, so far as I know, is not patented and may be constructed at home with the help of a blacksmith. It is 4 to 5 feet wide and about 21/2 feet high, made of good tough inch boards and shod with a strip of steel; an old crosscut saw is just the thing. Two handles should be bolted on the backold plow handles will do, or something similar. The draft rods should be made something like a badly shaped S, and pass through slots cut in the scraper and are attached on back side of scraper, just over saw plate, with heavy eyebolts or other device that will allow of swivel motion. They should be made of heavy iron and be about 20 inches long, the front ends connected with 4 feet of chain with a ring in center as shown in cut. To operate scraper when the ditch can not be crossed with team requires a driver. He should have about 8 feet of chain attached to team, the big hook hanging loose. The man at the scraper drags it to bottom of ditch and sets it quickly in the mud, or behind a furrow or two that must al-

Flax Fibre for Grain Bags.

The farmers of Oregon have found a new industry, which at the same time solves the problem what the convicts in the State penitentiary can be set to work at. They are to weave the cloth from flax which Oregon farmers will larger clover, waiting to make a big structed that it is a high power tele- grow, and make it into grain bags in growth when they die out.-American which to market their surplus wheat. These linen grain bags will be stronger and more durable than those of cotton. and as the coarsest fibre such as can be got from flax for seed can be used, it is believed they will not be expensive. It is a good beginning for the flax-growing and linen-making industries. The manufacture of the finest linen fabrics will doubtless follow in due time. It is a great gain anyway for Oregon farmers to diversify their industries. They have been growing wheat too exclusively.-Exchange,

For Irrigating Melons.

A bulletin of the Georgia station on watermelons describes a simple method of rendering concentrated fertilizer assimilable or available and preventing the hill from firing. This is by the application of water artificially, when the rainfall proves insufficient. For this purpose a joint of two-inch terra cotta sewer pipe is perpendicularly sunk in the hill before planting to the depth of six or eight inches, bell upward, as indicated in the figure.

The seeds are planted around the pipe and the stand subsequently, thinned down to one vine, whose roots will eventually surround the bottom of the pipe for quite a distance in all directions. The pipe itself should be filled with water late in the afternoonevery day, if the weather is dry, or as often as may be found necessary. The continuous supply of moisture thus afforded will have a most noticeable effect by rendering every particle of plant food within reach capable of assimilation. Ordinary drain tile may be used in place of sewer pipe.

Effective Farm Help.

Every spring at the beginning of farm work an army of hoboes flock to the country claiming to be in search of work. They remind one of the old English story of two tramps who said they had walked all over England trying to get work, but hoping all the time they would be refused. Such help is worse than useless, yet it is the kind that the farmer is apt to get who puts off hiring help until he gets behindhand with work, and then seeks the cheapest farm help, that is, the lowest price per month that he can find. Generally these hoboes give themselves away by asking in consideraonly at the easiest jobs. They most always want to manage the horses, as that they think involves little labor. Such men are dear even if they would work for nothing. The only help that will do the farmer any good is help that understands the business of farming, and is not afraid to tackle any kind of work, however hard and disagreeable it may be. Such help is always gobbled up early in the season, or kept on yearly contracts, so as to be sure of them when hiring-out time comes.

Landlord and Tenant-Lease. The Supreme Court of Georgia held, in the recent case of Anderson vs. Swift, that a stipulation in a written contract of lease that the lessee should have the privilege of erecting houses on the premises, to be removed by him at the expiration of his lease "or sold to the lessor at S per cent. less than the cost of the buildings," is not sufficlently certain and reciprocal to support an action by the former against the latter for such cost of the houses when the plaintiff relies for a recovery solely on the provision in the contract above quoted, and upon the fact that the lessor refused to purchase the buildings when the lease had expired. The court further held that when a landlord in his contract of lease with a tenant agrees to use an effort to remove from the leased premises a certain nuisance, expressly stipulating, however, that if such effort prove unsuccessful the tenant should be satisfied to keep the premises and pay full rent therefor, an action for damages growing out of a failure to use such effort will not lie unless the plaintiff expressly alleges that such effort on the part of the landlord would have been availing, and that this is especially true when the contract contemplated work to be done by the tenant looking to an abatement of the nuisance, which he never actually performed or offered to perform.-Bradstreet's.

Value of White Clover. plowing and thoroughly cultivating soil is that this runs out the white clover, which is one of the most valuable pasture plants we have, besides also furnishing the very best pasture for bees. The plant is a low-running vine, rooting as it spreads through the soil, yet, being a true clover, it rots quickly when plowed under. No one of the grasses, except blue grass and orchard grass, will stand drought so well, and as most of its roots run near the surface, a moderate rain revives it, and sets it to blossoming again. In wet seasons bees make white clover honey even up to September, if there are enough dry days for them to be out. White clover is a prolific seeder, but owing to its creeping habit of growth the seed is hard to gather and always sells high. It will pay to sow some on land designed for pasture, and gather the seed when it occupies the whole land. If sown with red clover But it is there under the growth of the Cultivator.

