Gov. Gibbs, died in London on the 30th.

A train from The Dalles got through to Portland night before last.

While the Salvationists were parading Portland streets on Sunday with torch and song two Dutchmen, a big and a little one, dropped out of the line at the saloon corner of Second and Morrison; the little Dutchman saying to the big one, "Fritz let's drop oud and get some beer, dey vill not miss us."

Hon. D. P. Thomson and other capitalists of Portland, have become interested in the town of Nampa, which they will endeavor to make the principal railroad town in the Boise region. The railroad company have expressed a determination of making that place the shipping point to both Boise and Silver, in place of Kuna.

Executive clemency in this latter day was illustrated last week when President Cleveland pardoned an embezzler of $200,000, serving his sentence in the Chester, Illinois, penitentiary. The president pardoned him on account of statements in several petitions that prisoner had already suffered a sufficient penalty. He has been in two years and a half.

R. G. Head, president of the International Range association, expresses himself in favor of enlarging the powers of the bureau of animal industry. Colorado cattlemen sustain Mr. Head. Telegrams from numerous sections of the range country to the Colorado association are to the same effect. Mr. Head has addressed the secretary of the treasury, asking him to prohibit the importation of cattle from all countries where bovine diseases exist.

It is said that the tender of the senatorship was made to Mackay by the Nevada Solons because other candidates failed to put up the coin for it. An agreement between the men who would like the place, not to spend more than $100,000 in the contest, caused the legislature to look elsewhere for candidates who will "pan out" better. Mackay does not want it at any price. There is a prospect that the politicians in the state will have to emigrate. The mines are about exhausted and if the demand for the senatorship disappears also, there will be no means left of making a living.

Washington city has the first specimen of Bartholdi's work ever seen in this country. It is not to be wondered at that this fact is not generally known, for the work was stupidly hidden away in the low, flat grounds adjoining the botanical gardens, where it is never seen. It is in the shape of a magnificent bronze fountain, and was brought to this country to be exhibited at the Centennial Exhibition at Philadelphia. The government purchased it and it was sent to Washington and stowed away for several years in the basement of the capitol. Finally somebody discovered it, and it was set upon the low ground, where it now stands, hidden by a great iron fence and out of harmony with its surroundings. The water supply in that part of the city is so feeble that the fountain is never kept playing. The dust has accumulated upon it, and the grand work is now in such a sad case of neglect that it is to be hoped that the liberty and American loving Bartholdi, if he should chance to visit Washington, may pass on without discovering its hiding place.

Senator Mitchell has submitted resolutions calling on the Secretary of war to answer the following: Is it true that Capt. Powell has reduced wages of the employes at the Cascades to so low a figure that great numbers ceased to work, and if said reduction of wages has any effect of reduction of work? Whether The Cascades of the Columbia, a steam vessel built by the government by the United States engineers at a cost of $70,000, for the use of the canal and locks, is being used on the jetty works at St. Helens, eighty miles from the canal and locks? Whether it is true, as alleged, that a steam launch built for use at the canal and locks, by order of the United States engineers and paid for out of moneys appropriated for the construction of the canal and locks, is now in use as an excursion boat for army officers at Vanconver? And whether it is true that the cost of maintaining these boats is about $10,000 per year, and if this sum is taken from the appropriation for said canal and locks?
