Diversified Farming Does Pay!
There is no doubt but that the farmers of Yamhill county now realize that raising cattle, sheep, goats, hogs and chickens pays. The St. Charles store appreciates this most beneficial change and is now enlarging for the increasing trade in consequence. May 1st our large store will be completed, when our splendid stock can be displayed to better advantage, and will be central for ladies from the country to get a chair while waiting. Notice is called to the planked place on B street for tying horses. Everyone welcome to visit this splendid trade depot. You'll be given polite attention.

In the turmoil and tribulation of politics and war, Elsie Wright, the harness maker, has not been lost sight of. He is still doing business at the same old stand and is ready now to give customers the best articles for the least money as he ever was. Among the latest invoice in his line will be found some very fine buggy robes and fancy bridles. His riding and buggy whips are good persuaders.

Some of the fusion papers are trying to deny that Dr. Daly is a banker, and say he has only some stock in the bank. The facts are he owns the majority of the bank and is the president of the bank which is about as near being a banker as a man can be without being a bank itself. This is not all, but he has been a single gold standard banker until he undertook the nomination for congress. And if he should be elected—and he will not—he would again be a gold standard man. Free silver bankers are very few, and Mr. Daly is not the few.—Albany Herald.

One of those parties which are chock full of fun for the persons giving them and of surprise for the recipient, was perpetrated on Mr. Knight Olds last Saturday evening at his country home in honor of his birthday. The following persons composed the hayrack load that blew the horns and filled the whole highway with merriment both going and returning, under the pilotage of Johnnie Rebmund, Messrs. France Dielschneider, Sam Laughlin, Walter Hembree, Frank Spencer, Jesse Irvine, Ernest Henderson, Chas. Young and Walter Miller, Mrs. Walter Miller, Mrs. Anbia Griffith, Misses Alta Booth, Arla Keen, Clara Irvine, Dortha Daniels, Maude Hembree, Estella and Etta Redmond, and Valeria Patty. Choice refreshments were taken by the party, and the pleasures of the evening constituted one of the most happy events of the season.

The Philharmonic club had a good attendance at its meeting with Mrs. Evenden Wednesday evening, and there were a number of visitors. Mrs. Evenden gave Chopin's funeral march, which was of especial interest. The next meeting will be with the Misses Hobbs.

Circumstances over which the S. P. Co. had no control placed this city on the main line Wednesday, and the overland trains between Portland and San Francisco, besides the local trains have given the west side road quite an air of business during the past two days. A freight train wreck near Albany blocked the main line, and the trains crossed over on the C. & E. between Albany and Corvallis.

Fred L. Post, the Yamhill fruit grower of the east end, was in town Monday, and in talking with him he informed us that his Italian prune crop is a failure. Contrary to the general supposition, he says the principal loss was not due to the frosts, but to the cold rains. The frost did not damage more than one-tenth of his crop, and the damage was visible a few hours after sunrise following the frost. But the damage from the rain could not be fully estimated for nearly a month afterwards. His pear crop is practically a failure. His peaches promise a good yield. From eight hundred trees he expects to gather an equal number of bushels of choice fruit.

Fred Cooper, the young artist, has a bright prospect of securing a splendid salary as a result of his exceptional ability to make his mind's eye and his fingers work in pleasing harmony. An offer is understood to have come from San Francisco of $50 per week for his services, and he is making arrangements to leave for that city about the 25th of the current month. For this reason the illustrated publication "Campaign," in which he and his father have been interested, will not be continued. We are much pleased to learn of Fred's bright prospects, and expect to hear of his continued advancement until he has reached the pinnacle of fame attained by Naat, Davenport, and the rest.

Messrs. Chas. Grissen and John Wortman returned on Saturday from a week's sojourn on their homesteads at the headwaters of the Willamina. Their time was largely occupied in constructing a wagon road extension to the big waterfall on Mr. Grissen's place, which required the building of one good-sized bridge. They were aided in this work by C. T. Long and one or two residents along the creek. Mr. Long is satisfied that he has discovered the shortest and easiest route through to the Nestucca river. His proposed road leads by Mr. Grissen's waterfall, then follows around a mountain and on through Testament gap to the Big Nestucca. Mr. Long is likely to revive the scheme of a few years ago to put through a practicable wagon road on a line westerly from McMinnville to the coast, and place the two points within an easy day's journey of each other. It would mean much to the two counties of Tillamook and Yamhill in the exchange of breadstuffs and dairy products, and in enabling valley people to reach a seacoast summer resort with less travel and fatigue. Let the good work be consummated.

Mrs. J. T. Converse has returned from the east.

After the reception of two new members into the Friendship lodge Daughters of Rebekah Tuesday evening, supper was served in the banquet hall, and the balance of the evening was devoted to a social time.

The business meeting of Cumberland Presbyterian Junior, for election of officers, was held May 4th. A good program was rendered, after which Mrs. Cox presented Miss Greene with a token of appreciation. The new officers were Mable Cox, president; Ernest Poole, vice president; Bertha Converse, treasurer; Essie and Bessie Baker, librarians; Ethel Ford, chorister; Meta Matthies, secretary.

Life of Hop Poles.
All hop-growers realize the time, labor and money expended in frequent renewing of poles. The wish is frequently expressed that some preparation could be discovered to save this triple expenditure. Such a discovery has been made in Carbolineum Avenarius.

This is an oily compound for the preservation of wood. Discovered in Germany over 25 years ago, it is successfully used today all over the world for railroad sleepers, pavements, bridges, ship timbers and hundreds of other purposes. Absolutely effectual in preserving material under such severe usage as this, its protective value for hop-poles, exposed simply to air and soil, can be readily perceived. A single treatment will insure them against decay, dry rot and vermin (the latter injurious to vine and pole alike) for ten years and render sharpening unnecessary for at least five. This can be safely guaranteed from successful results obtained in treating telegraph poles, in varying climates, subjected to almost identical exposure. In these cases Carbolineum Avenarius has always stood the test. Additionally, the cost of the article is light and it can be cheaply applied by any person. This is done with the brush, or better still, by dipping the poles into the liquid. Purchasers should notice carefully that the full name "Carbolineum Avenarius" appears on the package, as spurious imitations are offered by unscrupulous persons under the name Carbolineum and other similar titles, calculated to deceive the unwary. These are as worthless as the genuine article is valuable. For further information apply to O. O. Hodson, McMinnville, Or.
