

CHAPTER VIII. | though there was so much beauty lying Awfully fast time sped away. It was around us.

the second week in March I passed in "Yes, it is a lovely place," she assent ed, a mischievous smile playing about her Bark; the second week in May came upon me as if borne by a whirlwind. It lips. was only a month to the day so long "O 'Olivia," I said, taking my courage by wedding day.'

Was I deceiving myself, or did she real y grow paler? It was but for a moment if it were so. But how cold the air felt all in an instant! The shock was like that of a first plunge into chilly waters, and I was shivering through every fiber speak gaily; "I do not look forward to will get along very well together. I have towards Julia kept me silent; and we moved on, though very slowly and lin-

"You love her very much?" said the experience has been different?"

very happy."

fixed upon for our marriage. My mother began to fidget about my going over to London to fit myself out with wedding clothes. Julia's was going on fast to completion. Our trip to Switzerland was distinctly planned out. Go I must to London; order my wedding suit I must.

But first there could be no harm in running over to Sark to see Olivia once As soon as I was married I would more. tell Julia all about her. But if either arm or ankle went wrong for want of attention, I should never forgive myself.

It was the last time I could see Olivia before my marriage. Afterwards I should any vast amount of rapture. Julia and I see much of her; for Julia would invite her to our house, and be a friend to her. I spent a wretchedly sleepless night; and whenever I dozed I saw Olivia before me. weeping bitterly, and refusing to be comforted.

From St. Sampson's we set sail straight for the Havre Gosselin. To my extreme surprise and chagrin, Captain Carey announced his intention of landing with me, and leaving the yacht in charge of his men to await our return.

"The ladder is excessively awkward," I objected, "and some of the rungs are loose. You don't mind running the risk of a plunge into the water?"

"Not in the least," he answered cheer-lly; "for the matter of that, I plunge into geringly. It every morning at L'Ancresse. I want quiet voice at my side, not much louder to see Tardif. He is one in a thousand, than the voice of conscience. as you say; and one cannot see such a man every day of one's life."

There was no help for it, and I gave hoping some good luck awaited me. I led the way up the zig-zag path, and just as we reached the top I saw the slight, erect figure of Olivia seated upon the brow of a little grassy knoll at a short distance from us. Her back was towards us, so she was not aware of our vicinity; and I pointed towards her with an assumed air of indifference.

'I believe that is my patient yonder,' I said; "I will just run across and speak to her, and then follow you to the farm."

"Ah!" he exclaimed, "there is a lovely view from that spot. I recollect it well. I will go with you. There will be time enough to see Tardif."

Did Captain Carey suspect anything? Or what reason could he have for wish-ing to see Olivia? Could it be merely that he wanted to see the view from that particular spot? I could not forbid him accompanying me, but I wished him at Jericho.

Olivia did not hear our footsteps upon the soft turf, though we approached her very nearly. The sun shone upon her glossy hair, every thread of which seemed to shine back again. She was reading aloud, apparently to herself, and the sounds of her sweet voice were wafted by the air towards us. Captain Carey's face became very thoughtful.

A few steps nearer brought us in view of Tardif, who had spread his nets on the grass, and was examining them narrowly for rents. Just at this moment the indulgence of emotion of any kind. It was impossible for me to remain the cliffs, bemoaning my unhappy fate. I strode on doggedly down the path, kicking the loose stones into the water as they came in my way. Captain Carey followed, whistling softly to himself. He continued doing so after we were aboard the yacht. "I cannot leave you like this, Martin, my boy," he said, when we went ashore at St. Sampson's; and he put his arm through mine.

"You will keep my secret?" I said, my voice a key or two lower than usual. "Martin," answered the good-hearted, clear-sighted old bachelor, "you must not do Julia the wrong of keeping this a secret from her." "I must," I urged. "Olivia knows nothing of it; nobody guesses it but you. I must conquer it' "Martin," urged Captain Carey, "come both hands, "it is only a month till my up to Johanna, and tell her all about it." robs amateur photography of a great in Household. Johanna Carey was one of the powers deal of its pleasure. A dark room big in the island. Everybody knew her; and enough for all necessary purposes can everybody went to her for comfort or counsel. She was, of course, related to us all. I had always been a favorite with her, and nothing could be more natent. ural than this proposal, that I should go and tell her of my dilemma.

"I hope you will be happy," said Olivia, "very happy. It is a great risk to run. Marriage will make you either very hap py or very wretched." "Not at all," I answered, trying to grey stuff, and with a plain white cap manner shown. Put a "header" across the door as soon as she saw me, and re- cover all the rest of the wall space with ceived me with a motherly kiss.

no doubt, for we have known one an-"Johanna," said Captain Carey, "we other all our lives. I do not expect to be have something to tell you."

