McMinnville, Or. Oct. 4, 1886

TO OUR READERS.

We do not expect any who are patrons of this paper to take both THE DAILY and THE WEEKLY REPORTER. That would be unreasonable. All who are taking THE WEEKLY in the city can order it discontinued at any time, and the balance due upon it can be credited to the account of THE DAILY. We receive three or four new names from the country for every one discontinued in the city under this arrangement, therefore our friends need have no hesitation whatever in asking the favor. McMinnville will never again be without its own Daily paper, and it will be all printed at home at that. No extra charge is made for THE REPORTER in its enlarged form to-day. We paid for the privilege of coming to this lovely city to reside and do business, and we propose to stay; and pay our way as we go along.

TOOK A TUMBLE.

A few days since a teamster named Jas. Flynn was driving a wood wagon along one of the high streets in Astoria, when the roadway "gave it" up. The bridge has a perpendicular height of about thirty feet, down this chasm the bridge, timbers, planking, wagon, wood, horses and driver were plunged. From the way the wagon fell, backward, Flynn had no chance to escape. He was flung down on the stumps at the bottom, the wood fell on him, and one of the horses on the wood, the other rolling with the wagon to one side. But one of the driver's boots could be seen, and those who hastened to the spot thought that only the crushed and lifeless form of Flynn would be disclosed as alone remaining of what a moment before was a strong healthy man. Hastily the horse, the heavy sticks of wood and debris were removed, when Flynn rose to his feet, and though badly shook up, began to aid in gathering up the scattered harness, etc., and coolly examined his horses, which were only scratched and injured about the feet.

Prince Alexander is casting his eye toward America, this "asylum for the oppressed" of other nations. Besides his income from the $2,000,000 legacy inherited, he has a number of profitable investments in America which he can realize upon at any time. He owns considerable real estate in Chicago, Kansas city, Denver and Omaha, and he is part owner of one of the largest sheep ranches in New Mexico. His American property is held in the name of Alexander Marie Wilhelm Ludwig Maraschkoff, and his interests in this country are looked after by Col. J. S. Norton, a well-known attorney of Chicago. Col. N. says that he would not be surprised if Prince Alexander were to come to the United States to live. In a letter to his attorney last June the prince said: "If ever it is the divine pleasure to release us from the harrassing responsibilities which now rest upon us, it will be our choice to find a home in that great country beyond the Atlantic, where, removed from the intrigues of court and state, we may enjoy that quiet employment and peaceful meditation for which we have always yearned."

OLEOMARGARINE INDORSED.

We stand confounded when we read in the National Republican the report of the seventh national convention of the American agricultural and dairy association which met at Philadelphia on the 15th, in "the interest of our farming industry—" forsooth. There were present a long list of eminent men, and letters of regret from governors, senators and congressmen. Even Mr. Cleveland availed himself of the opportunity, "as the representative of an interest so important and valuable as that which the farmers and agriculturists of the country have in charge," to say that he hoped "that the convention may be productive of the best results to the agriculturists, as well as to all the people of our country, and though plans already made and engagements already agreed upon will prevent my accepting your invitation to be present, I shall be much interested in its objects and purposes." Now what did the convention do? It tacitly indorsed the oleomargarine fraud. We have space for but one resolution excerpt from the rest. The report reads as follows: "Advising agriculturalists to support all congressmen, irrespective of party, who aided in securing the passage of the oleomargarine bill, and to oppose all candidates for congress who are not in harmony with them on this measure." Farmers; isn't that a hopeful prospect for your cows, to come into competition with dead hogs.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Frank S. Thayer, of Denver Col. has just issued a pamphlet of half a dozen pages, arranged as a tribute to the memory of the late Helen Hunt Jackson. The first page contains an excellent portrait of the distinguished writer, and a picture of her grave in Pine hill forest, Cheyenne mountain, and of the late residence of H. H., beautifully finished.

There is reported to be a desire among the friends of Mr. Sedgwick, since his return from a somewhat famous trip to Mexico, that he shall sue some of the American newspapers for libel in connection with stories of his alleged performances while absent. It really seems as though some proceedings of the sort were necessary if that gentleman has any desire to preserve the integrity of the bubble reputation.
