CITY.

Kathleen Mavourneen, Friday night.

The air was somewhat Chili this morning, for Oregon.

The ladies Guild will meet at Miss Ireland's, on Wednesday March 9th, at 2 p. m.

Grass is king. Look at $40 per ton for hay; then say it don't pay to keep your straw.

J. A. Wisner, special agent of the Mutual life insurance company of New York, is at Cook's hotel.

A new counter with convenient pockets for nails, just added to the sales room at Jones & Co's. is worthy of notice.

Every time you grease your boots recollect the home product, made by T. Rodgers, Portland, and advertised in the Reporter.

Felt cloths in colors, with crescents and fringe to match, all new and handsome goods, at E. B. Fellows furniture ware-rooms.

S. A. Manning has lost his fine Bellfounder brood mare and colt. Both died from blind staggers. Billy Kuhns lost two horses the same way.

Our city has now the services of our active fellow townsman, Chas. Grissen, who has been selected to fill the vacancy in the council created by the resignation of D. C. Narver.

There is no longer any need of steering clear of this city from points south east in consequence of that terrible haul up from the west end of the long bridge. It is fixed.

Jones & Co. turned out this forenoon as handsome work as the best in large cities anywhere, in shape of stair bannisters, post and rail, made by Henry Schank, for his new house on Fourth street.

Emma Heath, the great emotional actress, supported by the strongest dramatic company ever brought to the coast, will play a two nights engagement at Garrison Opera house Friday and Saturday evenings, March 4th and 5th, opening Friday night in Kathleen Mavourneen.

Reserved seats 75 cts., on sale at Rogers & Todd's drug store. General admission 50 cents.

What We Learned.

While in Portland we learned that:

Huntington, Crocker, et al., will be in Oregon very soon to stay;

An effort with some hope of success, is being made to transfer our narrow gauge system to the Huntington syndicate;

Notwithstanding the fact that congress neglected to grant the UPR power to lease branch lines, the acts of the Oregon assembly is sufficient to enable them to lease the ORN, and the bridge will be built;

A soon as the Morrison street bridge is finished much of the curb stone business will be transferred from Stark street;

W. S. Ladd can tell about as good a joke now as he told previous to his becoming associated with the Bull Run water movement;

Hon. Wm. Reid does now not propose; nor never did propose; to run his railway through any graves, to get to Portland from Elk rock. It will cross a narrow strip of waste land below the cemetery, along the river bank. But the way of putting things by metropolitan journals lead to the supposition, from some sources, that he wanted to be a bad man in this matter;

S. G. Reed has the finest stable of roadsters in Portland, breeding them all with one exception; but in most every case sold them as colts and bought them back as horses;

Kirk Sheldon will have to seek new quarters soon as his store is to be cut up into slices and retailed to smaller holders at an advance;

C. W. Knowles' Arctic owl, at the St. Charles hotel, is not an Arctic owl. That Dr. Willis E. Everette, practical mining expert and consulting geologist, has the only perfect specimen in Oregon. This he obtained while upon an expedition to far away Alaska, and he is the best posted man in the state upon mining and geological matters, and ought to be in the employ of Uncle Sam;

Rail road commissioners will not be appointed under the act passed by the assembly before about the 1st; that then some people will be sadly April fooled. That Gov. Pennoyer is trying to select able men for the position because the statistics which this commission will collate may possibly prove to be the only practical results obtained.

Spring stock is arriving at A. J. Apperson's from New York city, San Francisco and the manufacturies. His new stock will be a large one, of the best selection of clothing, hats caps, boots, shoes, etc. Look out for the new ad. next Monday.

Dakota is shipping her paupers to Oregon. The last installment was a partly demented man named Riley, with five orphans. It was a pitiable scene to look upon. In company with Judge Catlin we visited them in the county jail at Portland. The man was sent to the asylum, and the children placed in good hands.

Lecture.

The Rev. John C. Fair will lecture to-night at St. James church at 7:30. Subject: "God the Object of Religion." In this and the lectures which are to follow, an attempt will be made to insist upon some of the truths which are most fundamentally related to the souls religious life as they come in contact with some forms of modern thought. All are invited to attend.
