Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know it.

How to Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What to Do.
There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c. and $1. sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail, address Dr. Kilmer & Sons, Swamp-Root Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

Child Worth Millions.

"My child is worth millions to me," says Mrs. Mary Bird of Harrisburg, Pa. "yet I would have lost her by croup had I not purchased a bottle of One Minute Cough Cure." One Minute Cough Cure is sure cure for coughs, croup and throat and lung troubles. An absolutely safe cough cure which acts immediately. The youngest child can take it with entire safety. The little ones like the taste and remember how often it helped them. Every family should have a bottle of One Minute Cough Cure handy. At this season especially it may be needed suddenly. REMARKABLE CURE FOR CROUP.

A Little Boy's Life Saved.

I have a few words to say regarding Chamberlain's cough remedy. It saved my little boy's life and I feel that I cannot praise it enough. I bought a bottle of it from A. E. Steere of Goodwin, S. D., and when I got home with it the poor baby could hardly breathe. I gave the medicine as directed every ten minutes, until he "threw up," and then I thought sure he was going to choke to death. We had to pull the phlegm out of his mouth in great long strings. I am positive if I had not got that bottle of cough medicine, my boy would not be on earth today.—Joel Demont, Inwood, Iowa. GILLAN'S IMPRESSIONS OF OREGON.

What the Late Normal Instructor From Wisconsin Says of Us in His Own Publication, The Western Teacher.

During November the editor of this journal was engaged in institutes and related work in Oregon, a state which is moving forward at a most encouraging pace in educational as well as material progress. The state is composed of three distinct parts. First, there is Portland and the Willamette valley, the older settled portion, a region with a cosmopolitan population similar to that of the upper Mississippi valley and drawn largely from it. A variety of crops and diversified industries are found here; there are but two seasons, the wet and the dry. In November, green grass, roses blooming in great profusion everywhere, a warm, gentle rain falling almost constantly, and this in the latitude of St. Paul, was an object lesson in physical geography not easily forgotten. The southeastern portion of the state is wild and rugged, of value chiefly for grazing; it was settled largely by emigration from Missouri. A saying is current there that the left wing of Gen. Price's army did not surrender, but moved on into Oregon. Traveling in that part of the state is chiefly by long and arduous stage routes. The Columbia basin east of the Cascades, the newer settled part of Oregon and Washington, a wonderfully rich wheat growing region, presents all the phases of growth, activity and enterprise which one sees wherever small cities spring up in a rich agricultural country.

In the matter of high schools, Oregon is today where Illinois and Wisconsin were forty years ago; there are very few high schools; every town of any considerable size has a little college or academy. These are private or denominational schools; in a few of the larger and more progressive towns these have been supplanted by the public high school, but in most places the public high school is overshadowed and handicapped by the presence of private institutions.

In the matter of buildings and equipment of the normal schools the conditions in Oregon leave much to be desired. In the one we visited, at Monmouth, the leading normal school in the state, President Campbell, a man who would easily stand in the highest rank in any state in which his lot might be cast, has a well-chosen faculty of earnest workers, but the school is greatly hampered by the lack of adequate material facilities. Two hundred thousand dollars put into a modern normal school building and equipment, with an enlarged faculty which would then be necessary, with President Campbell at the head, would be the best investment that Oregon could make.

But notwithstanding the drawbacks above noted the county institutes enroll an exceptionally bright, enthusiastic class of teachers. At McMinnville and Dallas, Supts. Littlefield and Starr had mustered bodies of teachers whose interest in the work was an inspiration, and the citizens were present in good numbers, especially at the evening meetings. At these two institutes we had the pleasure of working with Superintendent Robinson, of Portland, one of the most popular instructors in the state, and the side trip across country to Salem on a typical day of the rainy season was enlivened by the genial presence of the best known educational missionary in Oregon, C. H. Jones, of the Oregon Teachers' Monthly. An appointment at Portland to address the city teachers closed the trip west of the Cascades and gave opportunity to meet some of those who have molded educational practice in that interesting city, among them Supt. Frank Rigler, whose long tenure attests the esteem in which he is held in that valley, and Principal Burnham, one of the veterans who has levied and perfected some most ingenious and practical apparatus for illustrating principles and facts in mathematical geography.

