AT COST!

AT COST!

$85,000 Worth of First-Class Merchandise

Will be sold at Manufacturers' Wholesale Price. This will be one of the most important sales that ever has been or ever will be again in Oregon, which will take place at

R. J. JACOBSON & CO'S., McMinnville, Oregon

Close to $85,000 of first-class and well-selected stock will be sold at cost on account of a change in business. R. Jacobson, the senior member of R. Jacobson and Co., has made arrangements to connect himself with a Clothing Manufacturing House in San Francisco, in which he will enter about March 1st or sooner. This change will be a great benefit to this business, also to the consumers, and in order to make this change, we are obliged to make such sale to realize a large sum of money. This Sale Will Commence Saturday, November 10th.

Bright and early, and continue until January, 1901, and after that day the business will be continued the same as before. Don't miss the great opportunity. You will be surprised when you see the cut we have made.

We Will Do Just What We Advertise. Some Goods will be sold One-Third off from Regular Prices.

Stock consists of the following lines: Clothing, Dry Goods, Boots & Shoes, Furnishing Goods, Hats & Caps, Ladies' Tailor-Made Suits, Capes, Jackets, Furs and Fur Collar-ettes, Millinery, Fancy Goods, Carpets and Oilcloths, Blankets and Quilts, Trunks and Valises, and our whole stock of Piece Goods for Men's Tailor-Made Suits. Respectfully Yours, R. J. JACOBSON & CO., McMinnville, Oregon.

3 Corn Removers.

FIRST: Have six pairs of Shoes, use a different pair daily.
SECOND: Go barefoot six weeks.
THIRD: Use Rogers Bros.' Corn Cure.

The latter is the most practicable and surest. Corns can't stay where it is used. It can't fail, can't hurt the toe; can't do anything but take off corns. If you have corns now, next week you need have none. The remedy is different from others, better than others, and the cost is but 25 cents.

ROGERS BROS.' Pioneer Pharmacy.

TRYING TO SOLVE IT.

A Problem That Vexes Farmers—Does Summer Fallow Pay?

In some parts of the country the practice of summer fallowing the land has been abandoned because it was thought that such practice caused an excessive loss of plant food from the soil by leaching out. This question of course applies principally to those sections of country where the rainfall is sufficient to cause water to leach from the soil.

The experiment station at Corvallis is going to try and answer the question. This fall the station specialists have had made a number of strong galvanized iron pots two feet in diameter and two feet deep, the sides and bottoms water tight with the exception of drainage pipes so fixed in the bottoms that all the drainage waters can escape through them and be caught in jars. Each pot is provided with a drainage pipe and jar for catching the water which leaches through.

These pots are kept out of doors under normal conditions. All the pots are filled with the same lot of soil thoroughly mixed, each pot receiving exactly 500 pounds of the soil. On one or two pots summer fallow will be practiced and on other pots a rotation of crops without summer fallow.

The drainage water from each pot as it leaches through will be caught and carefully analyzed from day to day so that the experimenters will know just how much plant food is being lost from each pot, or miniature field, and will be able to tell whether summer fallow causes an excessive loss or not. This work will be continued a number of years in order to get reliable and conclusive results.—Corvallis Times.

Notes on the Election.

The prohibition vote in this county shows a falling off since June of about 35 votes.

The majority in McMinnville for McKinley is 70 votes. Four years ago Bryan had a majority of 52. This is a republican gain of 122.

McMinnville gave a democratic majority of 3 for Daly, democrat, for congress, last June. The republicans are making strides in this town.

A local populist was asked as the first returns came in, "How's it going?" "Well," he replied, "Bryan has carried h—1 and Texas, while Missouri is still in doubt."

A story comes from Sheridan that two democrats, who raised and sold sheep in Cleveland days for $1.10, and who in McKinley times have been getting $6 per head, walked up to the polls Tuesday and voted their tickets blank. A poor way to show their appreciation of republican prosperity.

In almost every precinct there were some defective ballots. Some voters are slow to comprehend the Australian plan. A voter, evidently a republican, in East Dayton precinct crossed out everything below the republican electors. This is not ordinary republican intelligence. Another voter in one of the precincts marked one elector on four different tickets.

The lone prohibitionist in Williamina precinct did not fail to reach the polls. He has been casting that faithful little ballot for several years.

The republican majority in this county shows a gain of 305 votes over that of 1896.

Taken together, the precincts of Chocoma and North Yamhill are a tie between McKinley and Bryan.

Lafayette carried for McKinley by one vote. This is a gain of four for Bryan over 1896, though a much smaller vote was cast.

Licenses to Marry.
Oct. 31—Elmer Merchant, 25, of King County, Wash., and Lizzie Reeves, 20, of Yamhill county.
Nov. 2—Jas. Mitchell, 40, and Nora Robertson, 25, of this county.

LAFAYETTE.

Doug Bryan, of Tillamook, was over a few days ago. He reports some snow on the road. The salmon are having a big run up Trask river.

John Sampson was down to town a few days ago.

Mrs. Del Klosterman, from Chehalam, was here on business a few days ago.

The water in the river was too high to operate the locks for a time.

Elder Watters will hold quarterly meeting next Sunday at 11 o'clock. Preaching by the pastor at night.

The election passed off quietly on Tuesday. New York, Indiana, Illinois, Wyoming, Nebraska and Lafayette all for McKinley. Hurrah for McKinley.
