A HAPPY COMMENCEMENT WEEK.

One Of The Pleasantest Of All The Years.

McMinnville college commencement features began with last Friday evening when the conservatory of music presented the cantata, "Merry Milkmaids," at the opera house. On Saturday evening there was a recital of Russian music at the chapel, in which the following participated: Misses Reid, Bird, Hobbs, Latourette, Locke, Paffy, Briedwell, Crawford and Estes, assisted by the glee clubs. On Sunday Rev. W. B. Clifton of The Dalles preached the educational sermon on "The World's need of Jesus as Teacher and Savior." Rev. Geo. W. Varney of Portland preached the baccalaureate sermon in the evening on "The Ideal for Success," basing his thought on the example and persistence of Christ. The music of the evening was excellent. The board of trustees held its annual meeting on Monday and Tuesday. One important item of this meeting was the granting of one year's leave of absence from duty as member of the faculty to Miss Isabel Grover, who is to pursue studies at Chicago University. On Monday evening the literary societies entertained at the chapel with the following program:

Cornet Solo..... E. A. Smith
Declamation, "Burial of Moses" Fred Thompson.
Vocal Solo..... Arthur Lambert
Recitation..... Nellie Nelson
Vocal Solo..... Edith Witzel
Monologue..... J. S. Wallace
Reading..... Arthur Lambert
Recitation..... R. H. B. Nelson
Piano Solo..... Bessie Cook
Reading..... J. S. Wallace
Tableau..... Members of both societies

The juniors held their reunion on Tuesday afternoon, and in the evening occurred the students' reunion and banquet. Prof. Boardman made the address of welcome on five minutes' notice, in the absence of Mr. Lyman Latourette. It was in every way a good speech, and the merry twinkle in the Professor's eyes was evidence to all that he was not only at home, but supremely happy. The response was by Rev. Wirt T. Fellows, late of Rochester Theological Seminary, who spoke briefly but with good effect, and also unexpectedly. The address of the evening was by Prof. W. F. Fargo of Brownsville, formerly professor of science in the college from 1890 to 1897. His subject was "Some Criteria of True Culture," and was a comprehensive grasp of the best evidences of honest, purposeful and independent thought and its necessity. His effort was much appreciated. The musical part of the program consisted of two splendid piano solos by Miss Helen Calbreath and two vocal solos by Miss Jennie Snyder. An orchestra composed of the following persons gave a number of creditable selections: C. E. Branson, clarinet; E. A. Smith, cornet; V. E. Grinnold, Miss Hamblin and Miss Snyder, violins; Harry Hobbs, trombone; Maud Hobbs, piano. Throughout the feasting down stairs the sweet strains were prolonged until time for toasts. After prayer by Rev. L. W. Riley, Dr. J. L. Hill of Albany presided in droll and good-natured style, causing merriment to rule the hour. Toasts and responses were as follows, each speech being highly creditable and amusing:

"Foundations"..... R. E. Storey
"If"..... C. V. Galloway
"Zeitgeist"..... Rev. G. R. Varney
"Under the Oak"..... W. Lair Thompson
"Toasts and Toasters"..... Rev. H. T. Atkinson.