The Columbia river route eastward from Portland is one of the most picturesque in the world. The river and mountain scenery, Multnomah falls, 500 feet high, the cascades and the dalles are worth a trip across the continent to see. Teachers who visit the Lewis and Clark exposition at Portland in 1905—and the N. E. A. which will probably be held there at the same time—should not fail to see the one-hundred miles of the Columbia which cuts through the Cascade mountains.

Three days at the state association at Pendleton with a company of 250 wide-awake teachers of eastern Oregon, and our work in that state was closed. The enrollment included teachers of all ranks from the county district school to the normal schools, colleges and university. Throughout the state the greatest harmony seems to prevail among all classes of school people, and on every hand words of high praise are spoken of State Supt. J. H. Ackerman. He has instituted some reforms in regard to certification of teachers, establishment of high schools and introduction of a course of study in the common schools which are meeting with approval. His thorough knowledge of common and high school work and his practical turn of mind fit him well for leadership in the transition stage of Oregon's educational growth through which the state is now passing from private toward public secondary schools.

NEW TAX LAW.

Taxpayers Should Become Familiar with the Provisions of the New Measure.

At the last session of the legislature a new law was passed in regard to the collection of taxes, which law took effect on December 1st, 1901, and its substance is as follows:

1. If you pay your taxes on or before March 15th you will be allowed a rebate of 3 per cent.

2. If you pay your taxes between March 15th and up to and including the first Monday in April, there will not be any rebate, neither will there be any penalty or interest added.

3. If your taxes are not paid on or before the first Monday in April, they will become delinquent, when there will be added a penalty of 10 per cent, and the tax will also draw interest at the rate of 12 per cent per annum in addition to the penalty.

4. If you pay one-half of your taxes on or before the first Monday in April, then the remaining half may run up to and including the first Monday in October following; but if the last half of tax due is not paid by the first Monday in October, it becomes delinquent, and there will be added to such balance a penalty of 10 per cent, and in addition, such balance will bear interest at the rate of 12 per cent per annum from the first Monday in April until paid.

5. On all personal property taxes, if one-half is not paid on or before the first Monday in April, the law compels the sheriff to levy upon and collect the same after May 1st, hence to prevent a levy upon personal property after May 1st it will be necessary for one-half to be paid as above stated.

6. The law compels the sheriff to sell all lands on which taxes have not been paid, and that such sales shall not be held later than March 1st of the year succeeding the year in which the tax levy is made.

7. The property will be sold to the person bidding the lowest rate of interest, and certificates will be issued therefor, and deeds given to such property sold, unless redeemed within three years from the date of such sale.

LEVI BENNETT,

JACK KISSED HER.

Jack—"don't you envy him?"—kissed her
While taking a walk in the square—
So sweet she, he couldn't resist her;
And ought she, you fancy, to care?
And should she be mad as a hatter?
Or should she have given it back?
Or should she pass over the matter,
And say: "Oh, it was Jack; only Jack!"

Is the hue of her cheeks indication
Of furious anger, or not?
Or due to some slight irritation
Of her choosing so public a spot?
Were she kissed in the hall would she
Mildly
Protest: "Please be good—there's Papa!"
And is she now speeding on, wildly,
To seek her protecting Mamma?"

Is Jack to be blamed for his action?
Are you holding him deep in disgrace?
Supposing he saw a distraction
Of "Try if you like," on her face!
I'll add, as the close of my ditty,
Ere spinsters regard her as lost,
And gossips deplore: "What a pity!"
That Jack—clever Jack—was Jack Frost!

Severed the Vital Chord.