Weigh the Milk. The owner of this device, which was WEIGHING MILK. makes use of business methods. He knows what each animal is doing, and whether she gains or loses on particular kinds of feed. Guesswork is poor business on the farm, as elsewhere. And in this connection it may be mentioned that the pleasing, cleanly and economical practice of delivering milk in glass bottles is steadily increasing.

The Season for Strawberries. Small fruit dealers are more enterprising in seeking markets than average farmers, probably because they have to be more intelligent and enterprising to succeed in their business. This is especially true of strawberry growers, who begin very early in spring to forward their fruit northward. By the time we get Virginia and New Jersey strawberries, the price comes within everybody's reach, though higher than most of our home growers can get for their product. Instead of a season of three to four weeks we can now have strawberries four to five months in the year, or even more .-American Cultivator.

Making Harnesses Convenient. All extra labor and time spent in harnessing the team is wasted. It is true economy to use snaps in place of the clumsy buckle that takes three times as long to fasten properly. But supreme achievement. be sure and have snaps with a spring strong enough to hold the lines in place, or economy in time will be gained at the expense of safety. All the devices to make small jobs easier and take less time will be adopted by the enterprising farmer, who recognizes that on the farm as everywhere else time is money and should not be wasted.

Harrowing Pastures. Nothing is more beneficial to an old pasture than to harrow it thoroughly every spring. A few roots may be broken off, but the stirring which the surface soil receives opens it to air and to receive the rains which will set them to growing more vigorously than before. Another good effect of the harrowing is to break up the excrement dropped by the stock the previous year, and scatter it so that it can fertilize a tion of their low wages that they be set | greater number of plants.

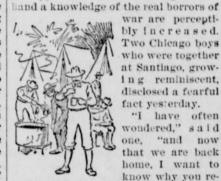

"The newspaper correspondents, with cameras in their hats and pencils sticking out of their pockets like quills on a porcupine, didn't get hold of everything that happened in the late war." remarked the lieutenant. "There was the time the Spanish fooled the One Hundred and Twenty-seventh volunteers, for instance."

"How was it, lleutenant?" asked somebody. "Why, it was the sharpest trick you ever heard of, and simple as A B C. You know, the One Hundred and Twenty-seventh is made up of men from New York City-all heroes, of course, but still they are accustomed to the civil walks of life. And the civil walks of life, taken literally, nowadays, are peculiar paths. It was at San Juan. The regiment had been ordered to advance and lie down close among some low bushes. The Spanlards were only a short distance in front. The firing had ceased in that neighborhood and all was still. Our men were in a state of intense though suppressed excitement. You could never guess what those crafty Spaniards did. Suddenly they rang a bicycle bell, and followed it with a cable car gong. The Hundred and Twentyseventh jumped into the air as one man. The Spaniards blazed away and tried to take 'em on the wing. Of course, they didn't hit a thing, because Spaniards never do; but if they had been good shots they might have bagged the whole regiment. And I would not be surprised if they'd had an elevated road guard to yell 'Step One of the bad effects of frequently lively? that they could have stampeded every last man."-Harper's Bazar.

"It meant death to every man of us." said the veteran, speaking of a proposed charge on a line of breastworks before Richmond, "if we went in there, and we knew it, but there wasn't any thing else to do, unless we got different orders. There had been a mistake in ordering us to take the works until some re-enforcements had come up, but that wasn't any of our business.'

"Well, now," demurred the civilian, "I don't look at it that way. It ought to have been your business not to have fought when you knew you were going to be whipped."

"If we had put up any sort of a bluff like that, you bet our captain would have got one of his swearing spells on. and then the dickens would have been to pay. He just never would have got done cussing us for being cowards."

John Hugo, a State street grocer in New Haven, lost and recovered a $200 diamond stud recently in the most peculiar manner on record, says the New York Press. He had been short of clerks for several weeks and has assisted in weighing out his groceries. He missed his stud and was unable to obtain a trace of it till Henry Fresenius, the brewer, coolly walked into his store, and, handing him a diamond stud, asked him if it was his. "Where did you get it?" gasped Hugo. "We found it a rice pudding, and, as we bought the rice of you, we thought it might be yours," was the answer. The stone was found several days ago. Mr. Fresenius was unable to account for its presence in the pudding till his wife suggested that, as the grocery stock came from Hugo's, the diamond might belong to him.