"Come and sit here by me," she said, any happier than other men; and the making room for me beside her on her married people I have known have not exactly dwelt in Paradise. Perhaps your sofa.

"Johanna," I replied, "I am in a ter-"Oh, no!" she said, her hand trembling rible fix!" on my arm, and her face very downcast;

"Awful!" cried Captain Carey sympa-"but I should have liked you to be very, thetically; but a glance from his sister put him to silence.

So softly spoken, with such a low, fal-"What is it, my dear Martin?" asked tering voice! I could not trust myself her inviting voice again. to speak again. A stern sense of duty

"I will tell you frankly," I said, feeling I must have it out at once, like an aching tooth. "I love, with all my heart and soul, that girl in Sark; the one who has been my patient there." "Martin!" she cried, in a tone full of surprise and agitation, "Martin!"

"I esteem her more highly than any "Yes; I know all you would urge. My other woman, except my mother," I said. honor, my affection for Julia, the claims "Do you think she will like me?" ask-d Olivia, anxiously. she has upon me, the strongest claims possible; how good and worthy she is;

"TILL MY FLESH CREPT!

How to Make a Dark Foom.

easily be constructed in the corner of a

Mark off a square in the corner of the Johanna was standing at one of the space to be utilized and set up five authority sas a clearing sky after an windows, in a Quakerish dress of some strips of 2 by 3 inch lumber in the over her white hair. She came down to between two strips for a doorway and fects. The clouds are apt to hang low

AN EASILY MADE DARK ROOM

black tarred paper, tacking it on as shown in the illustration, lapping the ner corner at the bottom to the outer ging, and cover the frame with the tarred paper. Hinge one side to an upright strip and tack on small strips inside so there will be no cracks left suspended from the shoulder in preferabout the edges of the door when it is ence to having it attached to the bars closed. Put up a broad shelf about two of the bicycle. The latter method gives sides of the dark room, with a few too much vibration and is liable to jar

MILLIONAIRE MARRIED

T. Ernest Cramer, a St. Louis millionaire, fell in love with Angelina Le acquired by the city it was owned by Prohn, saleswoman in a San Francisco art gallery. He was married, but did California laws prohibit a divorced percals, plates, paper and trays, and the The want of a suitable dark room dark room is complete.-Webb Donnell

The securing of good cloud effects is becoming more and more a study, and stable, shed or unfinished chamber aft- it is well to remember that but few er the plan shown in the accompanying pictures are taken where time and patience are more in demand. Sunset offers the best opportunity for such. One afternoon downpour is probably the benefit of your best time to secure good sunset efand be full of moisture at such time, the atmosphere clearer and the lightbreak in through rifts in clouds much stronger than otherwise. The seasons of the year best adapted for sunsets are either in early spring or fall. A time exposure is much the best, as a snap shot will not get the delicate detail. Use at least an F 16 stop, with several seconds time. And let the developer be very weak in starting out until you find out just what there is, then a little stronger may be tried. The development must be carried well along, considerably more than usual.

If prints curl up after toning, it may be remedied by laying the print face second piece over the edge of the first. down on a sheet of blotting paper, and For a door make a frame out of strips stroking the back of the print back of board, putting a brace from the in- and forth with the flat edge of the ruler or the back of a knife. Repeat corner at the top, to keep it from sag- this a few times and the print will be quite flat.

If you ride a wheel, carry the camera smaller shelves above to hold chemi- your shutter out of order.

> and American claimants, and in 1882 the Supreme Court ordered it sold. After this partition sale it passed through several purchases, and when it was Lillie J. Earle.

The house itself is in a fair state of not live with his wife. A divorce was preservation, and although it has been granted, and Cramer hurried to Cali- repaired, "fixed up" and changed since fornia. Rev. H. H. Bell refused to it was built, in 1758, by Roger Morris, marry Cramer and Miss Prohn because it still has many of the original decoit still has many of the original deco-rations and trimmings. When Morris prescribed by our best modern critics.

built the house he was a colonel in the British army, stationed in New York, He occupied the grand mansion until Then It was abandoned, and 1776. when Washington's forces were stationed in that part of the State the house furnished shelter for some of he continental troops, while at several but that's a spitz dog, and we have times between June and the middle of strict orders to enforce the anti-ex-October, 1776, it was occupied by pectoration ordinance." - Baltimore Washington as his hea !quarters.