G. L. Pugh, an old man of 72 years, who had been for six weeks a county charge in care of Arthur Smith in this city, took his own life last Saturday forenoon, by cutting the arteries of his left arm at the elbow with a pocket knife. He had made two wounds quite deep into the arm, and had held it over a vessel until he was two weak to longer stand up. He had probably lost a quart of blood, then fell back on the bed and continued to bleed for some time. The knife used was found closed upon a table near the bed. It was a two-bladed pocket knife, the smaller blade being quite sharp, and was the one with which the work was done. Mrs. Smith was attracted by moans from the adjoining room, and found the man slowly bleeding to death. She asked him what was the matter, and he replied, "I am on my last legs." She was alone with her two children and old man Fairchilds, another county charge. Leaving them, she hurried to the house of Mr. Noll, who speedily went for a doctor. Doctor Goucher reached the house as the man was dying. He could get no expression from him. Pugh had removed his coat, vest and shoes and rolled up his sleeves. He had been in very feeble health from stomach trouble during all his residence here, and was growing worse. Dr. Goucher said he was a very despondent man. He would call on him for medicine, in great distress, and always claiming that he was getting worse and asserting his conviction that he had a tumor. A cursory examination after death did not reveal to the doctor anything of this nature.

Justice J. M. Pugh acted for Coroner Chapman, and his jury found death had resulted from self-inflicted wounds.

There are no known relatives of deceased, who came from California to Oregon about two months ago, and came to this city from Dayton.

H. C. Burns took charge of the body and buried it in the potter's field.

SHERIDAN.

Earl T. Tidd has returned to Sheridan after an absence of several months.

F. B. Churchman came down from his mountain ranch Tuesday.

Mrs. Ora Yocom and Mrs. John Shaller of Willamina were in town Tuesday afternoon.

Our winter has arrived at last and for two or three days we have heard the merry jingle of sleigh bells.

There will be a social dance at Bewley's hall, Saturday evening, Feb. 1st. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Mrs. J. R. Mendenhall is still very ill and her ultimate recovery is very doubtful, as her mind is now seriously affected.

A fire burning out at the residence of A. J. Bayard caused a little excitement Tuesday morning. No damage done, however.

The young folks have been enjoying themselves since the freeze-up, by skating on the lake at Uncle Geo. Graves' about three miles southeast of town.

Pleasant chapter No. 5, O. E. S. initiated two candidates last Saturday night, after which a lunch was served and a good time enjoyed by all present.

There will be a "ghost dance" in Bewley's hall on St. Valentine's night, Feb. 14th. In other words, those taking part are to be costumed with a sheet and pillow-slip. Supper at Mother Savage's.

The present time would be a very bad time for fire, as most of the pumps in town are frozen up, and right now we are most liable to have a fire, as everyone has to keep up booming fires all the time to keep warm.

S. L. Hyde has been having good luck trapping this winter, securing a goodly number of mink, otter, etc. On going to his traps last Monday morning he found he had taken some one's dog a prisoner, and on Tuesday morning his prisoner was a cat.

Joe Churchman has returned to Sheridan from Portland, where he has been working in a barber shop, and will take charge of the barber shop on the south side of the river at this place. Thos. Newlin, who has been in charge, will move away in the near future.

The Epworth League elected a new lot of officers last week. They are in part as follows: Harley Brown, president; Reva Buel, secretary; Della Brown, treasurer. They begin the new year with an excellent corps of officers and should make it a success.

THE SHIN WARMERS.

"Gee whiz! but ain't it cold?" said the judge, taking off his overcoat. "The Shin Warmers will not do much business this kind of weather."

"It's the best time to cogitate, me bye," replied the highland doctor.

"How are they getting along with the new board of trade organization?" inquired the old speculator with chin whiskers.

"They haven't got life enough in this town to keep up a board of trade organization," replied the cynic, with a bright red tinge of sarcasm in his voice. "You want to go to a city that is full of life, where everything is going on day and night, trade, commerce and transportation and manufacture, with a buzz and a whiz. That's life for you."

"That isn't life, it's fermentation," responded the shepherd boy, coolly.

"There is fermentation and there is dry rot," retorted the cynic.

