The Children.

When the lessons and tasks are all ended,

And the school for the day is dismissed,

And the little ones gather around me,
To bid me good night and be kissed;
Oh, the little white arms that encircle
My neck in a tender embrace!

Oh, the smiles that are halos of heaven,
Shedding the sunshine of love in my face!

And when they are gone I sit dreaming
Of my childhood, too lovely to last;
Of love that my heart will remember,
When it wakes to the love of the past—

Ere the world and wickedness made me
A partner of sorrow and sin;

When the glory of God was about me,
And the glory of gladness within.

Oh, my heart grows as weak as a woman's,

And the fountains will flow,
When I think of the paths deep and stony,

Where the feet of the dear ones must go;

Of the fountains of sin hanging o'er them,
Of the tempest of Fate blowing wild;

Oh, there is nothing on earth half so holy
As the innocent heart of a child!

They are idols of hearts and of households;

They are angels of God in disguise;
His sunlight still sleeps in their tresses,
His glory still gleams in their eyes;

Oh, those truants from home and from heaven,

They have made me more manly and mild,

And I know how Jesus could liken
The Kingdom of God to a child.

I ask not a life for the dear ones,
All radiant as others have done;
But that life may have just enough shadow

To temper the glare of the sun;
I would pray God to guard them from evil,

But my prayer would bound back to myself,

Ah! a seraph may pray for a sinner,
But a sinner must pray for himself.

The twig is so easily bended,
I have banished the rule and the rod,
I have taught them the goodness of knowledge,

They have taught me the goodness of God;

My heart is a dungeon of darkness,
Where I shut them for breaking a rule;

My frown is sufficient correction,
My love is the law of the school.

I shall leave the old house in the autumn,
To travel its threshold no more;

Ah! how I shall sigh for the dear ones
That meet me each morn at the door;

I shall miss the "goodnights," and the kisses

And the gush of their innocent glee,
The group on the green, and the flowers
That are brought every morning to me.

I shall miss them at morning and evening,

Their song in the school and the street;

I shall miss the low hum of their voices,
And the tramp of their delicate feet.

When the lessons and tasks are all ended,
And Death says, "The school is dismissed,"

May the little ones gather around me,
To bid me good night and be kissed.

—Charles Dickens.