Sick Women

Mrs. Valentine Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Her.

Happiness will go out of your life forever, my sister, if you have any of the symptoms mentioned in Mrs. Valentine's letter, unless you act promptly. Procure Lydia E. Pinkpromptly. Procure Lydia É. Pink-ham's Vegetable Compound at once. It is absolutely sure to help you. Then write for advice if there is anything about your case you do not understand.

You need not be afraid to tell the things you could not explain to the doctor—your letter will be seen only by women. All the persons who see private letters at Mrs. Pinkham's Laboratory, at Lynn, Mass., are women. All letters are confidential and advice absolutely free

Here is the letter : - "It is with pleasure that I add my testimony to gnawing pain in stomach, pain in my back and right side, and so weak I could scarcely stand. I was not able to do anything. Had sharp pains all through my body. Before I had taken half a bottle of your medicine, I found myself improving. I continued its use until I had taken four bottles, and felt so well that I did not need to take any more. I am like a new person, and your medicine shall always have my praise." — MRS. W. P. VALENTINE, 566 Ferry Avenue, Camden, N.J.

$5000 will be paid if this testime-nial is not genuine. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Ce.

Acquaintance Renewed.

Bunko Bill-Hello, uncle, haven't we met before?

Reuben Granger-Guess we have. It was down in Hardscrapple, when you were sellin' the farmers them $3 churns and every cussed contract turned up ter be a $300 note. I met you with six citizens and a rope.

Bill-Aw, here, now, let me down easy.

Reub-Did that onct-and too quick.

Out of Place.

"Back!" shouted the hero. "Your presence here is only perfunctory. You are doing nothing whatever to advance the action of the story.' With a muttered curse the villain shrank back into the chapter in which the murder takes place, and the story

Enforcing the Law.

"Take that dog off the street, or I'll run you in," ordered the conscientious policeman.

"But why?" asked the man with the dog. "He has a license on." "Thra's all right as far as it goes;;

A SALESWOMAN.

he was down on his knees, not far from Olivia, gathering some broken meshes together, but listening to her, with an expression of huge contentment upon his handsome face. A bitter pang shot through me. Could it be true by any possibility-that lie I had heard the last time I was in Sark?

"Good day, Tardif," shouted Captain Carey; and both Tardif and Olivia start-But both of their faces grew brighted. er at seeing us. Olivia's color had come back to her cheeks, and a sweeter face no man ever looked upon.

"I am very glad you are come once she said, putting her hand in mine; "you told me in your last letter you were going to England."

I glanced from the corner of my eye at Captain Carey. He looked very grave, but his eyes could not rest upon Olivia without admiring her, as she stood before us, bright-faced, slender, erect, with the folds of her coarse dress falling about her as gracefully as if they were of the richest material.

"This is my friend, Captain Carey, Miss Olivia," I said, "in whose yacht I have come to visit you."

"I am very glad to see any friend of Dr. Martin's," she answered as she held out her hand to him with a smile; "my doctor and I are great friends, Captain Carey.'

'So I suppose," he said significantlyor at least his tone and look seemed fraught with significance to me.

"Tardif," I said, "Captain Carey came ashore on purpose to visit you and your to you!" farm."

alacrity, and led the way towards his if you knew all." house with tremendous strides. Olivia and I wore left alone, but she was mov- terly. "Am I a Judas?" ing after them slowly, when I ran to her, her ankle was still too weak to bear her and her breath came sobbingly. weight unsupported.

"Olivia!" I exclaimed, after we had myself for my cursed folly. How was it I had called her so he was gone, Captain Carey stood still familiarly Olivia?

into my face again with eager, inquiring thatched roof, yellow with stonecrop and eyes, as if she was wishful to understand lichens. my varying moods.

ulated.

More lovely than any words I ever heard could describe. It was a perfect I cried. day, and a perfect view. The sea was like an opal. The cliffs stretched below them. They had involved in them so many us, with every hue of gold and bronze, unpleasant consequences, so much chaand hoary white, and soft grey; and here grin and bitterness as their practical reand there a black rock, with livid shades sult, that I stood aghast-even while my of purple, and a bloom upon it like a pulses throbbed, and my heart beat high, raven's wing. Rocky islets, never trod- with the novel rapture of loving any den by human foot, over which the foam woman as I loved Olivia. poured ceaselessly, were dotted all about just beneath the level of my eyes was be done.'

