WOOLLEY ON MCKINLEY.

EDITOR REPORTER: I note a paragraph in The Reporter of last Friday which purports to be a characterization of Mr. McKinley by John G. Woolley. You call it "a remarkable utterance for a prohibitionist." It is remarkable, indeed, so remarkable that no one who knows Mr. Woolley could believe that he had been rightly reported. As you report Mr. Woolley he is made to say: "McKinley is a good man. He is opposed to the liquor traffic—the army canteen—and all that, but until he feels the force in the country back of him supporting him in his attitude he cannot proceed against the evil." (Italics mine.) This is so diametrically opposed to Mr. Woolley's editorial utterances in The New Voice, and to the entire tenor of his remarks in his great speech at the Marquam last Wednesday evening, that I cannot but feel that you have, no doubt unintentionally, misrepresented him. And the fact that this alleged utterance follows so closely after your kindly mention of my name makes me fear that the casual reader might, with some reason, suppose that I had reported Mr. Woolley as above, especially since you give no other authority for the statement. If any care to know what Mr. Woolley thinks of Mr. McKinley they might ascertain from the Oregonian's report of his Marquam speech in the issue of last Thursday morning. I can vouch for the correctness of the report as given out in the Oregonian, as I listened with careful interest to the address. I suggest that, if your space permits, you reproduce the Oregonian report, which is Mr. Woolley's "real opinion" of Mr. McKinley. Would you kindly state also your authority for the alleged quotation appearing last week? I enclose herewith the clipping from the Oregonian's report giving the gist of Mr. Woolley's words concerning Mr. McKinley. In "fairness" will you not kindly publish this true version? Yours Sincerely,
H. L. BOARDMAN.

McMinnville, Sept. 8, 1900.

The "real opinion" is as follows:

"His policy is like the bark of a tree to the trunk of the common morality. (Applause.) He himself measures out toll to the spiritual circumference of the system to which he himself is attached. (Laughter and applause.) He is not set in his mind to do any wrong thing. I don't believe that at all, that he is set in his mind to do any wrong thing. But by profession and long habit he has trained himself and the system which has produced him has trained him to do the pleasure of the christian constituency, whose spiritual normal is not healthy, but mitigated and well-nourished disease. He cannot do right and be re-elected, and that is not his fault. (Laughter and applause.) If he should desire to be re-elected, the great bulk of the christian voters, the voice of the bulk of teachers, by their actions in politics, say to the president and say to every man who desires to serve his country, "Seek ye first a reelection, a good, workable, moderately immoral character, and trust to luck that these other things may be annexed in good time." He is not a prophet, and does not pretend to be a prophet. He is not a prophet, but an illustration, and a mighty good one. (Laughter.) I doubt if the present system of christian politics in America can produce a better illustration of itself. I doubt if any better president, any better vessel for the service of this civilization can be turned off such a potter's wheel as produced him. (Laughter.) He is not a prophet, as I said. A prophet is a man who believes something (laughter), who believes it hard, who believes it when alone, and if he believes it when alone, believes it in a crowd, great or small, who believes it in public office and private life, who believes it in his political capacity as well as in his sacred self, and who not only believes it, but believes it so that he is ready to be crucified for it, and not only that, but is ready to fight for it upon the political field.

The discrepancy of opinion is either Mr. Woolley's, given forth at different times, or that of reporters from the same office, the quotation we made being from an interview of the previous day. But after all, isn't the difference of opinion very slight? Can the two opinions be considered as diametrically opposed to each other? One is, "McKinley is a good man," the other is, "McKinley is not set in his mind to do any wrong thing." Here, certainly, is similarity. "He is opposed to the liquor traffic, the canteen, and all that." So is the "christian constituency," of which he is "the spiritual circumference." Mr. Woolley doubts "if the present system of christian politics in America can produce a better illustration of itself" than Mr. McKinley. Then Mr. Woolley should direct his criticism against the "unhealthy spiritual normal" of American christianity rather than its perfect flowered representative, who seems to be all that the present civilization could expect. He might also have said more directly that Woolley stands for the healthy normal and the higher civilization. "Our party takes no stand on the political questions of the day," he exclaims, and there is just where Mr. Woolley and his party fall down. Most Americans want to know what sort of a government we are to have, or whether any government. Mr. Woolley and his supporters must get off their stomachs before they can become a "party of hope."

