AWAKENED INTEREST IN DAIRYING.

It is General, and the Southern Pacific Offers Aid.

The Business that Makes Ready Money is Going to Sidetrack Wheat and Hops Somewhat.

The Oregonian of Saturday has the following article on dairying in western Oregon, the facts of which squarely hit the center:

A feature of the recent meeting of the Oregon Dairyman's Association at Albany was the address of C. H. Markham, general freight and passenger agent of the Southern Pacific railroad, in which the support of that company was pledged to the up-building of the dairying industry. Mr. Markham said that the company would provide facilities for the prompt handling of milk and for the marketing of butter and cheese. The Southern Pacific is doing valuable missionary work in behalf of the Willamette valley, and is taking advantage of every opportunity to attract newcomers. Just now it is seeking to interest the present farming population of the valley in dairying. The company takes the view that if this industry is taken up and intelligently managed the entire state will be benefited. Speaking about the advantages of dairying, yesterday, Mr. Markham said:

"The low price of grain, the high price of stock and the certainty of a market for all products at remunerative prices are having effect, and the farmers of the Willamette valley are waking up. We have sent tons and tons of advertising matter east, filled with glowing descriptions of the valleys of western Oregon, but when we get prospective settlers to come, we are unable to show them that the people who are now here are doing anything. With abundant transportation facilities and low rates of freights and fares, the Willamette valley gives the transportation companies only about one-third the business as, for example, is given by the same number of people of California.

"The first question that the prospective settler asks is: 'If you have such a productive country, why don't you produce something besides grain and hops, which you admit are selling for little more than the cost of production?' When told that there is no other section of the United States better adapted to dairying than the Willamette valley, the settler naturally asks what have the farmers of the valley been doing all these years.

"Now, there is no use of talking about the past. What we ought to do, and what I believe we will do, is to take on new life. Every interest in the state; be it farming, railway, banking, mercantile or professional, should take up this question of dairying and encourage the industry until 10 years hence there will not be a farm in western Oregon which is not within easy reach of a creamery. What has been done in other states can be done here. The railroads will do their share of the work, and if the farmers, bankers, merchants and professional men will fall into line, there will be no question as to results.

"Every town in western Oregon should have its commercial organization, all of the energies of which should, for the present, be devoted to this one idea. We ought to have enough surplus energy stored up to accomplish anything we undertake. Look at the work done by the farmers of Minnesota in the past 10 years! The first co-operative creamery in that state was built in 1891; now there are nearly 600 creameries. In 1893 there were 253 creameries of both classes; now there are 700. These 700 creameries, with a capital of $2,800,000, handle 1,350,000,000 pounds of milk per annum, and after spending $1,100,000 in the cost of manufacture, make a product from which they realize $10,450,000, of which $8,400,000 net is returned to the 54,000 patrons in payments of butter fat taken from the milk. Portland should take hold of this matter. Western Oregon is, and always will be, commercially tributary to Portland, and she will not have to divide any new business which may be developed with Puget sound. Much of the progress which has been made in the great dairying states of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Iowa has been due to the work of their agricultural colleges, which are given loyal support by the people of those states. We should, therefore, strengthen our Corvallis college in every way possible. As in the other states named, the farm department should be equipped with a practical commercial creamery, so that the farmers may derive the benefit of object lessons conducted by skilled professors. Every paper of any importance in the state should have a column or more devoted to intelligent discussion of dairy interests.

"The question of markets is one which should be given particular attention. Every intelligent farmer knows that there is always a market for a good article. Every business man and property-owner in Portland is interested in this question. With its unlimited opportunities developed to their full possibilities, the Willamette valley is broad enough and rich enough to make large cities, and whatever their citizens can do to develop western Oregon will be repaid with ample interest. Show the people of the east that there is room for them by developing our dairying interests and immigration will follow."

Notice for Bids for Bridge Lumber.

NORTH YAMHILL.

L. S. Obye is reported as being quite sick with the rheumatism.

Willie Gooser is reported as being quite sick with a gathering in the head.