Olivia's face-the loveliest thing there, It was neither a time nor a place for always call him "Shorty."

ed Olivia, anxiously. "No; she must love you," I said, with warmth; "and I, too, can be a more useful friend to you after my marriage than I am now. Perhaps then you will feel free to place perfect confidence in us." She smiled faintly, without speakingsmile which said plainly she could keep her own secret closely. It provoked me to do a thing I had had no intention of doing, and which I regretted very much afterward. I opened my pocketbook and drew out the little slip of paper containing the advertisement.

"Read that," I said.

But I do not think she saw more than the first line, for her face went deadly white, and her eyes turned upon me with a wild, beseeching look-as Tardif described it, the look of a creature hunted and terrified. I thought she would have fallen, and I put my arm round her. She fastened both her hands about mine, and her lips moved, though I could not catch a word she was saying. "Olivia!" I cried, "Olivia! do you suppose I could do anything to hurt you? Do not be so frightened! Why, I am your friend truly. I wish to heaven I had not shown you the thing. Have more faith in me, and more courage.'

"But they will find me, and force me away from here," she muttered, "No," I said; "that advertisement was printed in the Times directly after your flight last October. They have not fo you yet; and the longer you are hidden the less likely they are to find you. Good heavens! what a fool I was to show it to Never mind," she answered, recover-I knew he was excessively proud of his ing herself a little, but still clinging to farm, which consisted of about four or my arm; "I was only frightened for the five acres. He caught at the words with time. You would not give me up to them

"Give you up to them!" I repeated bit-

But she could not talk to me any more. and offered her my arm, on the plea that She was trembling like an aspen leaf. All I could do was to take her home, blaming gone a few yards, bringing her and my-self to a sudden halt. Then I was struck dumb. I had nothing special to say to latory speech before quitting us. When until he was quite out of hearing, and 'Well, Dr. Martin?" she said, looking then stretched out his hand towards the

"This is a serious business, Martin," 'What a lovely place this is!' I ejac- he said, looking sternly at me; "you are in love with that girl.

"I love her with all my heart and soul!"

The words startled me as I uttered

"Come, come, my poor fellow!" said the changeful surface of the water. And Captain Carey, "we must see what can his associates call him "Curly." But if what an impossibility it is even to look back now. I know it all, and feel how miserably binding it is upon me. Yet I love Olivia; and I shall never love Julia." A long, dreary, colorless, wretched life stretched before me, with Julia my inseparable companion, and Olivia altogether lost to me. Captain Carey and Johanna, neither of whom had tasted the sweets and bitters of marriage, looked sorrowfully at me and shook their heads. "You must tell Julia," said Johanna, after a long pause. "Tell Julia !" I echoed. "I would not tell her for worlds!"

"You must tell her," she repeated; "it is your clear duty. I know it will be most painful to you both, but you have no right to marry her with this secret on your mind."

"I should be true to her," I interrupted somewhat angrily.

"What do you call being true, Martin Dobree?" she asked, more calmly than she had spoken before. "Is it being true to a woman to let her believe you choose and love her above all other women, when that is absolutely false? No; you are too honorable for that. I tell you it is your plain duty to let Julia know this, and know it at once."

Nothing could move Johanna from that position, and in my heart I recognized its righteousness. She argued with me that t was Julia's due to hear it from myself. I knew afterwards that she believed the sight of her distress and firm love for myself would dissipate the infatuation of my love for Olivia. But she Walter S. Logan and Edward Hagadid not read Julia's character as well as my mother did.

Before she let me leave her I had promised to have my confession and subsequent explanation with Julia all over the following day; and to make this the more inevitable, she told me she should drive into St. Peter-port the next afteraoon about five o'clock, when she should expect to find this troublesome matter settled, either by a renewal of my affecion for my betrothed, or the suspension of the betrothal. In the latter case she promised to carry Julia home with her until the first bitterness was over.

(To be continued.)

Wild Boars in Windsor Park.

It is stated that the wild boars in Windsor great park are to be shot, by provements. order of King Edward. The herd was presented to Queen Victoria by the Prince of Wales during his tour in India. The animals have largely increas- is the same to-day as it was in the ed in numbers, and have had to be kill- days of the Revolutionary War, when ed off periodically. They have been a Washington and his staff lived there. considerable source of attraction to visitors, but they are dangerous, and sev- Jumel, a rich French merchant, bought jury.

When a brakeman has curly hair, he is over six feet tall, however, they son from marrying within a year after the granting of the decree. Mr. Cramer was not to be balked, however. He con sulted with Miss Prohn, with the result that a trip to Reno, Nev., was made and there the couple were married. Mr. Cramer is a famous photographer and one of the big financial men of St. Louis.

