Chas. P. Nelson of the Grange store came near having a serious fall on Saturday. Stepping down from the shelving to the counter his foot slipped from the edge and he fell on his side against the counter. He was rendered unable to speak for a time, but soon recovered himself.

E. W. Fuller, being tired of railroad work, called for his time on the fifteenth of this month, but will work for the company the remainder of the month, in order to give them time to fill his place with another man. He will visit in Portland and Astoria before returning home to McMinnville, where he has a position with Contractor Arthur for the season.

Dr. G. S. Wright will be in his office here the first 15 days of each month, and the last 15 in his new office in Portland. Those wishing work done will do well to remember this, and call when the office is not closed. This regulation will take effect the 15th of next month, when he will leave for Portland. No one will work in the office here but himself.

The endeavorers of the Christian church will hold a social with refreshments this evening. Each lady is requested to bring two ribbons of same color. The gentleman will select his company to ice cream by the ribbon, and will pay according to the weight of the lady, at 20c a hundred pounds. All are invited.

R. O. Jones is likely to prove Amy's most enterprising citizen. He is at work putting in a creamery for his own use and the accommodation of his neighbors. His plan is to put in a separator at once, and afterwards put in the other machinery, if he can get enough milk to make it pay. It is bound to pay if his neighbors will all rally to his support. We want to see it prove a good object lesson for McMinnville.

Lambert, the laundryman, ever reaching out for more business, is going to add another long-felt want to his establishment. He has designed and is having constructed a renovator for feather beds. Beds of feathers should be renovated regularly, not only for the added comfort you feel from lying upon them, but more especially from health considerations. No feather bed should be used after a spell of sickness, without a thorough renovation, and this is the work that Lambert will soon be prepared to do. The work will be done in the best style and at the most reasonable rates.

New lodge stands for the various officers' stations have been put in the new Burns hall. They were made by W. C. Arthur.

N. E. Kegg especially invites his friends as well as his enemies to visit his clean, light store and buy good coffee. Nice polite treatment.

On Friday and Saturday everyone visiting at M. E. Hendrick's store will be served with a dish of Wheatine prepared by a lady demonstrator, free.

Mrs. Henry Bills and children came down from Dallas during the week, on a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Burns. They will leave in a few days to join Mr. Bills, who expects to engage in business in Union, eastern Oregon.

Miss N. Bennett, who is demonstrator for the Empire Milling Co.'s Wheatine, is serving that delicious breakfast food at the grocery department of the Grange & Farmers' store. Wheatine is one of the leading breakfast foods on the market. Being made at San Francisco, it is essentially a home industry worthy of patronage.

Osteopathy.

Osteopathy is that science which treats diseases by the removal of obstructions to the nerve or blood supply of the affected part or organ. Disease is the result of misplacement of some bone, muscle, ligament, nerve or other structure. Osteopathic physicians regard the body as a machine, all parts of which must be in their proper places and in perfect harmony with each in order to have health. Osteopathy is not faith cure, divine healing, massage or Swedish movements. Osteopaths are recognized specialists in nervous diseases by reason of their perfect knowledge of anatomy (the human body). All diseases, both acute and chronic, are successfully treated by osteopathy without the use of drugs or knife. The treatment is perfectly painless. To those who doubt, we say, come and see. We are ready at all times to demonstrate our methods, and will cheerfully explain our science to all inquirers. If you have been pronounced incurable, call and get a free diagnosis and examination. If we cannot help you, we will tell you so. For further information call on or address Dr. C. T. Smith, room 7, Union block, McMinnville.

At the Old Home.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. O. O. Hodson will read with interest the following, taken from a late copy of the Muncie, Ind., Times: "A St. Patrick euchre party was given by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stouder last evening at their home on East Main street. The decorations were all in green, and an appropriate luncheon was served, one course being fish and potatoes. Mr. and Mrs. O. O. Hodson and Mrs. Will Hodson, of Oregon, were guests of honor. Volumes of Moore's poems and a basket of potatoes were the prizes given. Misses Grace Guthrie, Alma Budd, Edna Hodson and Mrs. Campbell assisted Mrs. Stouder." A large number of guests were present to do honor to the Oregonians who are visiting at the shrine of their earliest recollections.

A Birthday Surprise.

Last Monday, March 25th, was the 82d anniversary of the birth of Uncle O. H. Adams of this city. His relatives to the number of 24 walked into his beautiful home in the evening to the complete surprise of himself and wife. There were 15 grandchildren present, also G. W. Jones and wife, W. G. Henderson and wife, Mrs. Ada Hill, Austin Adams and wife, Frank G. Adams and wife and Miss Inez Adams. The evening was pleasantly passed. Mr. Adams and wife are among the most estimable citizens of this city and state, and their relatives and friends find much pleasure in the apparent enjoyment and comfort which surround them in their declining years.

O. H. Irvine is again confined to his home, and his condition is said to be serious. We regret to hear this, as with his many friends we were led to hope that he was on the way to recovery.

Robert Brownlee, who has been assistant station agent here for some time, has been given the station at Montague, California, and left for his new work on Tuesday. His brother will assist Agent Pense for the present.

Ore Price, the handsome young lawyer of Newberg, tried his first case in the circuit court for Yamhill county on Monday, and won it. He was formerly a drug clerk in Ab Hill's store in this city, and is a shining example of a young man who has made his way by dint of hard study and untiring industry. We understand he has a brother who is very much like him.