"A cooperative club would be a good thing in this town," said the cynical minded man.

"What can you cooperate with in this town?" asked the candidate for sheriff.

"Cooperation is now the life of trade," put in the shepherd boy. "A cooperative club could organize industries and enterprises and harmonize those that we have," he continued, "could discourage and prevent cut-throat competition, or the establishment of lines of business or enterprise that are already overcrowded. Arbitrate disputes and discourage exorbitant prices and charges; in short, be a commercial and industrial harmonizer. It's a big idea."

"Who would be eligible to membership?" asked the judge.

"Both producer and consumer as well as the middleman could join this kind of an organization," replied the shepherd boy.

BARNEY H. SPRINGER.

B. H. Springer, of Amity, a pioneer of 1850, died suddenly at 11 p. m., Saturday, Jan. 25th, after a few hours' illness of neuralgia of the heart. Mr. Springer was a prominent and respected citizen of his town, and had held the office of justice of the peace at various intervals extending over many years. He was a man of good judgment and remarkable memory. Illustrating the latter, it is told by one who was once a fellow-juror with him, that as the other members discussed the case through the night, Mr. Springer was to all appearances asleep, and they so believed. They were greatly surprised toward morning, when the case was summed up, to observe that Springer was about the best posted man in the lot on the proceedings of the night.

He leaves a widow, two sons and a daughter. He was aged 72 years and 4 months. Burial was made by the Masonic fraternity on Monday, at Amity.

Will Have a Board of Trade.

A number of citizens met at the city hall Tuesday evening, pursuant to call, and adopted by-laws for the government of a board of trade to be organized next Monday evening at the same place.

The subject of a cannery was mentioned, but no formal report from the committee was made. It is the understanding that when the organization of the board of trade is completed by the election of officers, this matter will be pursued farther and if possible brought to a tangible reality. One gentleman present said he had $500 to put into it under proper conditions, meaning that a practical and experienced cannery man must have charge of the enterprise.

The by-laws are as follows:
Name—The name of this organization shall be the McMinnville Board of Trade.

Object—The object is to advance the commercial and industrial interests of McMinnville and vicinity.

Membership—Any person may become a member of this board of trade on payment of a membership fee of 50c quarterly in advance, same to be collected by the secretary, every member to be entitled to vote at all meetings.

Officers—The officers shall be a president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer, to be elected annually by ballot. Their duties are to be similar to the duties performed by officers of similar organizations. The secretary shall be paid semi-annually the sum of $25 for his services.

Assessments—Whenever funds shall be needed for current expenses an assessment shall be levied upon the membership in such amount and for such purposes as a majority vote of the members present shall determine. Fifteen members shall constitute a quorum for such purpose.

Committees—Such committees shall be appointed by the president as shall be considered necessary and determined by a majority vote of the members present at any meeting. But the officers and three members elected as above shall constitute an executive committee to have charge of all business that may come before it.

Time and Place of Meeting—This board of trade shall meet in the city hall on the second Monday evening of each month. Special meetings may be called at any time by the president, on giving due notice of same.

Quorum—Ten members shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of all business except levying an assessment, which shall require fifteen.

Amendments—These by-laws may be amended at any regular meeting by a two-thirds vote of the members present. Messrs. Murton, Gee and Grissen were chosen a committee to solicit membership, and report that they are meeting with encouragement. Over 50 names were secured on Wednesday, and it is believed the membership will reach 100.

COLUMBUS SCHOOL NOTES.

Wm. Palmer has been absent a couple of days this week on account of sickness.

We wonder why so many of the students stay inside the building these snowy days. They do not want their faces washed.

The high school students have been having great times playing in the snow this week. If you don't believe it ask Earl Wisecarver and Fred Bradley.

The 10th grade had election of class officers last Tuesday afternoon. Those elected were, president, Miss Edythe Bristow; vice president, Miss Edna Hodson; secretary, Leroy Peterson; treasurer, Miss Minnie Gallentine.