The fact is, when prohibitionists hitherto have taken a stand on other governmental questions, they have been very closely allied to the democrats. They are now a party of hope that they may get 500,000 votes to demonstrate the strength of their ideas. As The Reporter has stated before, all that has been accomplished in past years—in Maine, in Iowa, in Kansas, and elsewhere—toward practical prohibition, has been through the medium of the republican party. No one can truthfully gainsay this. Mr. Woolley says we could not last for a minute as a national party with other methods, than the one idea of the destruction of the saloon. This is true, because their temperance idea is represented by that perfect flower of the present christian civilization, while their other ideas are mostly embodied in that party which has laid like a treacherous and relentless tiger, watching every movement of the president during all the trying years of his administration; which has been praying that Mr. McKinley might err, that it might reap an advantage. While the president has been weighted down and overwhelmed with distressing cares; while upon his shoulders have rested grave and serious responsibilities, involving the very integrity and honor of the nation; while he has stood patiently and vigilantly at the helm guiding with rare judgment the ship of state through perils of a most threatening character, this party of Bryanism, hungry for votes and greedy for power, has harassed and annoyed the administration with false and malicious charges; has obstructed the peaceful and orderly conduct of public affairs, and has, instead of diminishing the country's difficulties, added to them—has prayed that the hard-driven man who stood at the head of the government might sink under the weight of cares, might let something escape his observation that could be distorted into a wrongful intent. And all of this for what? All of this to land that "eminent" and "peerless statesman," that most "American American," William Jennings Bryan, in a place where mediocrity shall never sit so long as intelligence dominates in America. Perhaps Mr. Woolley would prefer the success of this party. We notice he is not criticizing Mr. Bryan to any great extent.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a Great Favorite.

The soothing and healing properties of this remedy, its pleasant taste and prompt and permanent cures have made it a great favorite with people everywhere. It is especially prized by mothers of small children for colds, croup and whooping cough, as it always affords quick relief, and as it contains no opium or other harmful drug, it may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by Howorth & Co., druggists.

CARLTON.

George Roberts, the depot agent, returned home from the coast where he has been spending his vacation last Friday. He reports a very good time.

Mr. Ong, who has been keeping the depot in Mr. Roberts' absence, went to McMinnville on Saturday.

Hon. W. A. Howe went to Newport last Saturday.

Frank and Harry Pierce attended the street fair in Portland a few days last week.

Miss Severns, of Portland, is visiting with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Hudson of this place.

W. T. Matlock, pastor of the Christian church, was called to North Yamhill last Sunday afternoon to conduct the funeral of William B. Parker of that place, who died in the Good Samaritan Hospital in Portland, last Friday.

Mr. Edson began picking his hops, just east of town, on Monday.

Many will be sad to learn that Miss Nellie Finley was pronounced insane and taken to the asylum last Sunday.

Many will also be sorry to learn of the fatal accident which happened to Mrs. Niles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. McCune, Tuesday morning. It seems that she was standing on the railroad track talking to Mr. Thos. Fryer when the ten o'clock train came along. From some cause or other she failed to get off the track until it was too late and the engine struck her knocking her off and killing her almost instantly. The coroner arrived Tuesday, but was unable to hold the inquest until Wednesday, as it was impossible to have the train men present until then.

Cuts and Bruises Quickly Healed.

Chamberlain's Pain Balm applied to a cut, bruise, burn, scald or like injury will instantly allay the pain and will heal the parts in less time than any other treatment. Unless the injury is very severe it will not leave a scar. Pain Balm also cures rheumatism, sprains, swellings and lameness. For sale by Howorth & Co., druggists.

SHERIDAN.

Boyd Meudenhall will leave on Friday for Eugene, where he will enter the university for another year.

The carnival at Portland does not seem to have much attraction for our town people, as very few have attended thus far.

Quite a number from our town attended Ringling Bros.' big circus at Salem last Saturday and express themselves as being well pleased with what they saw.

O. P. McLaughlin and F. B. Churchman were Portland visitors last Thursday.

Will Huston, who was improving after a siege of typhoid fever, suffered a relapse last week and was very ill for several days, but is reported to be some better again.

Miss Icy Ralston is clerking in Key's store in the absence of J. L. Morris, who is taking a vacation.

Dan Savage and Guy Lamson of Willamina, passed through town last Monday with a drove of beef cattle which they were driving to the Portland market.

Johannie Buster has gone to Corvallis to enter the Oregon Agricultural college.

There seems to be considerable sickness in this vicinity. The doctors are kept quite busy. Several cases of typhoid are reported.

Elton Ralston and sister, Miss Laura, are in Portland for a few days viewing the carnival. Miss Laura will select their fall stock of millinery goods while there.

