Nervousness, the Disease That Wrecks the Happiness of so Many Women, Conquered at Last.

No incident of the many that are daily brought to public attention is of greater human interest than that which centers about Ellen Parce, the wife of Mr. David F. Parce, of No. 4 Spruce writes: St., Binghamton, N. Y. The story is told by Mrs. Parce as follows:

"It was two years ago this summer that I was in a miserable condi ion as the result of hard work. I was completely run down, pale and losing flesh, and so nervous that I could not sleep or even get rest. It was dreadful to go to bed at night all worn out and lie awake for hours with nervousuness. If I did fall asleep it was to wake up in the morning as tired as when I went to bed.

"My head troubled me a great deal, too, both with pain and dizziness. If I stooped over at any time I would be so dizzy I could hardly see or keep from falling down. I was troubled somewhat with indigestion at this time. but the nervousness was the greater trouble. If I became a little excited

DEATH LURKS IN A SNEEZE.

Men May Commit Homicide by Venting Their Infinenza.

Dr. Herman Koeniger, a German of high scientific attainments, has for some time been trying to find out what becomes of the germs that are released when a person speaks, coughs and sneezes, and from the conclusions at which he has arrived Henri De Parville, a French scientist, feels justified in claiming that a person may by simply sneezing commit homicide.

'Dr. Koeniger," he says, "has clearly proved that a person who speaks, coughs and sneezes is a room in which there is no appreciable current of air disseminates germs to a distance of more than seven meters, and that these germs are carried in all directions and even to a height of more than two meters. As few persons talk alike, the germs disseminated by speech vary greatly, some of them remaining in suspension for an hour, and others only for a quarter of an hour, the latter being especially the case when there is even a slight current of air. "On the other hand, germs are very quickly disseminated by coughing and sneezing, and the smaller the microbes are the further they are likely to spread. Among such tiny microbes are those of influenza and the plague, whereas among the larger ones are those of tuberculosis and diphtheria. Evidently, therefore, the danger is greatest whenever there is the greatest number of microbes within a person's mouth.

"In view of Dr. Koeniger's discovery it will be well for everyone to keep as far away as possible from persons who cough and sneeze. Physicians advise persons suffering from colds to gargle and keep their mouths cleansed, but is that sufficient and are any such precautions guaranty against diphtheria? In any case a person should always cover his mouth with his hand or his handkerchief before he coughs or sneezes. Sneezing seems an innocent act, but Dr. Koeniger's experiments show that it could very easily be used as a weapon with which to commit homicide."
