A somebody, or perhaps a nobody you never can tell just what an anony mous scribbler is exactly; attempts to criticise the board of immigration for not sending people into Yamhili coun ty. Aside from what The Reporter has contributed of its own, Yamhili county never evinced a disposition favorable to immigration. Those counties that furnish facts for immigrants get the most immigrants. Until Yamhili county does something in this line there is no room for complaint. The state funds are not used for counties any more than for individuals. Yambill county will need to do something to attract a portion of the immfgration that the state is trying to induce to come to Oregon. If we do not do something to secure a portion of it we will be the loser by the appropriation and other counties will get it. The $10,000 will all be gone by the close of the year, and next spring when immigration begins to pour into the state, we want to get our share of it. We have land for homes, and for stock range and for farming, and by expending a few dollars and a little energy in the right direction may be able to accomplish something; certainly not by growling.

Apperson, of that little city, in a few appropriate words introduced the speaker of the day, Hon. M. C. George, to the large crowd already assembled there. The barbecue was of much interest to me. A ditch was dug thirty feet long, three feet wide and three feet deep. A large fire was built and then, when only the coals remained. iron rods were placed across and the meat put upon the bars and roasted. Three beeves, nine sheep, two hogs ery Work at short notice. All goods en and three dozen salmon were roasted. The piece that came to me, as my share, was perfectly delicious. In ten minutes there was not a trace of the meats to be seen, so I think that others appreciated their part of the feast quite as much as I did.
