Joint Installation.
Custer Post and Woman's Relief Corps will hold a joint installation of officers on Saturday, January 11th. They will meet promptly at 10 o'clock. The corps will install first and then the post will install while the joint lunch is being prepared. A good program will be prepared for the afternoon. All Grand Army veterans and members of the W. R. C., and their families invited.
This is also a requisition on the commissary department, viz: baskets and grub.
Any person failing to have a good time will be put in the guard house. By order of H. S. MALONEY, NETTIE J. UNGERMAN, tire relief, which other remedies had failed to do." Sold by Howorth & Co.

The Oregon Farmers' Congress will be held at Salem, January 6th to 9th, 1902, inclusive. The Oregon Livestock Association will hold their annual meeting at the same time and place. The fruit men, state Grange and hop men will also be represented. The Oregon state board of agriculture will likewise hold special meetings for the purpose of preparing a program for next year's state fair. In view of the recent rapid advancement in stock raising and dairying throughout the state, this meeting should be of great benefit to all interested in agriculture, and an unusual large attendance is assured. For this occasion the Southern Pacific will grant a round trip rate of a fare and one-third, on the certificate plan, to those attending.

The Chemawa school at Salem, stands fourth on the list of all Indian schools in the United States in point of size, having a capacity of 500, Haskell and Phoenix each having a capacity of 700 and Carlisle 950. It is shown, however, that the capacity of the Salem school is already overtaxed, as the enrollment for the past year was 569, and the average attendance 502.

New York Mutual. He began work June 20th last, and figures that he has written an average of $1000 insurance for circumstance extraordinary among life insurance men. One applicant hunted him up, instead of his having to hunt the applicant. It is needless to add that the work in this case was accomplished in short order.

The cremation of the body of Wm. E.
Haight, late of this city, was performed duly last week at the Sellwood crematory. From the time the body was placed in the furnace until the ashes found their final lodgment in an urn, one hour and forty minutes elapsed.
The method of procedure is to place casket and all in the furnace. A strong blast is then turned on, which blows away the ashes of the casket and clothing. This blast is then turned off, and the body allowed to reduce to ashes, which are caught in a pan below.

In the case of Mr. Haight there were eight pounds of ashes remaining, almost as white as snow. This was placed in an urn of earthen-baked ware, and the lid sealed thereon. This urn is labeled and filed away in one of various compartments of the crematory, subject to the disposal of the proper custodians. It is understood that the cost of thus disposing of a body is now $35, but after the institution has had as many as fifty cremations, the price will be placed at $50. Up to this time there have been nearly forty cremations.

A large attendance greeted the pre-the Comb. Presbyterian church choir Sunday evening, and the music seemed much appreciated. The rendition occupied 50 minutes, and there was a brief address appropriate to Christmas by the pastor, Rev. J. Wood Stone. The singers were: sopranos, Mrs. Wm. Campbell, Miss Carrie Schenk, Miss Mary Bird; altos, Mrs. F. E. Rogers and Miss Mattie Fink; tenors, M. U. Gortner and F. E. Rogers; basses, W. T. Macy and received his discharge on the high seas, on the transport Sheridan, while returning home, and is rightfully very proud of the bit of parchment. He says Uncle Sam has a fine possession in the islands, and while there will probably be a great deal of bushwhacking for years to come, ultimately universal peace will work around. W. H. Manning comes from good old Virginia fighting stock, his father having served three years in the war of the rebellion, and his great grandfather serving about the same period in the war of the revolution. He was 62 days in the chase after Aguinaldo under Lowell.

An Unfair Shut Out.

A clear case of maltreatment of local poultrymen at the state poultry show in Portland occurred this week. The facts of the case as stated by poultry fanciers here are as follows: On the evening of Dec. 25th, Messrs. Fleming, Hoskins, Jacobs, Perkins and Nelson decided to show their birds at the Portland show.