J. M. Bunn went to Portland Wednesday morning to see his daughter Dora, who is at the hospital.

Theodore Hauswirth left Monday morning for Sumpter, where he goes to work at his trade of painting.

Mrs. John Hutchcroft received a telegram Monday morning that her son Mark, who has been sick with the fever was not expected to live.

George T. Hutchcroft, who has not been well for a long time, and who has been gradually getting worse, was taken to the hospital at Portland on Monday's morning train.

Bedford Laughlin, who has been staying with his father, Wm. Laughlin, during the winter, left Thursday for Dawson, where he is largely interested in the mining business.

Robert Hutchcroft left Monday morning for California, where he was called to the bedside of his wife, who has been staying in California this winter for her health. At the present time she is reported as being very low.

AMITY.

Elder Cane was on the sick list a few days last week.

Mrs. Frank Robinson has been one of the sick, but at present is convalescing.

Mrs. Clara Broadwell presented her husband last Thursday with a fine baby boy.

The Baptist people will commence a series of protracted meetings the first Monday in March.

The state superintendent of schools will lecture here on the evening of the 23d of this month.

Miss Ora Ladd, who has been spending the winter with her sister in Tacoma, returned to the parental roof last Wednesday.

Elder Evans of Salem will preach at the Christian church all this week. The elder is a forcible speaker and doubtless will have good audiences.

Prof. J. B. Long of this place is fast coming to the front as a magnetic healer. Many people say the professor is doing good among the sick, and attribute some cures to him.

Rev. Williams, the pastor of the M. E. church, occupied the pulpit at the Christian church last Friday night. This is as it should be, and when all ministers show this spirit more good will be done, and the world will have less to say.

NEWBERG.

After a two weeks visit in Portland, Mrs. W. M. Townsend has returned to her home.

John Larkin, who is attending a business college in Portland, spent Sunday with home folk.

G. C. Christenson and family of near McMinnville visited with relatives in town a few days last week.

Mrs. Margaret Lutke, grand matron of the O. E. S. of Oregon, officially visited Newberg chapter on Thursday last.

Mrs. Nancy Wiley, who some time ago fell and broke her hip, is on the way to recovery, despite the fact of her being eighty-four years of age.

An Editor's Life Saved by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

During the early part of October, 1896, I contracted a bad cold, which settled on my lungs and was neglected until I feared that consumption had appeared in an incipient state. I was constantly coughing and trying to expel something which I could not. I became alarmed, and after giving the local doctor a trial bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and the result was immediate improvement, and after I had used three bottles my lungs were restored to their healthy state.—B. S. Edwards, publisher of The Review, Wyant, Ill. For sale by H. Worth & Co., druggists.

Notice of Bids for Wood.

Sealed bids for furnishing wood will be received by the county clerk as follows: Fifteen cords of second-growth fir wood of good quality and well seasoned. Twenty-five cords of oak pole wood, well seasoned and to be not less than three inches in diameter at the small end, both fir and oak wood to be full 48 inches long and the fir to be split small enough for use in ordinary heating stoves. All to be carefully corded up on grounds just north of court house not later than September 1st, 1900. The county court reserves the right to reject any or all bids. Bids to be opened on the 8th day of March, 1900, at 10 a. m. By order of the court.

Mormons Near at Home.

J. W. Crawford, the new editor of the Independence West Side, has his own ideas on Mormonism, and has the ability to express them in vigorous language. A recent visit of two elders called forth the following expression:

On Saturday last as we sat in our sanctum with "no malice on our mind" and "no ruffles on our shirt," a pair of middle aged, ordinary looking, well dressed individuals entered and handed us cards. One of those cards read, "Elder Bertie Wm. Winward, Whitney, Idaho." The other card read, "Elder Peter Nielsen, Cleveland, Hancock county, Idaho."

