They take possession of the body, and are Lords of Misrule.

They are attended by pimples, boils, the itching letter, salt rheum, and other cutaneous eruptions; by feelings of weakness, languor, general debility and what not.

They cause more suffering than anything else.

Health, Strength, Peace and Pleasure require their expulsion, and this is positively effected, according to thousands of grateful testimonials, by

No Deferred Payments.
"Is your daughter learning to play by notes?"
"Certainly not," answered Mrs. Cumrox a little indignantly. "We pay cash for every lesson. The idea!"

I am sure Pisco's Cure for Consumption saved my life three years ago.—Mrs. THOS. ROBBINS, Maple street, Norwich, N. Y., Feb. 17, 1900.

Taught by Experience.
"We shall need," said the officer who was arranging for the government expedition, "food supplies for six men and a boy."
"Supplies for eight men," said the secretary, jotting it down. "What else?"

Mothers will find Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup the best remedy to use for their children during the teething period.

Made in Germany.
The much talked of Chinese astronomical instruments brought from Peking and now in the possession of Germany have been proved to be the work of a German named Gogeissel, who died in 1771. He was attached to the court at Peking and was president of the royal observatory.

CANCER
Sufferers from this horrible malady nearly always inherit it—not necessarily from the parents, but may be from some remote ancestor. For cancer often runs through several generations. This deadly poison may lay dormant in the blood for years, or until you reach middle life, then the first little sore or ulcer makes its appearance—or a swollen gland in the breast, or some other part of the body, gives the first warning.

To cure Cancer thoroughly and permanently all the poisonous virus must be eliminated from the blood—every vestige of it driven out. This S. S. S. does, and is the only medicine that can reach deep-seated, obstinate blood troubles like this. When all the poison has been forced out of the system the Cancer heals, and the disease never returns.

Cancer begins often in a small way, as the following letter from Mrs. Shirer shows.

A small pimple came on my jaw about an inch below the ear on the left side of my face. It gave me no pain or inconvenience, and I should have forgotten about it had it not begun to inflame and itch; it would bleed a little, then scab over, but it would not heal. This continued for some time, when my jaw began to swell, became so large as to be painful. The Cancer began to eat and spread, until it was as large as a half dollar, when I heard of S. S. S. and determined to give it a fair trial, and it was remarkable what a wonderful effect it had from the very beginning; the sore began to heal and after taking a few bottles disappeared entirely. This was two years ago; there are still no signs of the Cancer, and my general health continues good.—Mrs. R. Shirer, La Platte, Mo.

S. S. S. is the greatest of all blood purifiers, and the only one guaranteed purely vegetable. Send for our free book on Cancer, containing valuable and interesting information about this disease, and write our physicians about your case. We make no charge for medical advice.

SOME CURIOSITIES OF HABIT.

People Pull at Fences of Hay, Straw, Etc., from Mysterious Impulse.

After counting that twenty-four out of thirty passers-by had pulled a wisp out of some one of the many piles of excelsior piled up on the sidewalk, the traveling salesman looked up at the proprietor of the excelsior place, and catching his eye, they both began to laugh.

"How many does your count show?" he asked the salesman. "I noticed you have been counting them, same as I do sometimes." And when the salesman told him the proprietor remarked that it was about the usual average, although he had often counted as many as nineteen out of twenty passers-by who could not resist the impulse to take a pull at the bales.

"It is a very funny thing. What makes people do that?" asked the young salesman.
"Well, I don't know, really. I just know this, however, that it is a confounded nuisance. I don't mind to have about fifteen to twenty-five pounds of my goods wasted every day just because a lot of people have no control over their hands, but just look at that sidewalk! You'd think it hadn't been swept for a month, wouldn't you? Well, that sidewalk has been swept four times this morning."

"As I say, it isn't the stuff that's wasted I care about, but I don't want the bother of keeping the sidewalk free from excelsior, as my neighbor here next door insists when everybody that passes throws some down for my men to sweep away, and if I don't have it done then my neighbors fight with me about it. I have twice had to go to court about it."

"It's the same thing with hay, straw or hair for mattresses. Some people, even, can't stop themselves from pulling billboards all to pieces as they walk along. No, I couldn't say what makes people do it. My bookkeeper inside there is quite a dab at phrenology, and he says it's the bump of destructiveness makes people do that. But, then, what makes me do it? I ain't anxious to waste my own goods, and I often take a pull at a bale myself when I ain't thinking. I guess it's human nature, that's all. You're going, are you? Well, so long. Drop in early next week. I expect I'll have something for you then."

"Now, just look at him," exclaimed the proprietor, with a grim smile, as the salesman walked away. "There he goes, too," and the salesman, passing by one of the bales, pulled out a generous wisp and was absent-mindedly crumbling it away in his hand as he walked off.

