and G. H. Adams of McMinnville, third. Time 20 seconds.

Next year's meet will be held in McMinnville, this being determined by a vote of the executive committee.

The McMinnville students gave a reception and banquet to the visitors in the evening. W. L. Thompson of McMinnville officiated as toastmaster, and toasts were responded to by Prof. Brumback and A. E. Lambert of McMinnville; Prof. A. B. Hoag, George T. Pratt and W. L. Marks of Albany, C. Kirk of Newberg and Daniel Poling of Dallas.

After the meet a handsome blue banner was given to Albany and a red one to McMinnville, denoting first and second places. The Albany boys formed a procession on the campus, placed their blue banner in front, and with their banners of orange and black, their college colors, floating proudly, they marched from the college down town, then through the main street, and gave their yell on every corner.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the league it was decided to eliminate the standing broad jump and standing high jump from the events next year, and to substitute the discus throw, relay race and the 50-yard dash in their places. A schedule of football and basket-ball games was arranged for next fall.

The receipts were sufficient to pay everything except a few dollars expense of visiting teams.

A FARMERS' MEETING.

Next Monday, June 10th, at two o'clock p. m., a meeting for farmers and all others who are interested, will be held at the opera house in this city. C. R. Smith, the expert dairyman and farmer, who was lately brought out from Minnesota by the Southern Pacific company with a view to interesting the farmers of the Willamette valley in the matter of adopting improved methods of agriculture, will be here on that date. Mr. Smith will talk on the subject of dairying and diversified farming, including selection and care of cows, feeding of stock, growing of forage plants and matters of general interest. Farmers will be invited to ask questions and take part in the discussion. In the evening at 8 o'clock Mr. Smith will lecture on "Home Making," an instructive and interesting talk for both old and young. Everybody invited.

Hon. O. H. Irvine Dead.

Oliver H. Irvine, one of McMinnville's prominent citizens, departed this life at the home of his mother in Albany on Saturday, June 1st, after an illness dating from December last. His death was due to Bright's disease, following a severe case of pneumonia. He was born in Linn county, Or., May 3d, 1859, and passed his youth in Albany. After attending Albany college he went east and studied at Monmouth college, Ill. He then returned to Albany and studied law. In 1891 he married Miss Emma Ball, and moved to this city, where he built up a good law practice, and ranked among the brightest of local attorneys. He always took an active interest in the politics of the city and state, and has officiated at several republican conventions. He served one year as mayor of McMinnville in an acceptable manner. He was president of the Oregon Fire Relief Association from its organization in 1894, and in this position with his associate officers showed a judgment and discretion which has built up a solid institution. In 1896 he was the candidate on the republican ticket for district attorney, but was defeated by Hayden. This was a sore disappointment to him, and he once told the writer he would never again ask for the suffrages of the people, and he kept his word. He was socially a popular and useful citizen. Particularly as a Pythian Knight was he a leader, and the wheel-horse of the local lodge, whose members held him in the highest esteem. Twenty of their numbers were present at the funeral at Albany, viz: H. C. Burns, F. G. Adams, Jos. Brower, W. C. Arthur, T. J. Hayes, C. E. Harbaugh, Jesse Irvine, Ed Fuller, J. A. Young, Chas. Young, Wm. Schmidt, T. J. Warren, Ed Allen, Chas. Grissen, Carl Fuchs, W. T. Vinton, E. V. Littlefield, Chas. McPhillips, Arthur McPhillips and Henry Gee. Of the Rathbone Sisters Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Vinton and Mrs. Fuchs were present. Deceased was also a member of the Workman and Woodmen orders, and leaves to his wife $7,000 in beneficiaries. The funeral was held on Monday at the United Presbyterian church. The sermon was preached by Rev. T. J. Wilson, of Eugene, and Rev. L. A. Tchorigian offered prayer. The Knights of Pythias attended in a body and took charge of the remains and conducted their ritualistic burial services at the cemetery. Grand Chancellor W. L. Bradshaw, of The Dalles, and Grand Keeper of Records and Seal L. R. Stinson, of Salem, were present. The members of the Albany Bar Association also attended.

Conservatory Concerts for Commencement.

The cantata, "The Merry Milkmaids," to be presented at the opera house, Friday evening, June 7th, has for its story the love affair of the milkmaid, Dorothy, with whom Farmer Jim is infatuated. Unhappily for the farmer, Dorothy has already bestowed her affections upon an adventurer, who, although passing as the commodore of the U. S. S. "Alexander," is only a tramp. However, through the exertions of Dr. Richter and the gypsy fortune-teller, the villain is exposed. Of course wedding bells at the close signalize the union of Dorothy and Farmer Jim. The solos and choruses are unusually interesting and melodious, and together with the bits of dialogues interspersed present a most charming entertainment. The principle parts are taken by Miss Mollie Patty, queen of the milkmaids; Miss Julia Locke, Dorothy; J. S. Wallace, Farmer Jim; Mr. George McCutcheon, Commodore; Mr. E. A. Smith, Dr. Richter; Miss Elsie Hobbs, fortune-teller; Mr. S. K. Deible, the judge. The following is the personnel of the chorus: Soprano—Misses Patty, Cook, Ione Estes, Witzel, Lulu Estes, Davis, Nelson, E. Hobbs, Munding, Buchanan and Bird; alto—Misses Schenk, Locke, Alderman, Mattie Patty, Mr. Hobbs, Roberts, Gilson, Porter, Beal and Latourette; tenors—Messrs Dieble, Wallace, McCutcheon, Rhodes, Hopfield and Chandler; basses—Lambert, Rutherford, Smith, McKillop and Storey. The general admission fee of the cantata will be 25 cents, gallery 15 cents.

Saturday evening the conservatory will present at the college chapel "An Evening with Russian Composers." The pianists for the evening are Misses Crawford, Briedwell, Locke, Hobbs, Estes, Latourette and Reid. The vocalists are Misses Patty, Latourette and Bird, Miss Trumbull, St. Cecilia, and the glee club will also assist.

On Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Miss Bessie Briedwell, assisted by St. Cecilia, will give a pianoforte recital. Miss Briedwell belongs to class of 1902, and on this occasion when she will make her first appearance as solo pianist, will play seven nocturnes of Chopin.