On Wednesday Miss Bessie Briedwell gave a piano recital, and President Boardman held a reception at his home. In the evening occurred the graduation at the Baptist church of a class of seven. Music was furnished by the glee club, and a solo by Mrs. Rebecca Smith Davies. Leonard Sidney Hopfield spoke on "Concentration of Effort." It was a plea for industry and application to specific duty, and he thought the day for universal scholars had passed. "The Mission of Education" was treated by Mary Alice Wallace, who said all were united on the merits of education. It embraces the whole man, and inculcates honesty of purpose and moral development, as well as awakens a deep sense of responsibility. Education and not law makes men. Adam Lawrence Black spoke on "The New Cycle." He thought the seasons teach the unity and progression in the mind of the creator, and never were the people better or governments more just than now. Scientific investigation and the mental capacity of man are greater, and his conclusion was that this century will witness a revolution of society. Selfishness and greed have transformed man's natural paradise into a desert, and the industrial rather than the political and competitive business methods is to prevail in the future. Socialism was the keynote, and is a theory which always makes an easy picture of the millenium, but never works so well in practice. Edith Verbenia Witzel spoke of "Liberty of Conscience, the Crowning Glory of American Institutions." She thought we have no need of a large standing army, and our liberty should be guarded as our birthright. "The Fiber of Our National Character" was Osa Roberts' subject. Our best history is in our local fabric. The races for ascendancy and the stupendous western movement have tested the strength of our fabric and we have been moulded by New England. We thus renew our youth and secure our age against decay. John Sherman Wallace treated the subject "The Bulwark of Democracy." Nations and rulers are alike, and the hand that toils for sustenance may wield the scepter. In democracy laws must be just, and the polls should settle the questions of the battlefield. Citizens must rally to the support of the government, as its moral life is in their hands. Sovereigns must know history, be trained to think, to solve the problems of the hour and mark the paths of the future. Education is our country's call. Minnie Bertha Schenk spoke on the "True Status of the American Indian," and thought the nation indebted to him. With war before and famine behind him, poor Lo did no more than his white brother would have done for revenge, and in patriotism, eloquence, love of home, and as an artificer he was on an equality. The obligato of Miss Mollie Paffy, whose clear voice and distinct enunciation, and the apparent mutual confidence and friendly reliance of the glee club, with Miss Hamblin's adept movements of the bow, rendered the lullaby song one of the most pleasing musical numbers heard for years, and spoke volumes for Miss Trumbull and her faithful class. Miss Wallace, having the highest grade, gave an impressive valedictory. Degrees were conferred by President Boardman, that of bachelor of arts upon Messrs. Black and Wallace and Miss Witzel, bachelor of science upon Miss Wallace, and bachelor of letters upon Mr. Hopfield and Misses Roberts and Schenk, and his address was based upon Emerson's essay on prudence, advising not to live to the utility or beauty of the symbol alone, but to the thing which symbolizes the symbol—the inner and uplifting life of the soul.

President Boardman as soloist, assisted by Messrs. Deible, McCutcheon and Storey sang "Hope Beyond." President Boardman announced that W. H. Latourette was coming as general agent, that a commercial department with instructor would be added in September, that Miss Trumbull had been made a permanent member of the faculty, that two free scholarships had been granted in the department of music, that Mrs. Alice Barber Alderman had been employed to teach art, and that the college building would this summer be renovated, newly furnished and made more attractive. The banquet of the alumni was held at White's restaurant after the graduation.

AMITY.

Rev. Muckley of Kansas City, Mo., spoke in the Christian church last Sunday night in the interest of the church extension fund.

We have heard of no one who went on the excursion last Sunday. These Sunday excursions are becoming unpopular with the better class of people, and we make the prediction that they will even be done away with.

Several of the Christian church are making preparations to attend the Turner meeting of that church.

Cherries and strawberries are on the market and the quality is good.

M. Williams has severed his connection with the drug store. He is yet undecided as to where he will do.

John Briedwell, Jr., has taken his departure for eastern points. He will visit the Buffalo exposition and probably the national capital. His friends here wish him a pleasant trip.

Did you hear the excursion pass through Sunday night? They came with a whoop and a yell. Surely they had no respect for the day.

Mrs. Lawson is still very sick. The Maccabees will hold a picnic here some time the latter part of this month.

Prof. Fisher closed his term of school here last Friday, and took the afternoon train for Portland, to join his family, who reside there.

A Good Cough Medicine.

It speaks well for Chamberlain's cough remedy when druggists use it in their own families in preference to any other. "I have sold Chamberlain's cough remedy for the past five years with complete satisfaction to myself and customers," says Druggist J. Goldsmith, Van Eiten, N. Y. "I have used it in my own family both for ordinary coughs and colds and for the cough following la grippe, and find it very efficacious." For sale by Howorth & Co.

We still have the famous "Keg's blend" of coffee at the St. Charles.
