are made with Royal Baking Powder, and are the most appetizing, healthful and nutritious of foods.

Hot biscuit made with impure and adulterated baking powder are neither appetizing nor wholesome.

It all depends upon the baking powder.

Take every care to have your biscuit made with Royal, which is a pure cream of tartar baking powder, if you would avoid indigestion.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

At a spirited foot ball match near Glasgow the game became so exciting that several spectators leaped into the arena to take part. The police tried to restore peace, but were so determinedly opposed that 19 policemen were severely maimed and had to be sent to the hospital.

The smallest salary received by the head of a civilized government is that of the president of the Republic of Andorra, in the Pyrenees. His pay amounts to only $15 a year. He is the chief magistrate of 12,000 people, and the territory he rules comprises an area of 150 square miles. The little state has been independent since the year 790.

A fondness for animals led Charles Wagner, of Frackville, Pa., to caress a pet goat and tickle the animal's nose with a $10 bill. The goat snapped the bill from the man's hand and swallowed it. The money-eater was promptly cut open, and the pieces were found in his stomach. They will be sent to Washington for redemption.

Frank V. Balling, of Blue Island, Ill., was troubled with a stiffening of the ankle joint, and his physicians tried to ascertain the cause by subjecting the limb to the X-rays. The intense light caused the flesh to decompose, and three amputations of the leg were necessary. He sued his doctors, and the jury awarded him $10,000.

"Gelotherapeutists," says the New York Tribune, "is a name given to physicians who treat patients suffering from various diseases ranging from bronchitis to anaemia, by prescribing hearty laughter. A medical journal suggests that there is a great opening for physicians in studying various ways of exciting laughter, such as tickling, farcial comedies, puns, etc."

AGRICULTURAL

Blackberry Pruning.

The mistake often made in pruning blackberry canes is to cut them too short, writes Levi Bell in American Gardening. There are in most varieties several buds on each lateral branch nearest the main stem that very seldom produce any fruit, often those nearest the main stem remaining dormant when properly, not severely, pruned. There are also in many cases several buds on the main stem, just above the highest lateral branch, which have slightly started to grow in the fall, yet did not make lateral branches. These will not produce any fruit. The main stem above the lateral branches should therefore be left long enough to secure some good buds above the worthless ones above mentioned; if not it may as well be cut back to the upper lateral branch. If the lateral branches are short and stout, with large plump buds clear to the tips, they need very little pruning, except when it is desirable to reduce the number of berries produced in order to have them grow larger and finer.

PRUNING BLACKBERRIES.

In the drawing, which represents an old dead cane that bore fruit last summer, a is the main stem or cane, at b are several bad buds which have thrown out unproductive or blind shoots (c) from small buds at their base; c, c, c, show lateral branches that were pruned too short and having only blind shoots growing from them; d, d, are lateral branches that were not pruned, showing where the berries were produced last summer by the buds still remaining on the short twigs; at e the main stem was cut, leaving a few (f) good buds on it. If you want blackberries to yield large crops do not plant on rich soil; they are more hardy and productive on rather poor or elevated land. Give clean shallow culture, or thoroughly mulch, and last, but not least, don't prune too closely.

A Strong Whiffletree.

Durable whiffletrees never come amiss, and the kind pictured herewith can be made at small expense. All that is needed is a piece of hardwood of proper shape, grooved at the ends so that the piece of round iron which is bent to a ring in the middle of its length may be brought over them and there fastened with large staples, work which any blacksmith can do, and the ends of the rod then bent to hooks. In this way the strongest kind of a whiffletree is obtainable, the wood holding the iron in proper form. Best of all, double-trees or eveners can thus be made. The

is forced to find it in the coop, which too often is almost air tight. Cut a hoop in two equal pieces and to a, b and c each tack either end of three pieces of lath or other light wood. Over this framework stretch cotton cloth, d, or bagging and tack firmly in place. The open ends admit a free current of air, while the cover keeps off direct sun rays.—American Agriculturist.

Feeding Values Compared.

