FRIDAY, OCT. 12, 1900.

It has remained for Mr. Jones, of Toledo, formerly a third party man, but now openly a democrat, to make the most remarkable misquotation of the campaign. In a speech at Detroit a few nights ago he said: "I am not here to appeal to your partisanship or passion, but to your patriotism, and I am reminded in this connection of that saying of Jesus of Galilee, 'The world is my country and to do good is my religion.'" The author of the sentence is Tom Paine.

The special methods employed for the protection of President McKinley from possible assault, since the late discovery of a secret plot to assassinate him, is deemed necessary by all prudent men. Assassination has gone out of fashion in serious politics, and the chief peril of modern statesmen is from crack-brained fanatics. The tendency of ambitious mountebanks to arouse class hatred has produced a large army of irrationals, any one of whom might visit the president and murder him if the way were not blocked by the police. It was wholly unnecessary to guard the persons of the earlier presidents of the United States. The sad sequel of Lincoln's second term, and Garfield's tragic and untimely fate give evidence of times and conditions.

In a late issue of the Oregonian an editorial headed "Notice to Delinquents" shames the Bryanites of Oregon for their lack of enthusiasm for their candidate, and throws out the intimation that the Oregonian might cease circulation of democratic campaign literature in the shape of communications. The Oregonian has no cause for complaint at the burden of Bryan matter it is expected to carry. The Oregonian has abused President McKinley unjustly, and notwithstanding the seeming loyal support of the administration since the Philadelphia convention, the Bryan people cannot help looking to the Oregonian for succor in this, their darkest hour. No democratic paper has ever said the unkind words about the president that the Oregonian has, and the Bryanites are loth to take it seriously now.

Senator Sherman lately made this statement, which, being of interest to farmers, they should bear in mind in the coming canvass: "During the first year of the Wilson law, the agricultural imports—all of which are such as are produced in the United States, the most common products of our farms—were of the value of $107,342,522; during the last year of the McKinley law, the imports of the same farm products were of the value of $51,414,844." In other words, the imports of agricultural products, produced in this country in the greatest abundance, were doubled in amount under the Wilson law, as compared with the amount imported under the McKinley law. It is clear that a tariff for revenue, no matter what else it may do, does not bring the promised help to farmers.

Stories of famine and suffering among the Indians on the Sacaton reservation in Arizona fill the press dispatches, and widespread death is certain to occur this winter, among the aborigines. Hunger and suffering appeals at once to the better side of human nature, and while they may be only Indians, death by starvation must be as terrible for them as it would be for one who possesses all the traits of industry and self-help. People with a knowledge of Indian character do not need to be told that the Indian man will not work; that such labor as is necessary to keep bare life afoot is performed by the squaws. As a race the Indian takes no thought of the morrow. These lordly sons of the forest have leanings toward socialism, and they have learned to depend upon a parental government for food and raiment. It is evident that news of the discovery of maize by Hiawatha, as recited by Longfellow, has not yet reached the Indians of Arizona, or that constitutional inertia prevents them from profiting by it. The facts in the case are probably that the annuity system of the government has joined aboriginal laziness in forming a combination which has resulted in pauperism of the type that only exerts itself to demand food when hungry. This is but the natural consequence of too much paternalism of the government carrying able-bodied men instead of requiring them to work.

An Old Warhorse Lost to the Bryanites.

William M. Colvig, of Jacksonville, one of the leading warhorses of Oregon, and a democratic warhorse of the old school, has come out against Bryan. Four years ago Mr. Colvig loyally supported Bryan, and was known as one of the best campaigners the democracy had in Oregon. But he can't stand the Bryanite doctrine of hauling down the flag, and has declared for McKinley and Roosevelt. In a letter to George A. Steel, chairman of the republican state committee, offering his services for the campaign, Mr. Colvig says:

"There are a goodly number of democrats in this (Jackson) county, who, for the sake of party, might be led considerably out of the way on purely economic questions relating to governmental affairs, but when they are required, as now, by their leaders to take a position that makes them feel like American cowards, they will not go. Some of us place our love of country, its flag, its institutions, and its destiny far above party loyalty."

NEWBERG.

On Sunday John Larkin and Ore Price wheeled to Dayton and Lafayette. Mrs. Adalade Bodmer of La Grande, visited in town for some weeks, and returned to her home.
A public reception will be given at the M. E. church on Thursday to welcome the new minister, Rev. Hiram Gould, and his family.
I. Ed. Holt, a former townsman of ours, but now a resident of Oaksdale, Washington, is here on a visit and his jolly laugh is good to hear.
The republicans have issued a call to reorganize the McKinley club, and they will soon have some good speakers to address the people of this vicinity.
Tuesday evening the United Artisan lodge of Newberg served a fine banquet in Crater's hall, in honor of about forty new members who have recently joined the order here. Lafayette lodge was well represented.
A union mass meeting is to be held at the Baptist church to organize an anti saloon society. Newberg has no saloon by that name, but the cider mill is doing a rushing business, with success, if anybody should ask you.
Two new windows have been placed in the west wall of the Chicago store building.
Peter Paulus, late of Michigan, but more recently from Albany has opened a tailor shop in the Flynn building. See his ad in another column.

TOO MUCH

Exercise is as bad as too little for the exercising girl. It is very easy for her to overdo, and this is especially dangerous at that critical period of a young girl's life when she crosses the line of womanhood. It is not an uncommon thing to lay the foundation for years of after misery by neglect of necessary precautions at the first "change of life."

The use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription not only establishes regularity, but it gives health to the entire womanly organism. It is the best medicine for diseases peculiar to women because it cures the causes of disease completely and permanently.
"Favorite Prescription" contains no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine nor any other narcotic. It cannot disagree with the most delicate constitution.
"For a number of months I suffered with female trouble," writes Miss Agnes McGowan, of 1212 Bank Street, Washington, D. C. "I tried various remedies, but none seemed to do me any permanent good. The doctors said it was the worst case of internal trouble they ever had. I decided to write to you for help. I received a very encouraging reply and commenced treatment at once. I had not used your Favorite Prescription a week before I began to feel better, and, as I continued, my health gradually improved, and is improving every day."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

LAFAYETTE.

Miss Belle Belcher is in Portland visiting her brother, C. T. Belcher.
Mr. and Mrs. Harris of Portland are here visiting her father, J. L. Vickrey.
Mrs. G. G. Bingham of Salem is over visiting relatives and friends this week.
Mr. Lowndale has a heavy crew picking apples now. The apples are fine.
Mrs. Metzger of Dallas came down last Monday and will visit here for a week.
Grandma Burnett of McMinnville is visiting relatives and friends here this week.

THE CASE OF HENRY VS. YAMHILL COUNTY.

Opinion of Judge Burnett Affirmed.
Judge Wolverton of the supreme court has passed on the above case, in which the plaintiff, while acting as sheriff of Yamhill county, brought suit to recover the salary of his deputy, and a demurrer to his complaint having been sustained, judgment was rendered against him, dismissing the action, from which he appealed. The opinion of the supreme court says that the sheriffs are not entitled to recover the salaries of their deputies. Such demands are personal and should be made in the names of deputies themselves, unless duly assigned. In this particular, the complaint fails to state a cause of action, and the demurrer was properly sustained.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes.

The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood. If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work.
Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.
Kidney trouble causes quick or unsteady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries.
It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail. Home of Swamp-Root, free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.
