D. C. IRELAND & CO. PUBLISHERS,
McMinnville, Or. - Nov. 3, 1886

Wheat market unchanged. The late spurt is over.

The Silverton Appeal is much nicer printed all at home.

Henry Dunzer has not even a trace of the thief who stole his gun.

McMinnville needs a new city charter. Let us get together and talk it over. What do say to the proposition.

Tangent farmers are hauling wheat to Albany and shipping by boats to Corvallis and Portland.

It is reported that there are flocks of scabby sheep in the west side counties, and that Yamhill is not an exception.

There was only one old stiff in sight yesterday morning, and he was quietly moved off to the crematory. It was a peaceable election.

H. E. Happersett of Portland, has built one of the neatest residences in this city which is now in the hands of Mr. Wortman for a tenant.

It is reported that Al Young has gone to Chicago to buy an apple parer for J. O. Rogers. Mr. R. handed him $5 for the purchase just before he left here.

All the talk is the murder of Corker. A reward of $250 has been offered for evidence to catch and hang the murderer. It ought to be increased to a thousand.

A clue to the murder of D. I. Corker which may lead to the arrest of the perpetrator of the deed was reported last evening. Detectives are at work upon the case.

Portland business men do not emphatically endorse the new-fangled electric lights. They use them, but use gas also. McMinnville will be satisfied at first with gas and water.

Robert Henderson and wife left for Portland yesterday, where they will spend the winter with their daughters, Mrs. M. P. Deady, Mrs. John Catlin, Mrs. Ed Failing and Mrs. Dr. Story.

Yesterday we took a hasty look through the new hotel of our fellow citizen L. H. Cook. We are proud of that structure and wish we had a man just like Cook for each of the three corners opposite.

Canuto & Zanello are contractors for the stone pier of the Morrison street bridge, in Portland. There are three of these piers, and it is expected that the work will be completed in about sixty days.

There is a striking similarity in the name (Cummings), the size of the man, and the methods of operation of the Mareme robbery of Adams express, and a man who operated at Astoria and on Puget sound some years ago as a pretender inspecting WF&Cos offices.

Advices from Bralia, Roumania, say that feverish preparations for war are being made in southern Russia. A number of ironclads are expected at Sebastopol, several transports are riding at anchor in the harbor of Odessa, and torpedo boats are leaving for Tarna.

The lease of the ORN by the UPR said to be among the probabilities of the near future. A committee has been appointed by the directors of the latter line to look into the matter, and the plan has found such favor with the stockholders of both companies that in case the UPR secure the desired legislation next winter, permitting it to build branches and make leases by direct action of its own company, and the lease will no doubt be made.

A newspaper is a sure index to the town in which it is published. We mentally measure up a village or city by reading its newspaper. It is the traveling representative and advance agent of the town. It is carried all over the world for a trifle and reveals the brightness or stupidity of its surroundings in a great degree. While this is not an infallible rule, it is safe to say that people will have about as good a paper as they are willing to pay for. In some instances they get a better one.

Uncle David Powell, whose whole history is replete with loyal and patriotic devotion to the cause of human rights, has never recovered from the stroke of paralysis which he received a few months since. His mind is as clear as ever, with the exception that he cannot remember the names of individuals or things. In conversation he gets along very well until he wants to name some one, then he falters. He has forgotten his own even, also the letters of the alphabet. The moment, however, that one mentions the name of a person or object he mentally identifies it.

City Work to Do.

The first thing the new city council need to turn attention to is the disgraceful condition of the streets. The crossings are an abomination. A livery keeper informed us that $1,000 per month, $12,000 per year; just think of it; will not pay breakages to vehicles from this source alone. One stable keeper at Lafayette paid $40 last year for damages sustained to his rigs in this city.

It has been known for a year past that the Chicago and Northwestern was pushing west through Wyoming to a connection with the OPR. We recollect tracing the proposed line out upon a map in the board of trade rooms a year ago last December for the benefit of Portland capitalists whom we were endeavoring to enlist in reduction works, but our big cotemporary suggests that Albany people just now begin to look across the continent in the hope of being able to step on the cars at their own depot direct for the east. If somebody don't wake up faster than they have been doing down below the Willamette falls, they will find reduction works, packing houses and business of other kinds at Albany "which might have been" located in Portland.

Anybody can hatch chickens with an incubator, but it takes a large amount of science and eternal vigilance to raise them. Patrick Henry never said any thing more true than his memorable allusion to the price of a spring chicken, the cost of liberty being uncalculable. Patrick no doubt raised a few hens himself

Murder of D. I. Corker.

Coroner Narver was summoned to Lafayette yesterday morning to hold an inquest. That a murder had been committed was all he knew until he arrived upon the grounds. J. J. Spencer accompanied him. When they reached there the ghastly spectacle that presented itself to them was the almost headless body of D. I. Corker, who had been most foully murdered during the night. The head almost severed from the body, and a bloody axe which belonged in the store was the only evidence apparent that lead to any explanation of how the deed was done, and this silent monitor could not disclose the horrible secret. The supposition is that the man was murdered for his money. He was a bachelor and slept alone in a room at his store. He has for some time been engaged in selling off his stock, intending to quit business, and the supposition that he had considerable coin about the premises, in the absence of a bank in which to deposit, has probably lead to the murder. He was a good citizen, and had many friends, some of whom had known him for nearly a quarter of a century in Oregon. A sum of $250 has been offered for the apprehension of the murderer or murderers.

Firemens Meetings.

A regular meeting of H & L Co. will be held this evening at Firemen's hall at 7 o'clock sharp.

At 8 o'clock sharp a called meeting of the entire department will be held at the same place, for special business. By order of W. G. HENDERSON, Chief Engineer.

Look at H Street.

If a new broom sweeps cleaner than an old one, there is a beautiful opening on H street for the new city council to order a beginning. The railroad corporation has no exclusive right to make such an eye sore as that for the balance of the community.

Wanted

All persons indebted to me to call and settle their account immediately. F. W. REDMOND.

A Bargain.

The Exchange hotel of North Yamhill, containing twenty-two rooms in all, two stories high, is offered for sale for cash, or exchange for real estate. The house is well known to the traveling public, and doing a good business. The present proprietor's reason for selling is that he is too far advanced in age to attend to it, and is determined to sell if an opportunity is offered, even at a sacrifice. In fact he is bound to sell it if a customer comes. North Yamhill is as rapidly improving town as any on the west side, is the center of a large trade, the starting point for Tillamook bay, the resort for hunters and sportsmen in the summer season, and this is the best chance for a good man in the whole state. For further particulars address this office, or apply to J. Delap, North Yamhill, Oregon.

The east side now have better mail facilities, and we confidently hope that better may also soon be obtained on the west side. The McMinnville express should be a mail pouch and express carrier.
