

The Daily Reporter.

D. C. IRELAND & CO. PUBLISHERS,
McMinnville, Or. - Nov. 13, 1886

The fire bell has arrived and will be mounted next week.

H. F. Mayer of Sheridan, has been appointed notary public.

The days are getting too short at both ends to do much business.

The corporation cow has been stabled until the city gardens are more attractive.

The supreme court of Oregon says the Portland water committee is a legal body.

Hon. C. B. Watson has fallen into a good practice at Astoria. He is deserving of it.

W. H. Renfro, with McConnell, Chambers, & Co., Pullman, reports good times in that region.

The east Oregonian does not speak in very complimentary terms of Dr. G. H. Davis, located in Yamhill county.

The Weekly Reporter, a faithful and complete compendium of the week's news, is furnished for 16 1/2 cents a month.

Miss Esther Hash and Miss Lena Curl of Dayton, were in the city on Tuesday, and paid the Reporter office a welcome call.

Blackburn & Peckham made an assignment for the benefit of their creditors. It is thought they will be able to pay 50 cents on the dollar.

Dr. F. A. Baily, T. H. Tongue, J. H. Sewell and M. Collins have about completed their new creamery at Hillsboro. It will have a capacity for 200 milch cows.

Dr. G. H. Smith of Amity, was in the city yesterday. He reports Amity flourishing, with but few on the sick list. Old lady Goucher was not so well yesterday.

This evening and to-morrow, at the opera house, Geo. P. Colby, the eloquent inspirational speaker, of Orange city, Florida, will lecture. The public are very cordially invited to attend.

In Astoria a dozen of eggs sell for fifty-five cents now. The hen that laid them, dressed and ready to cook, sells for forty cents. Moral—Don't kill the hen that lays the golden egg.

Uncle Richard Cook has distributed about a barrel of as fine sour krout as was ever made, among the good people of this city. He will fill orders for any amount from a gallon up to a cask full.

By gosh; here's cheek. Lum Smith has got to calling us Dear Editor. What gall. No, Lum; no; none of those you refer to gall us half as badly as your devilish Herald. Send our copy to Buick, or to—anybody!

The public school exercises were interesting yesterday. Among the visitors present we noticed Mesdames H. A. Loughary, S. A. Manning, J. W. Gault, M. J. Washburne and E. L. E. White, also Messrs. Loughary, Burnett, Pond and C. Hussey.

Wonderful, isn't it, how very careless people are. Three letters were put in the post office this week, two without stamps upon them one for Mr. Nelson, Portland, very indefinite: and one for A. M. Harrison, Cottage Grove. Also one addressed to "Station 15, O," wherever that may be.

The brick work on the rebuilding of Sax's mill will probably be done by days work.

The retail stores of Third street were never more attractive than now. They make such beautiful displays that it is positively painful for busy people to pass without stopping to educate their taste by gazing in at the show windows.

The parties interested in the organization of a choral union, also all subscribers, are cordially invited to meet at Garrison opera house, on Tuesday evening next, November 16th, at the hour of 7 o'clock, p. m., sharp. A general invitation extended to all who desire to participate.

Subscribers to both the Daily and Weekly Reporter continue to reach us in numbers satisfactory. Among those added yesterday were Wm. Kapus, Portland, Dr. G. H. Smith, Amity, W. H. Renfro, Pullman, and Miles Hendricks, Astoria. If you have friends abroad send them the Reporter. It is better than a letter from home in many ways.

As fine a job of work as has been turned out of any shop in Oregon, is that done by W. F. Collard on the gun of Postmaster Wisecarver. The stock was broken off and iron work damaged, but Collard has put in a splendid English walnut stock, and it is about as nice, and equally as good as new. He is now at work on a repeating shot gun of his own invention.

It is mooted about that a neck-tie party is seriously contemplated in Lafayette, at which Sheriff Harris will not be present, if an angry multitude can by strategy prevent it. But that Marple will be. We hope not. As we have said before so we urge now, let the law take its proper course. This man may possibly be innocent, although the very strongest circumstances fix the guilt upon him and he stands accused as the assassin, the brutal slayer of D. I. Corker. As the Telegram says: "Evidence that there is a sturdy and full crop of desperadoes in this state, ripe for the gallows, is made apparent by the record of every week. Ex-convicts, many of whom are at liberty, not because of expired sentence but through mistaken clemency, abound. Marple is one of them. He only escaped the penitentiary a few years ago by that most villainous of all acts—turning state's evidence. The mawkish sentiment that insists upon considering the criminal under sentence the abused party in the case has much to do with this state of affairs. Humanity tempered with common sense and guided by a strict sense of justice toward society should rule our prison system. The penitentiary might and should be made so excellent a place to keep out of, that a criminal would hesitate long before exposing himself to a second term within its walls. Certain hanging for willful murder, and a sentence served to the full limit in a place that is not made more homelike than a prison should be for lesser crimes, would put such a restraint upon criminal propensities as would insure society immunity from much that is to it a perpetual menace and a downright scourge.

The Firemen's ball will be the finest affair of the year. Music by coachwhip string band, and supper by the popular caterer L. H. Cook. The program is fine.

A brother of Hon. J. A. C. Freund is here on a visit from Tulare, California, where they raise wheat by irrigation. Yesterday he felt as if he was going to be caught by a dew, and as a dry climate suits his health better, will bid his friends adieu and be off on the next steamer. We were pleased to make his acquaintance.
