CITY.

Receipts of the fair last night were $73.85. The broom drill and Choral Union this evening.

Dr. Taylor goes to Corvallis on Wednesday and Thursday of each week to attend cases he is treating there.

Friends of Lowell Lynch gave him a superb surprise party last evening, on the occasion of his 21st birthday anniversary.

Miles Hendricks is painfully afflicted with Job's comforters. Leslie Laughlin and Thos. Rogers have returned from Astoria.

Dr. Crisman's little Jersey has a calf, and Doc is proud of the richness of the lacteal fluid about his premises. He says it's clear cream.

Keep your "piles" and keep your money, if you wish; that is one of the blessings we enjoy under the government in which we live.

Mrs. I. C. Lawrence is suffering from a broken arm, received by a fall at her home in this city Monday evening. Both upper bones of the left arm were broken.

We have received from the secretary of state full reports of the different state officials, bound in pamphlet form. They are very important as matters of reference.

A package of seeds from the well known house of D. M. Ferry & Co., Detroit, Mich., have been received at this office. The reputation of the seeds stand high with horticulturists.

The Lafayette Register seems to have discovered last week that one of the greatest difficulties in the way of publishing a newspaper is the fact that it takes a man a lifetime to find out who will not take a joke.

People cannot be too careful during this changeable weather. Dry, warm feet, well clad bodies, avoidance of drafts and a little care about passing from warm rooms to the cold open air, are sensible precautions, and easily observed, unless you are a pupil of the McMinnville school, as was graphically pictured in one of the brief addresses made by visitors yesterday. We are sensible to the fact that our taxpayers are gradually awakening to a realizing sense of the situation.

Miss Sperry is visiting her sister, Mrs. Dr. Tucker, and taking in the fair.

W. H. Young has a copy of an Albany paper printed way back, Dec. 6, 1836. It is on exhibition at the art gallery.

J. D. Edward's visits to this city are increasing in number and becoming prolonged in their stay. Perhaps he may locate here after awhile.

One of the notable things in the art gallery at the fair is a mirror, which reflects a person so that he or she may see herself as others see.

Mr. and Mrs. Mayhew, of Corvallis, left yesterday for Portland after a visit to the parents of Mrs. M. in this city, Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Lawrence.

Major Brown, of Amity, who always congregates where there is an abundance of all the good things of this sphere, was mixing with the jolliest of the jolly at the fair last night.

The editor of the Reporter war pressed into service last evening as reader of the conundrums. No man knows the pleasures afforded one to stand in front of a sea of upturned faces and speak your little speech, or make your little address, unless experience has been had; but to stand up and read conundrums! that's joy. Hon. Wm. Galloway got away with us at the school in the forenoon, but was'nt our revenge sweet when we unrolled the scroll and made that comparison between the democracy of McMinnville and the young man in Oregon who left his sweetheart back in Iowa. "Both have a Gal-a-way." Grissen pretended that we'd lost the last conundrum, but it was never in the book. We acknowledge the corn, however, and ordered apollinaris and a pitcher of ice water for the crowd. Harv. Henderson was annoyed because his catalogue wasn't read; but we will print it to-morrow for certain. Clyde Apperson retired; and Robbins sang. The ladies did themselves and the fair justice and all moved off happily.

Miss Belle Johnson, teacher of music in McMinnville and at McMinnville college. Residence corner of Second and C Streets.

A gentleman walking up Third street yesterday, discovered a five dollar piece in his pocket. He turned and went into Bishop & Kays, where he purchased a fine lot of toilet goods, and while in the store found out that overcoats were going off at cost this week.

Services at St. James church Ash Wednesday 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. and on Thursday Meditation at 4 p. m. Confirmation lecture at 7:30 p. m. Friday. Cards for all lenten services may be had from the Rector, Rev. John C. Fair, or any member of the vestry.

Hon. J. W. Maxwell, of Nertarts, Or., called to-day. Mr. M. states that he has been trying to get home for some time, but owing to the snow on the mountains, he has not got started yet. He will go out with the mail carrier this p. m. via Grand Ronde and Nestucca, and if he gets through, he will have to walk twenty miles up the beach before reaching home. What Tillamook county needs and demands is an easier way of reaching the world than climbing over mountains covered with snow.

The congressional committee on claims recommends the payment of losses sustained by Chinese residents of Washington territory incident to the eviction from Tacoma, and the riot caused by attempted eviction at Seattle. These aggregate $4167. The result is a fit sequel to the effort made by lawless citizens to keep United States coin out of the hands of Chinese. The law abiding residents of that territory who denounced the riotous crusade against the Chinese and its leaders last spring, may congratulate themselves in this instance that they have a territorial instead of a state organization and can call upon the general government to foot the bill.

He had too much brains,
We are sorry to say;
But he couldn't help it,
For he ain't built that way.
