The latest bulletin of the department of labor contains three statistical tables of unusual interest, showing the number 13 50 and cause of deaths, during the last fiscal year, in one hundred and twenty-nine cities having a population of thirty 4 50 thousand or more.

74 16 Like all statistics, these figures sometimes require to be explained. For in-2 50 stance, the highest death-rate of any 43 03 city in the country-almost thirty-five to 118 40 the thousand—is that of Charleston, while New Orleans, Savannah and San 4 20 Antonio all had a death-rate of more 15 00 than twenty-five to the thousand, But this does not prove that they are unwholesome places. Each has a very large colored population, and exception-16 75 al mortality here swells the general aver-7 00 age. The really "deadly" cities are foreign ports, like Bombay, where the 10 00 death-rate is sometimes over sixty-four 10 00 to the thousand.

With the exception of Rockford, Illinois, the most healthful cities seem to lie west of the Mississippi. Seattle heads 50 00 them, with a death-rate of only about 166 91 seven to the thousand. St. Joseph, Mis-116 70 souri; Portland, Oregon; Lincoln, Nebraska; Tacoma, Washington; Sioux City, Iowa, and Rockford, Illinois, all have a death-rate of less than ten to the thousand. The death-rates of New York, London and Paris are over nineteen to 75 the thousand

Coming to specific diseases, Chelsea, Massachusetts, shows the smallest percentage of deaths from consumption, and 80 Houston, Texas, seems to be most free 50 from pneumonia. The fewest deaths of from typhoid took place in Fall River. In Charleston there was but one death 43 40 from diphtheria, and in more than one-4 64 third of the cities no death was caused by malarial fever.

It is interesting to note that Salt Lake 2 40 City records the largest number-about 27 40 eleven to the thousand-of deaths from "old age;" that Auburn, New York, had the smallest proportionate number of 34 65 deaths by violence; that the fewest 1 90 deaths from heart-disease took place in 2 00 San Antonio, and the fewest from apo-10 00 plexy in Spokane. Almost every city, 6 35 in fact, has "something to brag about," and as a whole the tables indicate that our chief centers of population are healthful as well as prosperous.-Youth's Companion.
