GERONIMO.

Some criticism is passed in army circles upon the report that Geronimo did not surrender to Gen. Miles unconditionally, and there is danger that he can not be punished in a manner that would insure him his just deserts. It is argued that Gen. Crook could have done as much in capturing the chief, had he been willing to make certain guarantees of safe keeping and exemption from punishment, but he strove to take the murderer wherever he might be found, and refused to enter into any negotiation whatever as to the disposition that might be made of the case. If there is any difficulty in the way of meting out his just deserts to him, it perhaps arises from the subordinate in the office of the secretary of war. The peculiar relations between the Indians and the United States makes the position of Geronimo somewhat peculiar. If he were a white man he could be tried and hung in the ordinary way. But being an Indian, there will no doubt be a great deal of sentimental gush wasted over him. But the propriety of hanging him will probably be the prevailing view.

CAUSE OF TYPHOID.

The typhoid outbreak in Syracuse, New York, in 1879, was caused by the overflow of a privy vault polluting the water. People living in the same block and under similar conditions, except as to the water they drank, escaped entirely. The typhoid outbreak among the German troops in 1882 was proven by searching investigation, to have occurred from a similar cause. The following receipt how to build a privy vault and how to keep it in condition is taken from John T. McConnell's letter in the Sanitary Plumber: "In small towns and country places there should be no such thing under seat as a privy vault. There should be a strongly made galvanized iron box into which everything should fall. I prefer galvanized iron to wood, as it cannot become saturated with the foul liquids and is easier cleansed. The back or side of the building should be so constructed that this box could be easily removed and emptied and another put in its place. When the box is put in position, the bottom of it should be covered with dry earth or ashes to the depth of four inches. When this simple and inexpensive arrangement is made, it only requires a little dry earth or ashes sprinkled daily over the contents of the box, but it would be still better to throw a little on whenever used. In order to do this there should be a box of dry earth or ashes in one corner of the privy, with a small shovel with which to throw it in."

NEWS AND NOTES.

Smith & Clark's sash, blind and door factory was destroyed by fire at Victoria Saturday.

A young Vermont fisherman having married a freckled faced girl, wrote to an old chum that he had just landed a speckled beauty.

Etta G. Thwaites has commenced an action for divorce from her artist husband in Multnomah county. Mrs. Keys will perhaps follow suit.

Cattle are quarantined at Chicago against pleuro-pneumonia. The disease has been lingering about there since last fall, in a herd of milk cows.

Boston now boasts the champion yacht, the champion slugger, the champion philosopher, champion poet, the champion novelist and the champion defaulter of America. Culture counts.

Portland has raised $000,000 for the Charleston sufferers so far; but the Telegram is reliably informed that a certain wealthy resident has promised $0.50.

Prince Alexander, of Bulgaria, when he paints up his old coat of arms again, might appropriately affix the motto: "He who fights and runs away may live to fight another day."

Julius Baum & Co., of San Francisco made assignment on Saturday. It was a surprise, as they were considered one amongst the soundest. Outside speculation caused the failure.