These worthies (?) informed us that they were "ministers of the church of Christ, usually known as Latter Day Saints." That settled it with us. Our business with them ended then and there, even before it began, and we so informed them. We have noticed in the public prints of the day that whenever these wretched cankers on society make their appearance in the southern states they are notified to leave immediately, and if they refuse or neglect to depart without ceremony, are promptly swung to the first limb that will hold them. If the southern people would confine all their lynchings to these miserable excrescences upon the religious world—these worse than leprous wolves in sheep's clothing, the civilized world would find less fault with their hangings. We unhesitatingly advise the community to kick these lecherous outlaws out of their houses as unceremoniously as congress barred the doors against Roberts, who was considered too unclean to be admitted to a seat among honorable men, even while his misdeeds were being passed upon. Slavery and polygamy were, fifty years ago, denominated "The twin relics of barbarism," and now that slavery has been abolished, polygamy stands alone the only "relic of barbarism," friendless, rotten, a burning disgrace upon our civilization. The wild-eyed, demoniacal highwayman, who will not harm a hair of your head if you will deliver your money to him, and who operates only upon the few, is harmless indeed as compared with these destroyers of the fireside—these rascally, yet genteel appearing forerunners of the devil.

A BOOM FOR B AND THIRD.

Some Buildings to Go Up in McMinnville in 1900.

A meeting of the stockholders of the McMinnville Grange and Farmers Co., in which about fourteen-fifteenths of the stock was represented, was held in Grange hall Wednesday morning to consider the proposition of Mr. H. C. Burns to erect a large business block at corner of Third and B streets for the occupancy of this firm. His proposition to lease the principal part of the ground floor of a building 60x80 feet for a period of five years, at a yearly rental of $600, was accepted by more than a three-fourths vote, and with very little discussion.

The work of erecting the building will begin at an early date, and will be completed in time for the Grange store to move in during the month of September. The upper story will probably be made a public hall of good dimensions, and perhaps may be fitted for opera purposes. The Grange people will have the use of the entire ground space west of the building now occupied by Messrs. Mitchell, Lewis & Staver.

This fine improvement, coupled with a good building to be put up by Messrs. Flynn & Merton, will be a great boom for this particular locality.

Furthermore, parties have in serious contemplation the building of a good hotel with 90 feet frontage on the Crawford corner (the old Bettman stand.) Other new buildings are contemplated farther up Third street. This sort of public improvement means rapid growth for McMinnville and the making of a bustling town. Let every man who is liberal enough to invest his means in permanent public improvement receive the encouragement he deserves. That town whose fraternal business spirit is all right and whose business men pull together on every new enterprise, is the town that will receive the acquisition and the confidence of people seeking a new location for investment and home building. Let the good work go on.

Columbus School Notes.

Yesterday was Washington's birthday, and none of the pupils failed to think about the great hero.

There was school yesterday instead of today because some of the teachers and pupils wanted to visit other schools, while the other pupils said that they would rather go Thursday than Friday, than to be at home Thursday and then have to be back Friday. The directors allowed this to be done, or we would not have done it.

We will probably have the roll of honor for the 8th, 9th and 10th grades next week, while here are the rolls of honor for the 3d and 4th, 4th and 5th, and 5th and 6th grades.

The 4th and 5th grades: Bessie Luelling, Fred Schenk, Mary Maurer, Samuel Babcock, Albert Ulrich, Raymond Derby, Bessie Clark. Miss Bentley, teacher.

The 5th and 6th grades: First in rank in 6th grade: Arthur Bogue, Meta Matthies, Laura Seibert, average 95 per cent.

Second in rank: Bert Heath, Daryl Potter, Fay Wisecarver and Lucretia Strong, average 92 per cent.

First in rank in 5th grade: Deane Foster, average 97 per cent; Herbert Eckman, average 94 per cent. Eva E. Akin, teacher.

Third grade: Georgie Spencer, Claud Brower, Lawrence Yocom, Clarence Reynolds, Jennie Paulus, Clara Arthur, Agnes Fay, Willie Cox, Roy Johnson, Bertie Smith, Matt Small, Bertha Long, Nora Cockerham and Emma Small.

Fourth grade: Cecil Eccleston, Fred Keller, Arnold Johnson, Clarence Ulrich, Ethel Ford, Roger Collard, Willie Ferguson, Linsey Wheeler, Walter Potter, Naoma Carlin and Floris Derby. Emma Green, teacher.
