According to recent estimates of the corn crop of the United States for 1901, the average yield per acre is 17.4 bushels. The average yield last year, under favorable conditions, was 25.6 bushels per acre. Judge T. L. Davidson, of Salem, says his corn crop this year will yield him 50 bushels per acre of shelled corn, or 100 bushels of ears. This is not a bad showing for a poor corn state.

The McMinnville National Bank received last week a new $2,500 Corliss spherical bank safe, weighing upwards of 12,000 pounds, and will wheel it into position inside the office before the end of the month. It stands 65 inches high, and the platform upon which the sphere rests occupies a floor space of 41x49 inches. Its inner capacity is six cubic feet, and it is fitted with two time locks and two combinations. This safe has been on the market a number of years and has never been opened by burglars, being burglar and fire proof. There are three other safes of this make in Oregon—at the state treasurer's office in Salem, the Capital National Bank, Salem, and the Bank of Oregon City. The secretary of the treasury, at Washington, had occasion to investigate its mechanism some years ago, and in a lengthy report of tests made under his supervision, attests its superiority in having among other merits a ground-fitted door where there is no possibility of explosions being introduced through the joint between the door and jamb, and being proof against mob violence where dynamite or other explosive is used. The boys are proud of their new piece of furniture, and have fitted up a firm foundation for it to rest upon, and prepared a niche of honor for its resting place.

The Yamhill Coal and Oil Co. have every favorable condition on their side—geologically, theoretically and possessory. They have the land, and just as soon as the business community can see the good results of an oil or coal discovery they will be financially able to sink a test well. The history of oil-well boring on the Pacific coast proves that the oil gets clearer and burns more brilliantly as the discoveries have tended northward, and they are therefore confident of striking a superior article in their Chehalis hills well. Stock of this company will not long remain at 50 cents per share, as they will soon have sufficient funds to meet any possible contingency while prospecting with the drill.
A man bolted into this office on Tuesday, (a good citizen by the way, of more than average intelligence) and in stentorian voice exclaimed: "I want to shake hands with the man that writes those items on football. I have a boy in school who holds a high position in athletic circles, and I'm worried beyond measure lest I hear that his neck is broken or that he is killed or maimed for life. Dallas college should have the blue ribbon for her action. And suppose my boy should be hurt, what recourse have I? His fellow students would regard him as a hero for a brief time, and then he would be on his parents. I tell you it's a worry for the old folks. I used to play football, but it was the old university rules. It was FOOTBALL, this is HANDBALL—that's all it is. Intelligent people's sensibilities revolt at prize-fighting, but it's not to be compared in violence to football as now practised. There is ample exercise in baseball or gymnasium work. My younger son at home, when he hears of his brother traveling about in football contests, chafes like a caged tiger, and longs for the time when it will be his turn to go off to school for the privilege of playing football." He was given the glad hand, and as he turned to go, with a smile irradiating his countenance which suggested that relief which comes from unburdening, he took his departure, saying: "Let the good work go on."

The late W. D. Wright left an estate appraised at $11,690. His will leaves the entire property to his widow, and after her death share and share alike to the children.
It is good to stand by your friends, but while you are doing it, be sure your friends are right. Loyalty becomes a vice when it makes a man stand by a wrong. There is some good in every man. To stand by that good is the duty of a friend. But to stand by the bad in a man, along with the good, because he is your friend, is folly. To stand for crime, to condone evil, to whitewash wrong doing, is stretching virtue so thin that vice shows through.
Out of a total assessment of about $3,800 against property owners for the construction of the new sewer, about $1,000 has been paid. Many of those assessed are holding off payment because they claim that the construction was not according to contract, and that in many respects the contract was illegal. They claim to have a precedent in a recent case in Portland, wherein H. W. Corbett et al brought suit against the city regarding the improvement of Pine Street. The city attorney, Mr. Vinton, expresses no doubt of being able to collect, when suit is brought.
Grandma Daugherty, whose funeral was held at Willamina Wednesday of last week, was a pioneer of 1853. She was one of the earliest residents of Yamhill county. At that time Yamhill county was little less than a wilderness, and settlers were few and far between. Oregon City was but a village, with one little store. The settlers did most, if not all, their trading at Vancouver, Wash., and Mr. Daugherty made regular trips to that place to buy provisions. In 1867 they sold their farm and moved to an old mill site near old Fort Yamhill, where Mr. Daugherty engaged in the milling business for 20 years. Upon retiring from active business life the old couple moved to Willamina, where they have since resided. She was the mother of 13 children, 11 of whom survive her. Her husband survives her, aged 83.
The meeting of the socialists was somewhat of a frost last Saturday. The president failed to be present, and no work was accomplished. Another depressing circumstance at this time is the refusal of the government mails to carry their pet paper, Appeal to Reason, on the grounds, as they understand it, of complaints to postal headquarters that the paper was being mailed to a great many people who did not desire it. The Challenger, another organ, which moved from California to New York, has been barred, and likewise the Kansas Farmer. The Appeal to Reason claims a circulation of 74,000. There are about 58 subscribers at this place. Taken all together, a "demonition bow-wow" condition seems to confront them. It reminds one of Shade Richardson's remark on the returns from Texas at the last national election. Our advice is: Cheer up, brethren; there will be a choice of band wagons to get into when the time comes.

He and his family left Tuesday afternoon for Illinois, where he will again take up the work of pastor. Rev. Douglas has made many warm friends during his stay here.
