The color line was thrown down as the gauntlet for a fight in the national convention of the Knights of Labor at Richmond this week, by the admission of Ferrell, a negro delegate, to a seat in the orchestra circle in the academy of music, a section of the auditorium in the Richmond theater hitherto guarded from the intrusion of all persons of this race. The general feeling among Virginians is one of bitter resentment, and they regard the delegates with anything but friendly feel-It is said that a majority of the Knights are much provoked at ction of their visiting brothers, have declared their intention of bandoning the order and joining the and order league, organized in opposition to the Knights. There was a rumpus also occasioned y admitting delegates from Brooklyn. case of Ferrell caused a squad of emen to be present at a subsemeeting to carry out the inions of Mrs. Powell, proprietor anager of the theater, that Ferould not be admitted except to llery reserved for negroes. The delegate did not appear, to tate a mob.

prrespondent inquires, "what is comargarine law?" It is an act of congress to protect every intention of butter called oleomargarine. It requires that manufacturers must file a bond of $5,000 or more, shall put up a sign, pay $600 a year license, and put on each vessel stamps at two cents per pound. Wholesalers must pay $480 license and must sell from the original packages. Retailers must pay $48 license and must sell from the original packages. Imported olemargarine must be stamped fifteen cents per pound. The vessels cannot be used the second time. The penalties are: Manufacturers, $1,000 to $5,000; wholesalers, $500 to $2,000; retailers, $50 to $500. Whoever knowingly purchases unstamped oleomargarine is liable to $50 fine; and whoever knowingly purchases from a manufacturer who has not paid the license tax is liable to $100 fine. The law goes into effect October 30. Its execution will be in the hands of the internal revenue department, and the tobacco rules apply to its enforcement. Provision is made for analytical chemists and microscopists.