On the 26th they forwarded their entries with fees amounting to about $15. They received acknowledgement of the same with thanks from the secretary. Mr.
Nelson also wrote asking Mr. Ladd if they might send their birds on the early train, and if this was not O. K. to be sure and let him know, as they wished to have their birds there on time, but would rather send them on Monday morning, and thus afford them a little rest from being cooped up for four days in the show here. The birds were sent on Monday morning, and were transferred direct to the show room. When the officers saw them and learned what they had scored in the show here by Mr. Browning (four in the lot having scored 95) it seems as if they knew that to try to win against them would be equal to trying to jump across the Willamette.

They accordingly filed protest, which was sustained. They could not step over the rules and accept entries a few hours late, but they could and did accept entries and money three days late, and did so with thanks. There is no question but Mr. Fleming, at least, would have won first on White Wyandotte cock, as the scores prove, while all the other exhibitors stood a first-class show of winning, had there been fair treatment. Our local exhibitors say that it looks to them as if the officers, or a part of them, had determined to have the honors placed upon their birds regardless of principle, or the future of the association, and fanciers from the outside should govern themselves accordingly in the future.

A Good Recommendation.
"I have noticed that the sale on Chamberlain's stomach and liver tablets is almost invariably to those who have once used them," says Mr. J. H. Weber, a prominent druggist of Cascade, Iowa.

What better recommendation could any medicine have than for people to call for it when again in need of such a remedy?
Try them when you feel dull after eating, when you have a bad taste in your mouth, feel bilious, have no appetite or when troubled with constipation, and you are sure to be delighted with the prompt relief which they afford. For Sir Christopher Furness, one of the leading shipbuilders of England, has expressed the opinion that the United States is certain to secure an ocean marine whether subsidies are resorted to or not, but he bases his opinion wholly upon the fallacious idea that the only obstacle in the past to the creation of an ocean marine was the higher cost of ship construction in American yards.

He thinks that, now we have nearly reached the stage of manufacturing ships as cheaply as England, the rest will easily follow.

We are asked, "What about your coal prospect?" Our reply is, "Our coal prospect is all right." Primarily we are after oil; incidentally we will develop coal. Geological and expert knowledge, after examinations of the strata of shale, limestone and sandstone on our properties, would declare the probability of the existence of a true coal measure. With a possibility of possessing a coal measure, we have no desire to spend our money in tunnel prospecting, for this reason: A coal measure consists of a thick strata of limestone, shale and sandstone. In Nova Scotia they are 13,000 feet; in South Wales 12,000 feet; Pennsylvania 4,000 feet; West Virginia 4,500 feet. In addition to these strata of stone there are interstratified thin seams of coal, and in the richest coal measures known, the proportion of coal to rock is not more than 1 to 50. From the nature and origin of coal it follows that the coal seams of considerable depth are the most valuable; in fact, the thickest and purest are usually near the middle of the series. Nova Scotia has 81 coal seams; South Wales over 100; Lancashire 75, and so on. Now then, instead of prospecting our coal croppings by tunneling, we propose first, to ascertain by the use of our drill as to the existence of other coal seams deeper down. If our drill finds them, then it only requires the service of a practical coal miner to put us in the market. We are killing two birds with one stone. We are neglecting neither coal nor oil. We promise a full development of each, and we trust a profitable conclusion of our work. To-day we have over 300 shareholders, so you see they are coming right along, but we know of a great many people who should, but have not. Our drill will arrive before long, and then down goes the hole, and if we keep right at it, more people must subscribe. We believe that our efforts will meet with success, but we promise nothing but a square management and a strict accounting. Every dollar goes to development; no shareholder need assume a burden. Subscribe to any amount you wish, and have an interest in our work.

It is reported that the Booth-Kelly Lumber Co. will erect a large mill on the lower Siuslaw in the near future.
The site has been secured and negotiations are proceeding for timber. There is about eight billion feet of excellent timber along the river waiting for some enterprising firm to convert it into wealth.
