FRIDAY, JUNE 15, 1900.

If Bryan should keep still from now until November he could not gain enough votes by it to insure his election.

It is reported that delegates are coming from Hawaii to attend the national conventions. It is not stated whether they are coming to "point with pride" or to "view with alarm."

It is a matter of peculiar note, that some of the eastern colleges have advanced so far in the use of the English language—between baseball, football and bicycle duties—as to call their last public exercises at the end of a term "closing exercises," instead of "commencement exercises."

Oregon should feel complimented by the many nice things said of her by the Eastern press on the result of the June election. Even congress made it a subject of considerable discussion. Oregon is not ready yet to repudiate expansion, and as a people we are certainly wise enough to vote for our own interests.

Gen. Leonard Wood, military governor of Cuba, says that only one case of embezzlement has been discovered among the 60,000 American soldiers sent to Cuba. The amount stolen was $180, and the guilty party is serving a three years' sentence. The papers engaged in slandering American honesty will ignore this official statement.

The trusts are not having things their own way by any means. Officers and directors of the ice trust, of New York, have been summoned to show why they should not be proceeded against criminally on the charge of conspiracy. They are accused of restraining and preventing competition. There is no tariff on ice, therefore it cannot be the offspring of protection.

Over in Marion county some of the farmers plowed up their fields of fall grain and planted potatoes on the land. The late rains had injured the grain, they thought, so much that it would not have made a profitable crop. A few farmers in this county treated their fall grain in this manner, but those who are fortunate in having spring grain are elated at the prospect of an abundant crop.

A New York young woman is now to become the wife of a rich man because she returned to him a pocket-book filled with money which he had lost and which she found. This should serve as a lesson to all young women. She might have kept the money and used it at her own pleasure, but in that case her conscience would have troubled her. Now she will have a chance to carry the pocket-book without any compunctions of conscience.

Democratic editors are still crying out against trusts, but democratic statesmen are singularly silent. Lately the lower house of congress voted on a constitutional amendment to be submitted to the state legislatures giving to congress and the states full power to regulate or dissolve trusts. The democrats were against it solidly, and it failed for lack of the necessary two-thirds. Their anti-trust enthusiasm evaporated when a practical remedy was proposed.

"Oregon points the way," gleefully shout the republican newspapers of the United States when referring to our late election. Truly enough, Oregon's June election is of great value to the nation at least once in four years, at the same time it is an expensive luxury just that often. This year we have two elections, with their attendant necessary expenses. But the advertising of the sound money and expansion victory this year in Oregon is glory for the successful party, and in view of the present situation, Oregon will point the way again in 1904, and on numerous dates thereafter.

Anti-expansionists are overreaching themselves when they insanely attack President McKinley because of the prosecution of the war in the Philippines. He was not primarily responsible for the war, nor has he been alone in urging it to a finish. A violently unfair political arraignment is apt to become a boomerang, whacking the would-be whackers.

Newberg's beet sugar factory would furnish a cash market for beets at every railway station in Yamhill county—a crop which it is estimated would net the grower from $20 to $40 per acre. With the completion of the Yamhill locks, McMinnville will have the advantage of river transportation to the factory, and in view of the "diversity of agriculture" that the culture of beets would give, our farmers could well afford to set aside a few acres each, as a sugar beet experiment, in order to encourage the new enterprise on the one hand, and for their not improbable personal gain on the other.

The persistence with which missionaries remain at their stations in the interior of China in the face of the mobs shows an unselfish devotion to the missionary idea, but when it is all summed up it savors more of fanaticism than of fortitude. The zeal that sent them has kept them there during the preliminary outbreaks of lawlessness, regardless of the fact that, however valuable to civilization a living missionary may be, a dead missionary represents nothing but wasted effort. Civilized nations should bring their zealous servants of mercy home, or else emphatically tell China to cease torturing and murdering them.

With election matters out of their way, our citizens will have an opportunity to discuss some of the questions relating to the future prosperity of the city and county. McMinnville's creamery lies idle through a failure of co-operation among its patrons in the past. Discuss the creamery project and see if you cannot induce its owners to make another trial. "Prosperous Tillamook" is the subject of conversation everywhere. Dairying is the cause of the prosperity of that section. Yamhill county has advantages vastly superior to Tillamook, and our people ought to be able to enjoy the blessings which providence will bestow if we only reach out and grab them before they pass by.

The situation in China grows more grave, and the indications point to a crisis which shall affect the whole world. Russia and Japan may come to war as a result of the Boxer outbreak. It is fully believed that Russia will take advantage in China before the subjugation of the Boers releases Great Britain of her South African trouble. In this predicament the British press and politicians are looking anxiously to President McKinley to interpose some effectual check to the fruition of Russia's alleged designs. It is probable that the United States will send a sufficient marine force to Chinese waters to protect its interests, but that outside of this precaution we will not necessarily become involved in the war, which, if once started, will draw into conflict England and Japan against France and Russia.
