Assessment and Taxation.

The farmers of Marion county will present the following petition to the legislative assembly: "We, the undersigned citizens and taxpayers of Marion county, would respectfully petition your honorable body for a change in the constitution of the state of Oregon, so as to give the legislature thereof full power to exempt all credits from assessments and taxation, and allow the state and each county therein to obtain revenue from the taxation of all real and tangible personal property, railroads, insurance, express and kindred corporations, and banking and other corporate capital; allowing no deduction for indebtedness or exemptions. Such a system would simplify the listing and assessment of property, and remove the vexed question connected with deduction of indebtedness. It would prevent the great fraud now practiced on the taxpayers of the state of Oregon. We would recommend your honorable body to amend the present law of assessment and not allow any deduction for indebtedness. We ask your honorable body for the enactment of a law providing for the election of precinct assessors. We also petition your honorable body for the repeal of all laws exempting firemen and members of the state militia companies from paying poll and road tax.

A physician was recently indicted in St. Paul for practicing without a license. It appears that he is a graduate of one of the oldest and best medical colleges in the east, and was refused a license by the state board because he advertises to cure diseases. The punctillious doctors of the board hold that it is unprofessional for a physician to inform the public that he can effect cures; he should only advertise that he treats diseases. Ordinary mortals suppose that the business of doctors is to cure sick people, but this, it seems, is a mistake. Medicine has been a science for 3,000 years, yet, according to this board it is an indictable offense for a doctor to announce that he can cure any complaint whatever. The next legislature will do well to curb the arbitrary power of the examining board to say who shall practice medicine in the state of Minnesota and who shall not. No other qualification should be imposed than evidence of graduation at a well-known medical school. When other tests are set up professional jealousy will be much more potent with the members of the board than concern for the public welfare.

A few days since the queen of Spain entered the royal nursery and found the young nurse weeping piteously. Upon inquiry as to her trouble she replied that his majesty, Alphonso XIII, while nursing had given her a painful bite. A lady in waiting was called, who was dispatched to the chamberlain, who sent for the family physician, and upon examination it was discovered that the royal infant had cut a tooth. A well-filled purse fell into the lap of the nurse from the queenly fingers for having first been made aware of the happy event.