Song with a Sentiment.
People living around the vicinity of 5th and Chestnut streets had a good laugh one day last week. A little negro girl is in the habit of coming to the pump at the corner to get water. She brings her bucket along, and being too small to handle the pump, she usually begs some passer-by to pump for her. They always accede. The other day she had reached her destination with the bucket, and as she did so a tall, sober looking gentleman passed. "Mister," said the small African damsel, "won't you please fill my bucket for me?"

The gentleman instantly halted, put the tin bucket on the spout and started to pump. As he did so, the negro bloomer began singing in a loud voice, "I've got er white man wukkin' for me."

The familiar tune of the variety song struck the bystanders and passers-by, and they were convulsed with the situation. No so the pumper. He evidently did not know anything about comic songs of that character, and did not see the joke, for he went on pumping gravely until the bucket was filled and handed to its songful owner.

You couldn't get any of the fellows near there now to fill that bucket unless the girl could be bound over to keep the peace while they pumped.—Louisville Times.

Sea Water for His Wrist.
Abern, the telegraph expert, put his brawny arm over the launch's side and let it drag through the salty water. He had half a dozen reporters in the launch, all armed with special files at the Highlands of Navesink, and after the launch had slipped through four miles of the Shrewsbury the operator withdrew his arm and looked at his wrist.

"There," said he, according to the New York Mail and Express, "I am good for 10,000 extra words," and he rubbed the wrist in a patronizing way. Somebody asked him for an explanation and he said:

"I have found that by placing the wrist in cool water for half an hour any operator is able to double his energy and endurance for the following twelve hours. The wrist is the main machinery of the telegraph operator. Its muscles and nerves are dependent upon perfect action. This immersion in the sea is worth considerable money to the company. Not only can I send quicker, but I can send better Morse and with greater endurance."

His Conception of Punishment.
Once when the Secretary of War, Elihu Root, had approved a punishment of an offender in the Philippines with a severity which seemed somewhat disproportionate to the crime, a visitor ventured to ask him whether he did not consider such a penalty a good deal like the old law of England, which hanged a man for stealing a sheep. "Certainly," was the answer, "and we impose it in the same spirit, not as an expiatory sacrifice, but as a preventive. The thief was hanged, not because a stolen sheep was regarded as worth a human life, but in order that more sheep should not be stolen."

An admiral may command a fleet or fleets; a rear admiral may command a fleet or a squadron, or division, under an admiral or vice admiral; an admiral receives $13,500 whether on sea or shore duty; the first nine rear admirals receive at sea $7,500, on shore duty $6,375; the second nine at sea $5,500, on shore $4,675.

Medical Profession Hereditary.
In Korea the medical profession is hereditary, passing from father to son. The basis of medical study is a work in 19 volumes, written about 2,000 years ago.

Another British Sporting Man.
Sir Thomas Lipton hardly stands for so prominent a representative of British sport as Lord Lonsdale. The latter owns the finest pack of hounds in England, is a splendid boxer, rides and drives to perfection, and has earned fame as a yachtman, hunter and explorer. He is also patron of 40 church livings.

Parental Sarcasm.
"Yes," said Farmer Cornstossel, "our boy Josiah is devoting a good deal of time to games and light literature just at present."
"Isn't that rather an unprofitable result?"
"Yes, but, you see, all the cabinet offices ain't big diplomatic places is filled; so I reckon Josiah feels that there ain't much else for him to do at present."—Washington Star.

St. Louis' Rag-Time Music.
Mrs. James L. Blair, of St. Louis, has stirred up the musical circles of that city by reading a paper before the Congregational club in which she affirmed that "rag time" music in that city was more popular than classical music and that the city had utterly failed to show any appreciation of music of the highest quality.

Substituting Electricity for Steam.
The extension of the use of electricity in British war ships in place of steam for subsidiary purposes was made the subject of a series of experimental tests in November. At the present time the capstan, steering engines, ventilating fans and derrick hoists are worked by steam power.

Delaware was, at the beginning of the present session of congress, entirely unrepresented in the senate, though it was one of the original thirteen states and has had since its admission an almost continuous line of senators, some of them of very much more than local reputation.

Horseshoes Draw Electricity.
A writer states that the difference in susceptibility to electric shock between horses and men is largely a question of shoes. The sole of a man's shoe has a very high resistance, but a horse with his four iron shoes, fastened on with iron nails, is apt to get the full benefit of the current.

Making Bondsmen Pay Forfeited Bonds.

District Attorney Philbin of New York City has devised a winning plan for making bondsmen pay up forfeited bail. He puts the bondsmen's property into the hands of a receiver and then it is a case of pay or bring in the man. The scheme is causing all sorts of consternation among bondsmen, to say nothing of the criminals.