An experiment station has found that when cornmeal has a feeding value of 100 per cent, when bran has 85 per cent., where middling from 100 to 110 per cent., according to quality, gluten meal 152 per cent., old process linseed meal 135 per cent., and cottonseed meal 152 per cent. For example, when corn is worth 25 cents a bushel, a ton of corn is worth $9, and a ton of cornmeal, counting in the expense of grinding, would be worth $10. When a ton of cornmeal is worth $10 wheat is worth $8.50, gluten meal $15.20, old process oil meal $13.50, and cotton seed oil $15.20.

Sheep Dipping Preparations.

There are a number of most excellent dips on the market. These are usually more satisfactory than home-made. Get some one of these and follow the directions which go with each package. Possibly the most satisfactory home-made dip is a strong decoction obtained by soaking tobacco stems in water. These stems can usually be obtained from cigar factories or may be ordered through a druggist. Dip the sheep as soon as they are sheared and then repeat the operation in about two weeks to get rid of any ticks that may have hatched after the first dipping.

Dairies and Cows.

There are too many dairies containing cows having an average of less than 200 pounds of butter per annum to make dairying a bonanza. By breeding, testing and sending all cows not up to the standard to the butchers a much better standard will be reached, and when the herd reaches 300 or 350 pounds a year a farmer can truly think he is advancing.

Farmers Growing Sweet Potatoes.

It is always a surprise to us why more farmers do not grow sweet potatoes, at least enough for home use. The difficulty of keeping the seed potatoes through the winter need not stand in the way. Almost every large seedsmen propagates sweet potato sets, and for a very small sum of money he will furnish enough sets so that a farmer can grow several bushels of sweet potatoes in the fall. It is worth trying. The farmer's table does not have as great a variety of vegetables as it should, and the sweet potato is so universally liked that it makes an extremely desirable addition during the season it can be easily kept.—American Cultivator.

Wounds in Trees.
Wounds made in the stems of trees by pruning or otherwise, should have the wood preserved to keep it from decay till the new bark and wood extends over it. Gum shellac dissolved in alcohol is far better than paint. Put the shellac into a wide-mouthed bottle, cover it with alcohol, and let it stand twenty-four hours, when it may be applied with a swab or brush. It serves, as nearly as may be, as the substance of bark; is not affected by heat or cold or wet or dry weather, and retains the sap up to the cut, healing the wound without a scar. Any limbs cut off square on top will leave a dead end from six inches to a foot, which will eventually die and rot off. Limbs should be cut off slanting—never square on top—as is often done.—Mechan's Monthly.

Geese Are Prepared for Long Marches.
According to a consular report a regular "goose market" takes place at Warsaw during the month of October, through which some 3,000,000 geese pass, some for consumption at Warsaw, but most for export to Germany. One-third of the geese come from the government of Vilna, and many more have come long distances, which would ruin their feet, to prevent which they are "shod," as it is called, before setting out on their journey to Warsaw. That is, they are driven first through tar poured on the ground, and then through sand. After this operation has been repeated several times their feet become covered with a hard crust which protects them during their long march on hard ground.

Perpetua Blackberry Patches.
When a man plants blackberries he has a plantation that with care and spraying with fungicides to prevent blight can be kept for all time. It is very hard to root out a blackberry patch, as any who have planted the wild sorts and who wish to change for better can testify. But if the best varieties are secured, this tendency of the blackberry to sprout makes it more valuable. At even a very low price the plants can be sold to neighbors so as to bring in nearly as much as a crop of fruit.

For Young Chicks.
Young chicks appreciate a bit of shade during midday and should not be forced to find it in the coop, which too often is almost air tight. Cut a hoop in two equal pieces and to a, b and c each tack either end of three pieces of lath or other light wood. Over this framework stretch cotton cloth, d, or bagging and tack firmly in place. The open ends admit a free current of air, while the cover keeps off direct sun rays.—American Agriculturist.

Of these, 329,900 received advances in wages, averaging 9 1/2d. per head, while 1,500 persons suffered a decrease averaging 3d. per head.
