Nels Christenson reports that this season's first load of wheat was brought in to the elevator yesterday by the Ferguson brothers of West Chehalis. The yield was only about ten and a half bushels per acre. When re-shingling a barn roof a few days ago, Jerry O'Brien found one, among the old fir shingles, which was in a remarkable state of preservation considering that it had been subjected to the pattering of Oregon mist for about sixty-five years, as Jerry figured out. After quite a careful survey of Oregon towns with a view to location, Drew and Ore Price have come to the conclusion that there is no place like old Newberg, and have about determined upon opening up a law office here. Their many friends will be glad to see them back home again and wish them abundant success in their chosen profession. A traveler arrived in Newberg Monday evening all the way from southern Russia, in the person of Miss Caroline Semmler. She came to join her brother John Semmler and family, who came out here from North Dakota several months ago and who live out in the thrifty German settlement east of town. Verily the fame of Newberg reacheth afar. Frederick Swetman, who lived four miles southwest of Newberg, died last Friday after a lingering illness. The funeral took place here Sunday morning at 11 o'clock in the Friends church. He was born about eighty years ago on Prince Edward Island, Canada, and for forty years did faithful service as lighthouse keeper there. In 1876 he moved with his family to Newberg, where he has since resided. He has ever been a consistent christian man and member of the Friends church of this place. Even when bowed down and bent with the weight of his fourscore years, until within the last year or more, he regularly walked to Newberg and back, eight miles in all, to attend the mid-week meeting. Certainly a true father in Israel has fallen. Three daughters and one son remain to mourn his loss, his wife having died several years ago, since moving to Newberg.—Graphic.

Ed Wood says he knows of but one vacant residence in this city north of Cozine creek. This, for so early in the season, presages a very crowded population and a total inability to supply habitations for the people when they begin to gather in for the winter, and to attend the schools and the college. It would certainly bring good returns were someone to erect a number of good houses for the purpose of renting. Mr. Wood remembers that last year about fifteen families were kept out of town for lack of homes, and he estimates that this fall there will be about three times that number.
Mr. Fairchiles, an elderly gentleman past 80 years, made application before the county court yesterday for support. He has been living with C. E. Pound and family, to whom, some time ago, he deeded 160 acres of hill land in consideration that Pound would take care of him in his old age. He alleges that this has not been done, and his ragged and dirty appearance before the court lends strength to his allegation. He states further that the lady of the house knocked him over with a broomstick the other morning, because he had taken a small piece of bread to feed the cat on the porch. The conditions of the deed are such that should the old man contest it before the court, there is slight doubt that it would be invalidated by the evidence of failure to live up to its provisions. The old man has been living with some of the neighbors part of the time because he regarded the other place as intolerable. There is probably need of forbearance on both sides, and it is understood that Mr. Pound has some willingness to deed the land back to the old man to get rid of his bargain.
The frequency with which you meet people of a certain name in this county has often been noted. There has just been issued from The Reporter office by W. T. Macy, ex-county recorder, as compiler, at great cost of painstaking and labor, a valuable book known as the "Financial Statement and Postoffice Address of Residents of Yamhill County, Oregon," being virtually an abstract of the county assessor's records in the most important points. Its enumeration reveals the frequency of these names. If you are an Adams it will be interesting to know that there are 7 of you, likewise 9 Aldermans, 10 Agees, 15 Allens, 7 Allison, 12 Andersons, 11 Bakers, 6 Bennetts, 7 Birds, 5 Bognes, 5 Bones, 10 Booths, 8 Bradleys, 10 Bransons, 8 Brooks, 31 Browns, 8 Buells, 6 Caldwell, 11 Campbells, 8 Carters, 14 Christensons, 11 Clarks, 18 Cooks, 17 Coopers, 20 Davises, 13 Edwards, 10 Evans, 11 Everests, 10 Faulconers, 17 Fletchers, 16 Goodriches, 14 Graves, 11 Hadleys, 14 Halls, 16 Harries, 11 Hembrees, 10 Hendersons, 10 Henrys, 8 Hesses, 9 Hewitts, 9 Hodsons, 10 Hutchens, 9 Jensens, 23 Johnsons, 24 Jones, 14 Langhills, 25 Martins, 13 Mills, 24 Millers, 15 Morrises, 16 Nelsons, 12 Olds, 10 Perkins, 13 Roberts, 20 Robertsons, 7 Sittons, 32 Smiths, 9 Williams, 15 Wilsons, 12 Woods and 11 Wrights.

Watt Henderson and family have been in camp at Jones' mill for some time. Watt was down on Thursday and filed a complaint that he hadn't been noticed. He acquired the faculty of slipping out of town so quietly when sheriff that we hadn't missed him.
The condition of Nome briefly expressed seems to be about as follows: Gray-haired old men and women are there with no means of getting away. Huddled in their tents they wait for something to turn up, and bemoan the day that they ever left the states. The trouble with the country is that too many people, especially poor people, have rushed in. They are there now and have nothing to do and no money to pay their passage home. On every departing vessel there is a rush for passage. More than 400 came down on the Senator, and all other steamers carry south similar crowds. Moneyless people stow away on board, and the steamship authorities have great trouble in getting rid of the unfortunates. After putting off five of them, the officers of the Senator, after she was out to sea, discovered on board three more stowaways, all of whom were penniless.

Rev. E. E. Thompson, while preaching, sank down into the pulpit of the Third Cumberland Presbyterian church, Seattle, Sunday morning. It was found that he was suffering from heart trouble. He is confined to his bed, but is improving.
Walter Hembree received a telephone message from a Portland man early in the week saying that Joe Felner was killed at Baker City on Sunday morning by falling into a mining shaft. The report seems to lack confirmation or at least further particulars. Those who know Joe best say that it would be a good deal like him to start the story himself. Of course they hope to learn it is a mistake.
D. A. Covert, an employe of the Broadmead farm, was laid up by an accident last Friday. He was driving a sulky hayrake when the neckyoke broke. The team backed up against the rake, and a kick from one of the horses broke Covert's leg below the knee. Mr. Thomason, the manager of the farm, had the unfortunate man conveyed to St. Vincent's hospital, where he will necessarily remain for some time. The young man is a son of J. W. Covert of Dayton.
A peculiar accident happened at the City livery stable last Thursday evening. Mr. Wing had hired a team to A. T. Matthews, a man traveling with charts for sale, and who had the careless habit of leaving the team stand in the road without tying. This he did once too often, and at the Gabriel place two miles towards Amity they started and ran home. They entered the stable without damage, but standing upon the inside was another team which had just driven in. This was run into and both teams and buggies were forced through to the rear of the barn by the collision and piled up together. The result was a broken hind leg for one of the horses of the team first driven in the barn, and two buggies considerably damaged. The price received by Mr. Wing for the horse should not be taken as a criterion of the value of horses in this section. He only received $15. The man should have had to pay that much for his carelessness, as runaways endanger human life as well.
Elks Carnival.
Account grand carnival of the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks, to be held at Portland, September 4th to 15th inclusive, tickets will be sold at reduced rates from all stations on Oregon lines to Portland and return. These tickets will be on sale September 3d, 4th, 6th and 13th, and limited to three days after date of sale.
For further particulars, call on or address Southern Pacific agent at McMinnville.
Excursion and Carnival.
McMinnville should have a rousing celebration at the opening of the Lafayette locks. River excursion, fruit carnival and queen, street fair, games etc., etc. Several prominent business men have signified a desire to aid the enterprise; therefore a meeting of all interested is called for in the city hall next Monday evening, at 8 p. m. Everyone, ladies included, invited to attend and give their views. By request of the board of trade.
