The lofty wooden spires of the churches of Mattoon, Ill., have been pierced in hundreds of places by woodpeckers looking for food or for places for nests. The holes in the Methodist church steeple became so unsightly that a man was employed to shoot the birds. Then bees took up their abode within, and their honey drips from the holes and smears the steeple. The Congregational church steeple is well filled with honey and so are steeples in neighboring towns. Six swarms of bees were seen to quit the spire of a Paxton church in one day.

The Rest Thrown In.

"Darling," said a young department clerk to a pretty Georgetown girl, whose waist his arm encircled, "what do you think your dear papa would say if I were to ask him for your hand?" "I don't think he'd like it, Harry," she lisped. "No?" he said in dismay, for he thought he was very dense with the old gentleman. "No? Why not?" "Because, dear," she smiled, "he wouldn't want his only daughter mutilated in that manner. Ask for all of me, Harry, and I have a vague suspicion you'll get me mighty quick." Harry gave her a squeeze as big as a dime museum anaconda, and saw the father next day in a most successful manner. - Washington Critic.

The best paper on the West side and the cheapest.

When the patent granolithic sidewalk pavement is first put down it is very sticky, but it hardens quickly. This is why a young couple of Bridgeport who stood on a fresh slab of the composition while bidding each other good night had to be dug out with a pickax. Their shoes were ruined, but they were very grateful to the night watchman who released them, and who promised not to call.

We respectfully suggest to the lemon-venders that they purchase a new lemon this year. The cost will be trifling, and the lemon will last them for many generations. The lemon which they have used for so many years is, doubtless, valuable as a historical relic, and is fragrant with the aroma of old associations. But the present generation is thoughtless, unromantic, and fickle, and craves for something new. - Lynn Union.

"William E. Mason—you brute! she gasped.

"The children enjoyed the joke just as much as I did—yes, and wife, too, got to laughing about it after awhile. Our boy Louis said: "Do it again, pa; its mighty jolly to have a big dinner once in awhile."

"But look here, you reporter; you aren't taking notes on me? Come, come, now, that's not right; you mustn't tell the story on me. Put it on somebody else—put it on Bill Campbell.

A man whose early opportunities for learning were few and far between received a letter the other day from a young college student, wherein he spoke of the Lare and Penates of the household. The receiver puzzled over this classical allusion for some time, and could make nothing out of it, but finally burst forth as follows: "What in thunder does the darned fool mean? 'Hares and peanuts!' I may sell provisions, but I remember when his stingy old father was a tin-peddler—'hares and peanuts,' indeed! If he can only learn to insult people at college he had better come home." - Boston Budget.
