Calling attention to the fact that twelve eighty ton guns are on the way from England to Victoria, the New York Herald says that if all the large guns possessed by this government were mounted in San Francisco they would need to protect that city against even one of the twelve eighty ton guns.

The Washington Republican asks: "Has the republican party such a surplus of strength that some of its great newspapers can afford to devote their energies to onslaughts on its illustrious leaders? There is too much ghoulish glee in republican assaults on republicans. Save your shot for "our friends, the enemy."

Senator Stanford is going to invest $600,000 in a yacht to test a principle of speed claimed by the designer, Capt. Lunberg, of the Swedish navy, that he can build a ship which will make an average speed of twenty-four knots an hour, and possess greater capacity than any of the fast trans-Atlantic steamers. Until he met Senator Stanford he could find neither a government nor a private individual who was willing to test the experiment. Senator Stanford finally decided to expend that sum in the interest of commerce. The yacht, when finished, will be turned over to the government for the exact amount it will cost to build her, if so desired.

Bradstreet's take about as much stock in a general Eastern war this year as we do; but Russia wants a lot of war materials, tents, cloaks, shoes, etc., all to be delivered not a day later than April 1st. So the preparations go on. One day we are assured that all trouble is ended and peace assured, and the next comes such a note as the above, and the general indication is that the hosts of the white Czar will move south about the time that the ice moves in the Danube. Should it progress, the United States will produce the wheat, and Europe will buy it.

CURRENT THOUGHT.

Some indefatigable statistician has figured it out that the government pays $7,000 an hour for pensions.

The mammoth lens of the Lick observatory, the largest one in the world, have arrived in California.

The Suez canal is to be widened to accommodate the increasing traffic through that route, the Egyptian government having given its permission.

Associate Justice Woods, of the United States supreme court is at Los Angeles, Cal., dangerously ill, and little hope is entertained of his recovery.

Beecher says he could neither converse nor read in English railway cars. He found that in the one he had to raise his voice, and in the other his eyes became tired, and it was impossible to read with any degree of comfort.

Senator Platt's resolution to consider the nominations of the president with open doors was a wholly good and proper one, and the cause given for opposition to it was so puerile as to be unworthy of serious consideration.

T. C. Judkins, Washington correspondent of the Oregonian, states that personal relations between Senator and Mrs. Logan and Senator and Mrs. Dolph were very friendly. A congressman speaking on this point remarked that had Logan ever been elected president, Dolph would certainly have been a member of the cabinet.

Pinkerton's detectives have ferreted out the express robbers of last April, and secured about $50,000 of the money. As soon as the press reporters dropped on to Pinkerton's little game they began peeping through key holes, and over transoms, to beat the detectives, but the latter kept the secret until they were prepared to disclose it without loss to their clients.

The storm at Tillamook light made things howl on the 16th, and it seemed as though the end of all things had come so far as the Tillamook rock light house was concerned, when, suddenly, at the very height of the fury of the storm, the force of the waves abated, greatly to the relief of the keeper and his assistants, who essayed to repair damages. The next day the surface of the ocean was as calm and smiling as the placid bosom of a sun lit lake, and a skiff could cross to the mainland.

Perhaps no school book ever published in America has enjoyed such a phenomenal success as Barnes' brief History of the United States. First published in 1870, its clear, logical and systematic arrangement, its concise presentation of the salient facts in the history of the country, its charming style, so different from the dull, prosaic chronicles then in use throughout the United States, attracted the attention of educators everywhere, and it at once became a general favorite in the school-room. Year by year, since that time, the demand for it has continued to increase, to such extent, that it may be safely said that more copies of it are sold annually than of any three books of its class now before the public. It may be said moreover, that it is the only school history which is truly national, for it is used in every state in the Union.

Talking with C. A. Wallace yesterday, who is an importer and breeder of Holstein stock, we were more than ever convinced that his is "the right idea." Last week W. W. Spaulding of Portland slaughtered five head of half-grade Holstein steers taken fresh from pasture on J. B. Knapp's farm. The steers were raised on grass alone never having been fed a mouthful of grain and were as good as any stalled beef ever killed. Two of the steers, 3-year-olds weighed, live weight, 2970 pounds, 2 2-yr-olds, 2790 pounds, and a 20-months-old steer, 1200 pounds. The net weight of the three largest, is 2400 pounds and of the five, 3790 pounds, nearly 55 per cent. of the live weight of the cattle. These cattle are an example of enhanced profits from breeding good common cows to a pure-bred bull of superior stock in preference to the too common practice of using scrub bulls for that purpose. As it is, in this instance, these Holstein steers brought their owner at least $12 more per head than they could have been sold for had they been from scrub stock.
