A good way to estimate the population of towns and cities is to compare the census with votes cast at an election. The average is found to be 5.36 to one voter. Taking the city vote of McMinville last year, which was a full vote owing to competitive tickets, and it gives us a population of 1,776. It should be remembered, however, that there are whole corners of this town not included within the city limits, as well as large suburban districts whose trade and interests are virtually one with the city. Including these, it is believed that our claim for several years past of a population of 2,500 is rather under than above a conservative estimate. Like many other cities we will be at a disadvantage when our official census is announced, because of the foregoing facts. If we want to stand on our local pride, we must enlarge our limits and help Yamhill county pay for some of the bridges.

No one can reasonably hope for good health unless his bowels move once each day. When this is not attended to, disorders of the stomach arise, biliousness, headache, dyspepsia and piles soon follow. If you wish to avoid these ailments keep your bowels regular by taking Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets when required. They are so easy to take and mild and gentle in effect. N. C. Christenson and Andy Johnson have been doing some pretty close figuring lately on a proposition to put up a first-class grist mill of a hundred barrel a day capacity on the railroad, but for the present they have decided to let the matter rest until some other business matters can be adjusted. In connection with this proposition Mr. Christenson made a partial canvass of the town to see what could be done in the way of running an electric light plant with the mill engine. He met with considerable encouragement but did not follow it up closely enough to determine just what could be done in the way of securing subscribers. It is generally conceded that it will require about two hundred lights to make a plant pay.—Newberg Graphic.

The federated trades of Portland have commenced an active crusade against the importation of Chinese and the further immigration of Japanese. It has adopted resolutions asking a re-enactment of the Chinese exclusion act, and a modification of the immigration and contract labor laws, in such a manner as to make the immigration of Japanese laborers into this country impossible. Copies of the resolutions will be sent to every labor organization in the United States, and to the Oregon state legislature, with a view to getting it to memorialize congress. All the combined influence of labor is to be used in getting congress to take some action in the matter.

Dresser & Co., the well-known grocers of Portland, with the aid of the O. R. & N. Co., have established a large chicken ranch at Blalock and expect soon to be furnishing fresh eggs to their customers. If this chicken ranch succeeds, others will be started with the assistance of the railroad company. Just now there is a great scarcity of fresh ranch eggs in the markets of this coast, and prices rule high—35 and 40 cents a dozen. We have had these egg fables before, and the price of hen fruit has gone even higher than it is today. During these periodic egg fables there is a great scramble to get into the chicken business, and by the time the enthusiast gets together enough hens to turn out eggs for market, prices have gone down below a point that will allow of profit. The way to go into the chicken business is to start on a small scale and never keep more hens than your range will allow and you can properly care for. A few hens will pay. We have never heard of any one making money with a great number.—Hood River Glacier.

Pity and Beauty

The most beautiful thing in the world is the baby, all dimples and joy. The most pitiful thing is that same baby, thin and in pain. And the mother does not know that a little fat makes all the difference.

Dimples and joy have gone, and left hollows and fear; the fat, that was comfort and color and curve—all but pity and love—is gone.

The little one gets no fat from her food. There is something wrong; it is either her food or food-mill. She has had no fat for weeks; is living on what she had stored in that plump little body of hers; and that is gone. She is starving for fat; it is death, be quick!

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is the fat she can take; it will save her.

The genuine has this picture on it, take no other. If you have not tried it, send for free sample, its agreeable taste will surprise you.
