The Evening Reporter.

Commencing with Monday next, THE DAILY REPORTER will appear as an evening paper, instead of a morning issue. This change is brought about by the urgent demand for an evening journal, and at the request of many patrons, and in order to fill certain requirements that a morning daily cannot meet. The success that has attended the venture from the start, gives great encouragement to the proprietors, who are now actively preparing greater improvements than ever in connection with their publishing business.

The daily is no longer an experiment but an established fact. The prosperity of this community has been argued fully 200 per cent. by its publication, and it is recognized all over the state as a live, wide-awake and progressive vehicle of popular favor.

As the procession moves, we'll be found near the band.

A Connundrum.

Some one signing himself "D" and writing from Sublimity to the Salem Statesman, propounds the following for the new executive: Gov. Pennoyer's message says the money loaning class is the most prosperous. The governor owns a saw mill in Portland, and if reports are true, he has made money faster and more of it in proportion to the capital invested than any bank or money loaner in the state, and if report does not likewise do him injustice, he has been an active party in a combination of the mills within the reach of Portland to put up the price of lumber to a much higher figure than it was selling for under competition. Isn't that as bad as the corporation, and worse than "Chinese cheap labor?" And yet he does not ask the legislature to regulate the price of lumber.

The Statesman of the 26th, fires a solid shot when it says:

Some other man wants to be circuit judge with next to nothing to do, at a salary of $3,000 a year, and a bill is before the legislature for another judicial district. If the legislature would take the trouble to intelligently re-district the state, it would find that we have one superfluous district already. The seven we now have could easily be put into six, and then several of the judges of these would not be employed half the time. As it is some of them are not now employed more than one-third of the time. What the people want is more district and less judges.

Editorial Notes.

Thos. Steven's claim to fame is that he has just ridden round the world on a bicycle, the first man that ever did such a thing.

The happiest couple in Des Moines got mad at each other ten years ago, and each determined not to speak first. They have lived together very happily ever since. They can't quarrel without breaking their resolutions.

House bill No. 107, introduced by Mr. Lafollette, of Sheridan, and read the first time, is an act to create and authorize a commissioner of strays. Its object is to restore straying stock to their owners. The bill is a good one and will undoubtedly pass.

Concerning the new girl baby at Secretary Whitney's house, it is stated that it is to be named Frances Cleveland, in pursuance to a promise made to Mrs. Cleveland several weeks ago. Senator Payne, of Ohio, the baby's grandfather, drew his check this afternoon for $10,000 as a present for the little one.

The recent rains have swollen the sluggish Pudding river to a roaring torrent. On Sunday night the old mill-dam on the McAllister place, six miles east of this city, gave way, carrying with it the wagon-road bridge and the railroad bridge below. The latter is on a switch of the Narrow Gauge line, and will not interfere with the running of trains.

The editorial "we" is on the wane. The signed editorial is now common in many newspapers, and before many years it is thought all the newspaper editorials will be signed by the author. This will be rough on those who scoop indiscriminately from their exchanges.—Astorian Not at all. Clip the name off, you, goose. Next?

The Portland Democrat states that the manager of the Casino opera house "had twins a day or two ago." The Democrat must certainly be mistaken. Now Hal, what's the use? Te, he!

It is a sad fact that the two New England pulpits which are most attractive just now are occupied by men who have been charged with adultery and have not been able to secure acquittal. This is discouraging to thousands of pure and able clergymen who preach to "a beggarly array of empty benches."

Associate-Editor Jackson, of the East Oregonian, Senator Wager's paper, has been subpoenaed to appear before the committee appointed by the legislature to investigate the Siglin-Wagner controversy, with files of the East Oregonian dating from the 1st to the 20th of the current month, on Wednesday next, for authority as to articles that have appeared in that paper in relation to Senator Siglin.—Salem Statesman.
