WIT AND HUMOR.

"Care may kill a cat, but a bootjack sent with proper precision is more speedy in its action.

"Chartered oppressors" is the latest for "blasted monopoly," and it comes from the wild West, too.

Give a tramp the cold shoulder one day, and he will come back the next for potatoes to go with it.

"I can do what I like with my colors now," said the proud young scholar. "So could I at your age," answered the master, "but now I can only do what other people like."

A Washington photographer is getting a portrait of an Indiana man in the act of not getting an office. The negative will be preserved.—Louisville (Ky.) Courier-Journal.

The advance in the price of nails is probably brought about by their scarcity. So many campaign lies were nailed last year that it has sent the market up.—Brooklyn Times.

A city photographer went into the suburbs for the purpose of taking a live bull from life. For a two-mile run the chances seemed good for the bull taking the artist from life.—Yonkers Statesman.

They had been quarreling. "So you wish there was another war, do you, William?" she observed. "Yes, I do," he replied. "Well, William, I will try to accommodate you." And she did. N. Y. Graphic.

A forlorn-looking man said: "I've tried everything that I could turn my hand to, but couldn't make anything answer; and now I have decided to go up among the hills, where they say there's a wonderful echo, to see if I can make that answer."

It is not true that the whole is always equal to the sum of all its parts. The axiom, for instance, fails to pieces in the case of a head of hair. In that instance, the larger and more numerous are the parts, the less is the whole hair.—Life.

Ratiocination: Small Gertrude (5 years old)—Mamma, I quite agree with you. Mamma—Why, my child, what does agree mean? S. G.—When two persons think alike. Mamma—What does disagree mean? S. G.—When one person thinks alike.

The hairdresser at the Jardin des Plantes with his little son: "My boy, here you see how unequally nature distributes her gifts. This creature, for instance, is the tortoise, of whose shell the best hairpins are made, but which, unfortunately, has no hair itself."

Customer—Give me a pound of oleomargarine. Grocer—Yes, ma'am; here's your change. Customer—Why, you've charged me 19 cents; it used to be 18. Grocer—Yes, ma'am; but we are not allowed to sell it now—there's a law agin it—so it's dearer.—N. Y. Mail.

Edith, you want to know "whether funny men on newspapers ever laugh at their own jokes," do you, dear? Yes, Edith, often; in fact, in a good many cases you will find that they are the only ones who do laugh at them; but, of course, this is confidential.—Boston Post.

On one of the little brown jugs sent out by a Methodist Sunday-school and gravely presented to his friends for their contributions, an old deacon had pasted the motto, "When I am full send me home." Evidently the old deacon didn't know about the boys on New Year's.

I held her tiny hand in mine, and clasped her fairy form, and told my tale of ardent love in language sweet and warm. And when I paused for want of breath, she raised her dimpled chin and whispered low, "I don't catch on, please sing your song again."