ANGELINA LE PROHN.

HISTORIC HOUSE.

Once Washington's Hea 'quarters, Purchasel by New York City.

New York City has acquired the Jumel Mansion, one of the last remaining houses in the metropolis used by Gen. Washington. It was through the efof the Sons of the American Revolution; Senator Chauncey M. Depew, man Hall, secretary of several patriotic organizations, that the resolution to purchase the property for $150,000

THE JUMEL MANSION.

was passed by the board of public im-

The mansion is located at One Hundred and Sixtleth street and the Harlem river, and its general appearance or as it looked in 1800, when Stephen eral people have narrowly escaped in- it. Jumel died in the house, but his widow remained there, and when, late in life, she was married to Aaron Burr, > they lived in the old colonial house. She died there in 1805. After her death

School Luncheons in France.

In the rural districts of France the school is often so far away that the Confolens in La Charente, a novel way has been found to meet the latter difficulty. Every pupil, boy or girl, brings to school in the morning a handful of vegetables, ready prepared for cooking, and puts them into a large pan of water. They are washed by one of the older pupils, who take this duty in turn.

They are then placed in a kettle with water and a piece of pork, and cooked while the lessons are going on. At halfpast eleven the members of this little co-operative association have a good bowl of hot soup. To cover the cost of the fuel and meat, the pupils who can afford it pay from two to four sous a month. In most of the cities of France, the pupils of the public schools are now furnished with their noonday meal at "school canteens," maintained either by the municipality, or by private generosity; but this is the first attempt to carry out the same plan in the forts of Robert B. Roosevelt, on behalf country districts, where it is more needed, as the children have farther to go.

Private Cars.

Any man who is reasonably well to do may own a private car built according to his own specifications. A carrefitting company in New York City buys old Pullman coaches, tears the inside furnishings out and refits them according to the wishes of its customers. Whatever kind of private car a man may wish he may order-parlors, handsomely carpeted sitting-rooms, dining rooms-all with equipment more or less perfect according to the price. And cars are refitted in this way and sold for prices varying from fifteen hundred to fifteen thousand dollars. Very handsome and serviceable cars have been built from the old "castaways," and the man of moderate means can travel privately and comfortably in a home of his own.

Seeking Rest.

Mrs. Naggsby-Why don't you spend your nights at home? I always do. Naggsby-Perhaps, my dear, that acounts for it .- Judge.

Highest Death Rate.

St. Petersburg has the highest death rate of any European capital, 51 per 1,000.

What has become of the old-fashionthe property became the subject of ed woman who said the worst boys in much legal wrangling between French town were the preacher's sons?

American.

Cost of Railway Mail Car.

A modern railway mail car, equipped with the latest contrivances, such children cannot go home to meals. At as vestibules, automatic couplers, airbrakes, etc., costs between $5,000 and $6,000. The Government pays for the use of railway mail cars at the rate of $40 a year for a 50-foot car per track mile, and $50 per year per track mile for a 60-foot car.

Their Busy Day

"Who," shouted the impassioned orator, "who among us has any cause to be happier than his neighbor on this glorious day of the nations' birth?" A man with his head bandaged and both arms in a sling arose in the rear of the hall and exclaimed: "The doctors!"-Baltimore American.

The Commercial Instinct.

Mamma-Tommy, do stop that noise. If you'll only be good, I'll give you a penny.

You a penny. Tommy-No! I want a nickel. Mamma-Why, you little rascal, you were quite satisfied to be good yesterday for a penny.

Tommy-I know, but that was a bargain day.

Not Ready Yet.

"You promised never to scold me." said the wife of a week reproachfully. "But I haven't," insisted Mr. Younghub mildly.

'No, but I can see that you're just aching to," continued the displeased young thing .-- Yonkers Herald.

Great Opportunity,

Mrs. Bjenkins-They are going to have another rummage sale next week. Mr. Bjenkins-Good! I wish you'd send down that rocking chair in the sitting-room that I always tumble over when I come in late at night .- Somerville Journal.

Pretty Mad.

Clara (after a tiff)-I presume you would like your ring back?

George-Never mind; keep it. No other girl I know would use that ring unless she wore it on her thumb .--New York Weekly.

Marine Amenities.

Here the Sea Serpent rallied the Mermaid upon her notorious non-existence.

"He who lives in a glass house should not throw stones!" retorted the Mermaid, with spirit.

The laugh was against the Sea Serpent, howbelt he loudly protested that he resided for the most part either in wood or Doulton ware, or something of that sort, and but seldom in glass.