The joint committee appointed by the two houses to examine the books and accounts of the state land department have discovered a shortage of $30,949.73 in the accounts of George W. Davis, who was clerk of the state school land board from 1891 to 1895. If the alleged defalcation is proven, about the only thing the state will get out of the deal will be committee employed experts who examined the books of this department, examination, which examination credit upon the clerk.

The tragedy that was enacted off Golden Gate last week is as old as the history of navigation, but its consequences are none the less pitiful. The steamer, three days overdue from the Orient, had been lying off the entrance to the harbor all night, a heavy fog preventing her from entering. Restless under the his ship so long overdue, the captain in the semi-darkness of the early morning, took chances which proved his death and the loss of many lives, enveloped her, he notified the captain that it was unsafe to proceed, ahead. The captain's order was obeyed, and therein the pilot considered himself exonerated from blame, for the pilot's authority is and he was solely responsible for her gence.

The last act of the legislature be fore final adjournment Saturday night was the completion of the work which should have been done during the second week of the session. That it was not accomplished then was due to the failure of the republicans to harmonize and work totor.
