Remarks at the Grave.

Following is the text of remarks made at the burial of Hon. John G. Baker, by Rev. T. H. Henderson. We quote the Telephone this morning :

old and well respected citizens has just passed away, and we now come to lay respect due to him as an old and honored citizen of the community.

John G. Baker-we all knew him as Uncle John-was born in Madison county, Kentucky, October 7, 1818, and died in McMinnville, Oregon, March 4, 1887, aged 68 years, 4 months and 25 days. Early in life Father Baker moved irom Kentucky to Missourt, where he married the faithful wife who survives him. In 1843 he came with his family from Mis-souri to this country grossing the plane. souri to this country, crossing the plains with ox teams. In 1844 he settled on a donation claim just north of this town, which he owned at the time of his death. It is said he was the first white man who settled between the North and South Yamhill rivers. He was sheriff of this county under both the provisional and state government, which shows something of the esteem in which he was held by the people who lived here in that early day. From these statements it will be seen that he was one of the very early settlers in this section of country. We are not yet fully prepared to correctly estimate the value of the services that he and others who came here in an early day rendered to our whole country by opening up this territory, which was then inhabited almost exclusively by savages, to settlement by citizens of the states of our American republic. What they did in that early day, under the greatest disadvantages, went far to give this vast northwestern territory to our nation. Their coming here was an event of inter-national importance. It touched the relations between this country and England, and affected, to some extent, the subsequent career and destiny of both. In opening this country to settlement by civilized people, Father Baker and others who came here in a very early day were opening the way for all the splendid works which have followed, and giving to civilization the opportunity to gain the glittering and enduring triumphs it has gained and is gaining among us and will gain among those who shall follow us forever. They were preparing the way for, and making possible, the schools of every grade that now so thickly dot the whole north Pacific coast, and the educational work that has been done, is now being done and will forever be done. We some times grow impa-tient with our old men because they are not more progressive. But let us not F. forget that through struggles and self-denial that we are probably incapable of, they made the progress we enjoy, and that for which we clamor, possible. But let us not expect of them when they have grown old the views, purposes and work that were intended for younger and better equipped minds and hands. Father Baker and others who braved the difficulties and dangers that must be endured and overcome to plant our civilizations and institutions here were opening the way for all the christian work that has since been done and is now being done among us. The churches that have been built, the spiritual triumphs that have been gained, the sweet experiences that have been enjoyed, that we have to-day enjoyed, in this beauti-ful valley and far beyond it, were made possible by what they did and en-dured in the days of pioneer struggles and sufferings. In opening the way for the planting and development of all our wonderful institutions here, they were also opening the way for the transfer of some of these institutions-burdened with blessings of this generation and other generations of men yet to live-to share our blessings and joys forever. And beyond these, China and Japan have felt, still feel and will feel to the latest generation the influences set in motion and the blessings sent abroad by the efforts of our pioneers. These men —many of whom are already dead and -many of whom are already dead, and others in ripe old age are waiting to be called hence-have, it will be seen, not only done much to influence the people and institutions around them, but have done something to determine the career and work of civilization upon earth. Gathered around the cold and silent form of one of their number who contributed his share to these grand results let us reverently lift our hats and stand uncovered in this presence.

When I was invited and had consented to conduct this service I felt The purpose for which we are together impressed to pay this feeble and inis understood by all present. One of our adequate tribute to the dear old pioneers old and well respected citizens has just who will soon all be gone from us to the rewards of eternity. Father Baker, around whose form we now stand, was a his body to rest and pay the tribute of quiet and orderly citizen, respected, so far as I know, by all who knew him, and he was known and well known to all the old citizens and to many of the younger people and later comers in the community. And now as we bid him good bye, I do not believe there is a sin-
