McMinnville, Or. - Oct. 2, 1896

TO OUR READERS

We do not expect any who are patrons of this paper to take both THE DAILY and THE WEEKLY REPORTER. That would be unreasonable. All who are taking THE WEEKLY in the city can order it discontinued at any time, and the balance due upon it can be credited to the amount of THE DAILY. We receive three or four new names from the country for every one discontinued in the city under this arrangement, therefore our friends need have no hesitation whatever in asking the favor. McMinnville will never again be without its own Daily paper, and it will be all printed at home at that. No extra charge is made for THE REPORTER in its enlarged form to-day. We paid for the privilege of coming to this lovely city to reside and do business, and we propose to stay; and pay our way as we go along.

OREGON GRASSES

We were delighted with the display of grasses at the rooms of the immigration board last Monday. Grass is to be King in Oregon at an early day, and it is well to pay attention to it, and while we will not submit to any contradiction relative to the superiority of Oregon grasses, we were not prepared to meet the great variety on exhibition without some surprise. The board now has nearly 300 specimens of native and cultivated grasses. Among the wild grasses is about thirty varieties collected by Judge Randall of Clackamas county, from the sides of Mount Hood; all the way from the lower levels to the snow line. In view of the fact that cattlemen in eastern Oregon are of the opinion that very soon something will have to be done to take the place of bunch grass pasture, Judge Randall made this collection of grasses from these higher levels, and he proposes to supplement this work by experiments in seeding from it. Altogether the board rooms are in an admirable condition for the proper reception of immigrants.

WEATHER DATA WANTED.

The Daily Reporter asks, why does not Uncle Sam's educated and scientific army do some thing to enlighten people upon the storm and earthquake subject? The National Republican answers: Why? Wiggins may be an ignoramus, but is very natural that uneducated men should become over enthusiastic, self-deceived and unduly infatuated by very superficial acquirements in the recondite realm of weather philosophy. Even in their case, their fellow men should readily make large allowance and accord to them, cheerfully, full credit for their careful observation and studious devotion to a very important and generally neglected matter, although one that is universally acknowledged to be of the greatest financial value to mankind. During the war and for twenty-five years the world has been confronted with predictions of every kind of physical disturbance and meteorological change, the attention of which is of so high and scientific a character that it cannot be questioned, and it seems to us that in the present crisis which the earth is now passing through we should be able to find some comfort in the fact that science can fashion its forces, and to some extent limit its limitations.

WHEAT INDUSTRY.

Our immigrants are asleep while the men from throughout the Yamhill county and run right up under their very noses selling fruit trees and shrubbery. We believe in home industry but don't propose to take our little hillside and go about gratuitously waking people up every day. It becomes monotonous after a few years.

Capt. Abbey of the Corwin defends the Alaska fur company against some of the barrels full of falsehood dealt out to that corporation. He says and no doubt truthfully too, that during the sixteen years of the contract continuance the condition of the Aleuts has been so much improved that men who were there in '68 and '69, express astonishment. Rude skins are replaced by comfortable garments, mud huts by neat frame houses, schools, churches, books, and other adjuncts of civilization abound and the people are in every way more comfortable. The Alaska company is not allowed to bring liquor or fire arms into the territory; this is what most of the kick is about. The smugglers take big chances to bring in rum and rifles and naturally hate to be checkmated. Whether they get rich or have much advantage has no connection with the case. The contract exists, the company is bound under heavy penalties to do certain things; it does them and is entitled to peaceful enjoyment and possession of what it pays for. No one complains except those who break the laws, and a transgressor never has a good opinion of a restraining statute. If any one is unjustly treated he can get ample redress. Uncle Sam is financially responsible for the acts of his accredited agents.

We will take your order for a Victor fire proof family safe. See advertisement in Weekly Reporter.

Advertisers can take their choice, either daily or weekly, at the same old rate. No advance in the price. We've come to stay, if you say so.

The New York Sun, jealous of Schwatkas discovery in Alaska tries to belittle Oregon's favored Son, but makes a failure of the attempt.

Show the Weekly Reporter to your neighbor and ask him to become a subscriber. Two copies, to separate addresses if desired, one year $3.00.