A runaway horse belonging to DeLashmott's livery stable took a lively spin about town Sunday morning, almost demolishing the buggy to which it was hitched.

The river bridge at this place is undergoing repairs, which causes a great many teams to ford the river.

A telephone message came to Coroner Chapman Tuesday forenoon, saying a lady had been killed at Carlton by the train. No further information.

NORTH YAMHILL.

Miss Ella and Etta Daniels of Tacoma, are visiting with their sister, Mrs. Jennie Parker.

Miss Gertrude Knight of Spokane, Wash., departed for her home yesterday after spending the summer with her aunt, Mrs. F. Goodrich.

Mrs. Nellie Wills-Buckanan who has been spending a few days with friends returned home yesterday accompanied by Miss Josephine Hoffstatter. Miss Hoffstatter will attend High School in Portland this winter.

J. P. Leman, of Ft. Stevens, is home on a furlough.

E. F. Schneider will leave for Spokane today, where he goes to build one of his fruit driers.

From the results of a fall Mrs. Murphy is suffering with a broken arm and a dislocated wrist. Dr. Coffeen of Carlton reduced the fractures.

Dr. O. D. Ireland and wife will leave for Chicago the last of the week.

D. P. Trullinger was in Portland Monday ordering machinery for the new mill. He soon expects to have an up to date mill.

W. B. Parker died at the Good Samaritan Hospital Friday and was buried here Sunday. He leaves a wife and five small children.

James Mesner came over from Tillamook Wednesday, going to Portland Thursday, to attend the carnival and circus. From there he goes to Sumpter where he has secured a position on a stage line.

E. G. Seaton and wife, L. B. Ferguson, Mrs. F. H. Caldwell, Miss Ottie Perkins, M. C. Riteledge, E. F. Schneider, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brown, Miss Mary Cooper and many others attended the Portland carnival and circus.

Eleven families arrived on last night's train from Wisconsin. They intend to locate.

Mrs. L. E. Roy of Pilot Rock is visiting with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Morris.

Hop picking is now general. Many will be completed the last of the week. The slight rain did no damage to the hops.

COLLEGE OPENING EXERCISES.

The opening exercises of the 1900-1901 term of McMinnville college Wednesday forenoon were attended by a large number of patrons and friends of our cherished home educational institution.

President Boardman, on behalf of the faculty, gave an address of welcome, and then announced the opening hymn. A scripture lesson followed the singing, after which a prayer was offered by Rev. G. W. Fender.

Prof. W. W. Bristow, principal of the McMinnville public schools, was introduced by a boardman, and devoted half an hour to a very instructive lecture to the pupils, and to parents as well, and all others to whom it might apply. Prof. Bristow's theme was "Ethical Education," and in an eloquent manner he enunciated the great principles of ethical education. The code of regulations which Prof. Bristow prizes very highly, is founded upon moral education, making our duties to humanity true, honest and just. He quoted from the proverbs of Solomon those maxims that, if heeded, are sure to lead to lofty thoughts and a high standard of attainment. His peroration was a plea for the same standard of morality for both the young men and young ladies—if the boys smoked cigarettes, or indulged in profanity, why not extend the same questionable privilege to the young lady members of society, at least until the young men became convinced by example and precept that the same circumspect life was expected of them that they demanded of their sisters and sweethearts.

The new member of the faculty, Miss Rose M. Trumbull, principal of the music department, was introduced. Miss Trumbull announced her profound pleasure in being a member of the faculty of McMinnville college, and expressed the hope that some day this might become the conservatory of the great northwest, and bear the same relationship to the musical education of the section adjacent to Oregon as the New England conservatory now does to the large scope of country east of us. Miss Trumbull favored the audience with a piano selection, of her own composition.

Prof. Boardman called attention to the two new portraits that had been given places of honor upon the chapel walls during the year. They were those of Dr. Anderson, past president, and Rev. A. J. Hunsaker, of the board of trustees.

Then, after the time-honored "America" had been sung, the meeting that marked the beginning of the forty-third year of McMinnville college, was dismissed.

Cured of Chronic Diarrhoea After Thirty Years of Suffering.

"I suffered for thirty years with diarrhoea and thought I was past being cured," says John S. Hallway, of French Camp, Miss. "I had spent so much time and money and suffered so much that I had given up all hopes of recovery. I was so feeble from the effects of the diarrhoea that I could do no kind of labor, could not even travel, but by accident I was permitted to find a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and after taking several bottles I am entirely cured of that trouble. I am so pleased with the result that I am anxious that it be in reach of all who suffer as I have." For sale by Howorth & Co., druggists.
