Snow appeared in East Portland and Albina last Tuesday to the depth of three feet, upon the ORN snow plough, from the Inland Empire:

The snow plough, the beautiful snow plough, Bating the drifts that you get through no how; Nobody thanks you for what you don't do, Ever, one thinks that you ought to go through; Raving, Crying, Raising a row, Nobody loves you, sturdy snow plough.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Bettman's son Henry, in Leipzig under a musical course of study, is progressing remarkably fine. He had the honorable distinction of an invitation to play at an entertainment Nov. 22d. The selections given to him were some of the most difficult. His teachers are very much encouraged, and prevail upon him not to change from Leipzig at present.
