SOMETHING NEW.

I've read in philosophic sayin's Of a world that's always old; As how you can't tell nothin' 'rignal. 'Cause someun' else been done an' told.

An' they say as you can't do things-Keep 'em quiet, keep 'em hid-Air ve tryin' to scare old Atlas? Someun' else been done an' did.

Then they say as you can't hev things, Homely, purty, good or bad, 'Thout you look across the street than Someun' else been done an' had.

An' it makes me mad I tell ye, Want ter fight someun' like fun, When I reads that tarnal sayin', "Nothin' new under the sun."

Fer I peeks into that cradle. Sees our baby-blessed saint-Be there 'nother like that feller? Well I knows blamed well there aint. -Carrie Joseph, Portland.
