The Dayton Herald says it has just received a machine for making letter heads and bill heads into blocks. That must be a good invention way out there on the prairie where wood is scarce.

It is said the rapidity with which Charleston is being rebuilt is wonderful. The earthquakes having now let go, the process of rebuilding the devastated city is the chief occupation of thousands.

"Now, Tommy," said the school teacher, who was hearing the class in dry measure. "What do two pints make?" "Two pints," promptly responded Tommy, "make dad howling drunk for two days."

"Did you ever hear 'The Maiden's Prayer?'" asked a drummer of a merchant who had five daughters. "Did I ever? You bet I have, with all the variations from matinee tickets to sealskin sacques."

From a poem published in the Mobile Register we take this sample verse:

Out of its scabbard, never hand
Waved sword from stain as free,
Nor purer sword laid braver band,
Nor braver bled for a brighter land,
Nor brighter land had a cause so grand,
Nor cause a chief like Lee.

The steamer Yaquina City in passing out Sunday last, ran on the north spit of Yaquina bay where she remained about ten or fifteen minutes, with the assistance of a tug she was finally floated off and proceeded to sea.

Mr. G. W. Banister, of Cherokee, Iowa, is visiting his brother, Miles Banister, near Dayton. Mr. B. arrived over the N.P.R.R. and was 8 days coming from his home. The meeting of the brothers was a happy one, not having seen each other for nearly 40 years.—Herald.

Representative O'Neill, of Missouri, chairman of the committee on labor, obtained recently from Secretary Endicott a positive assurance that hereafter the military band at St. Louis will not be allowed to compete with local bands, and will only be permitted to take contracts for outside work where there are no local bands. This will also apply to other points where military bands come in competition with private bands. Ahem! "This means Vancouver or it means nothing."

D. C. Ireland is expected home to-night.

The Dayton Herald boldly asks "where is hell." Well; we do not like to plead ignorance on a small subject like that, and if the party will spend a month in a country printing office he will have no difficulty in finding where hell is, and it millions of disciples.

The charade party was a perfect success, last evening. There were about eight couple in attendance.
