The Hessian fly in Washington county is not doing as much damage as was expected, and there are practically no complaints of injury by the grain aphids. Some few fields of fall wheat on low land have turned yellow, but the bulk of the crop is in excellent condition and that farthest advanced is heading nicely. Spring grain is everywhere growing well and promises to be an excellent crop.
B. Fallows, representative of the Kingston gold-mining company of Rossland, B. C., whose arrival in this city was mentioned last week, has succeeded in disposing of several thousand shares of stock to McMinnville's representative men. The Kingston mining company owns undeveloped property in the heart of the most promising section of British Columbia's mining district, and with the completion of projected lines of railroad and the erection of additional smelters, the claims owned by the company will be right in the whirl of the most enterprising mining industry on the coast.
The problem of how the cakes of what has heretofore been called beeswax came to be deposited in the sand on the coast near Tillamook has at last been solved—maybe. The borers for oil have decided that they are not beeswax at all, but simply paraffine which has exuded from deposits of oil along the coast. R. J. Hendricks, the well-known Salem editor, is said to be a strong advocate of this theory. When attention is called to the Spanish letters on some of the cakes, the theory is advanced that these have been cut in the cakes to mislead the public. The finding of the oil deposits from which the paraffine exuded will be about the best proof of the correctness of the new theory.

A Pioneer Party.
Last Saturday was the 78th birthday anniversary of Mrs. Catharine Baker of this city, and that lady very properly invited a number of her fellow pioneers to celebrate the event with her at dinner. The following persons were present: Mrs. Cyrena B. Carey, 86; Daniel S. Holman, 78; N. K. Sitton, 76; James G. Hembree, 76; Mrs. Melvina Hembree, 67; Charlotte Matheny Kirkwood, 63; Mrs. Mary M. Sitton, 62; W. C. Hembree, 71, and Nancy J. Hembree, 65. The day was pleasant and the party was a very happy one. Their conversation began with the experiences of 1843, but Morgan Baker says the events were so thick in those years that he doesn't believe the old folks got beyond 1845 during the whole day.

The School Situation.
Great pressure is being brought on the doubtful members of the school board in an effort for a change of principal the coming year. The situation ought to be clear. The board should not desire to go contrary to the expressed wish of a majority of influential citizens, and no principal should desire to stay when such majority does not favor his remaining. The consequence of so doing could mean nothing but a year of sore disappointment in school work.

The Pioneers' Reunion.
Notwithstanding the threatening clouds and the occasional showers on Wednesday, the Yamhill county pioneers, who have braved many worse storms, carried out their program at Dayton, pretty much as they had intended doing. The Woodmen and Workman lodges each kindly tendered the use of their halls, and the M. E. church was also thrown open for the use of the society. There was not a very large attendance, but harmony and good-fellowship prevailed. These annual gatherings of the men and women who withstood the perils of the wilderness, that Oregon might become the grand commonwealth that those who came in palatial cars found upon their arrival, are the hallowed occasions of touching reminiscences by those whose numbers are becoming fewer as the years come and go.
The newly elected officers of the association are: President, A. J. Hunsaker; vice president, Fred Crawford; secretary, Mrs. Mary Gilkey; treasurer, Lee Laughlin.

Epworth League Election.
The Epworth League held its semi-annual election of officers followed by a social at the M. E. church parlors last Monday evening. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. M. A. Dennis; first vice president, Grace Newell; second vice president, Amy Brown; third vice president, Clarence Stout; fourth vice president, Eva Collard; secretary, Hattie Brown; treasurer, Harley Palmer.

THE BABY
Needs a laxative occasionally. It is not an easy matter to give a baby a dose of nasty castor oil, or some other bitter cathartic medicine. This difficulty is overcome by giving Dr. Lowe's laxative syrup. It is made especially for babies and is pleasant to take. It is mild in its action. It is strong enough to do its work promptly and surely. It is perfectly harmless because baby must have a harmless medicine. 25 cents a bottle. ROGERS BROS. PHARMACY, McMinnville, Oregon.
